CRASH AFTERMATH finds attendants wheeling victims to ambulances, left, while rescuers crawl through crushed windows of overturned bus, right, to remove more casualties. By STEPHEN MONTIEL

MARTINEZ (AP) — A bus carrying a high-school choir to a concert smashed through a guardrail Friday and landed upside down on the ground 30 feet below, killing 28 persons and injuring 24 others.

The California Highway Patrol said the driver lost control of the chartered bus while negotiating a sharp turn on a highway off-ramp. The bus landed on the hard-packed earth, flattening the roof and crushing victims in their seats.

A patrol spokesman said records showed two traffic convictions for the driver — one for drunk driving in 1970 and one for speeding last year. He survived the crash but was seriously injured.

"WE'RE REALLY GOING to work this one over from an investigation standpoint," said Kent Milton, the spokesman.

Twenty-six died at the scene of the crash, described by one rescuer as resembling a war zone. Police said one other person died en route from the scene and another died at one of the hospitals where the injured were rushed by more than 20 ambulances summoned to Martinez, a suburb east of San Francisco.

"It was like a bad dream," said Perry Martin, 18-year-old senior who awoke from a nap inside the toppling bus. "All I can remember is waking up and seeing everything turning around and around and around."

The accident was one of the worst bus tragedies in state history. On Sept. 17, 1963, 32 Mexican farm labor-

U.S. policy rift denied

By KENNETH J. FREED

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Secretary of State Henry Kissinger on Friday denied that the White House has undercut his foreign policy and declared that he and President Ford are in complete accord on American diplomacy.

"There has been complete unanimity," Kissinger told a news conference at the conclusion of a two-day meeting of North Atlantic foreign ministers. "Every initiative has been discussed in full detail and ordered by the President."

The ministers ended their meeting with a joint communique warning of a growth in Soviet military strength and stressing NATO's continued commitment to "deterrent and defensive strength" as a necessary basis for improved East-West relations.

THE statement also voiced concern over the lack of progress in U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation talks; the continued instability in the Middle East and Communist efforts to limit the right of West Germany to represent West Berlin.

Kissinger's news conference was called to discuss the NATO meeting, but politics quickly came to the fore.

While asserting that he and Ford were in full agreement on foreign policy, Kissinger said there may be "this or that person who has nothing to do with foreign policy who may be mumbling something in the corridors of the White House" against him.

On related matters:

—The secretary declined to reopen the question of his resignation by year's end. He said previous statements — that he would prefer to leave but may stay if Ford asked him to — still stand, and "I will say no more about my personal plans."

—He said published reports that he was unhappy with President Ford's political methods were eligible "for the Pulitzer Prize for fiction."

—Kissinger said his statements about the adverse foreign policy effect of extreme positions by presidential candidates applied only to Ford's opponents and not to the President.

—Asked if the White House had undercut his foreign policy, particularly after his recent trip to Africa, the secretary loudly declared: "Absolutely not. First of all, I don't believe that what is being said by the White House is any different from the foreign policy that is being conducted."

That means, Kissinger said, his voice rising, "I have no feeling of being undercut."

—He denied reports that while in Africa he had taken decisions unknown to Ford which hurt the President in the Texas Republican primary.

"There is no independent foreign policy being conducted," the secretary said. All aspects of the Africa trip were discussed in full with Ford before Kissinger left, he said, and all initiatives were ordered by the President.

New 'pals' shoot trio, toss another off cliff

REDDING (AP) — Three college students were shot and apparently left for dead and a fourth was thrown over a cliff by two young men who befriended them at a campground, a victim said Friday.

"They were real nice fellas, right up until the time one of 'em pulled a gun on us," James MacCabe, 19, of Rolling Hills said.

MacCabe was released from a hospital where he was treated for injuries suffered when he was thrown over a cliff by the assailants Thursday night at a Lake Shasta campground. His three companions remained hospitalized.

Siskiyou County sheriff's deputies using airplanes and bloodhounds combed the rolling farmland 85 miles north of Redding for the two men who escaped on foot after police chased them on Interstate 5.

The assailants stole the victims' car. They were spotted in Weed before they left the car and escaped on foot, deputies said.

MacCabe's three classmates from the UC Santa Cruz campus, all 19, were shot once each. They were under treatment at northern California hospitals. They are:

—Jeremy Grainger of San Gabriel, wounded in the chest and reported in fair condiction at Sacramento Medical Center.

—Laura Goldman of San Francisco, shot in the stomach and reported in guarded condition at Redding Mercy Hospital.

MacCabe gave this account:

They got to Antlers Campground about 9:30 p.m. After dinner, they met a man, about 20, and asked him how the swimming was in the lake.

The man said there was a better campground several miles up the road. They returned to their campground, and another man was there.

The students decided to drive to the better spot, and one of the men asked, "Can you give us a ride?"

One of the girls said, "We're kind of crowded, but okay."

Then one man came up. He had a gun and yanked one of the students out of the car. The four were marched into the picnic area.

There the two men took wallets and purses, then tried to tie all four to a picnic table, but there was not enough rope.

They talked of tying them to a tree, but decided against it.

So the students were taken to the top of a 40-foot cliff. Grainger and the women were ordered to disrobe and they were tied together. There was enough rope to just tie MacCabe's feet.

While he was on the ground, MacCabe said one of the men smiled at him and boasted, "I've killed three or four people."

"The guy looked proud of the fact that he had done that," MacCabe said.

Then MacCabe said he was picked up and thrown off the cliff.

Then he heard four shots. One of the girls screamed and moaned.

MacCabe climbed up, found a person with a citizen's band radio in the park and called authorities.

$3.2 million released to primary candidates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential primary candidates received $3.2 million in federal campaign funds Friday as a whirlwind of activity ended a two-month cutoff of the matching money.

The fresh infusion of campaign dollars was certain to help candidates whose budgets had been drained by the grueling string of presidential primaries.

—A White House swearing-in ceremony of Springer and five reappointed commissioners

Ford tells Levi it's his busing decision

By MARGARET GENTRY

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford reassured Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi on Friday that Levi alone will decide whether to use the Boston school desegregation case to seek new Supreme Court guidelines limiting busing.

"He said the decision is up to me," Levi told reporters after an hour-long session with the President.

THE attorney general said he recognizes his decision may become a factor in the national political campaign, particularly since Ford faces a primary election Tuesday in Kentucky, where busing has been an issue.

But Levi said, "As far as I'm concerned there's no politics involved. I take it as a fact of life that there has been all this discussion. I don't know whether it has made it more difficult or not because you learn to live with that."

DEPARTMENT spokesman Robert Havel said Levi expects to reach his decision next week. He described the session between Ford and Levi as "an in-depth discussion of the pros and cons" of using the Boston case to bring the busing issue before the Supreme Court.

Ford himself characterized it as a "very long and important session."

Levi and Ford discussed only the Boston case and did not go into other busing alternatives Ford says he is considering, Havel reported.

Meanwhile, 26 members of Congress wrote Levi a letter Friday saying it would be "reckless indeed" to back antibusing forces in the Boston case.

"The Justice Department could be fomenting the violent acts of the much-criticized Boston citizen who riots and attacks innocent bystanders," they wrote Levi.

In New York, Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP, accused Ford of asking the Justice Department to consider entering the Boston case as a political tactic to win votes at the expenses of blacks.

"While this would be the legal posture of the federal government, in actuality it will be lining up on the side of a defiant school committee and lawless mobs," Wilkins said at a news conference.

Earlier Friday, Ford said the courts would not have to impose busing if they would follow all of the steps available in a law already on the books.

He referred to the Esch Amendment, a 1974 law requiring the courts to impose busing only as a last resort after school officials have attempted to achieve desegregation through voluntary student transfers, zoning changes and construction of new schools.

Cousteau fears 'nuclear slavery'

Associated Press

Marine biologist Jacques Yves Cousteau warned Friday that extensive development of nuclear power will require a "worldwide police state" to protect power plants from terrorists.

Cousteau endorsed California's nuclear safeguards initiative, Prop. 15, as "an extremely reasonable" step toward protecting the public.

"The nuclear system is vulnerable to social disorders because reactors cannot be dissociated from bombs," he said at a Beverly Hills news conference.

He said Californians face a choice between "a nuclear age enslaved to a worldwide police state" set up to protect the nuclear plants and "a solar age of freedom and safety."

VOTERS HERE lead the rest of the nation and the world at this turning point in nuclear history, he said.

"In the world as it is... the threat will extend in time for tens of millions of years," he said.

Reagan campaigns against Washington

Associated Press

Ronald Reagan said Friday a possible sale of the Tennessee Valley Authority to private industry was "something to look at" and said if Washington got out of the classroom, "maybe we could get God back in."

President Ford, looking ahead to six primaries on Tuesday, said from Washington he was optimistic he would get more delegates than Reagan from those states. The five Democratic candidates were trooping around most of those states Friday in search of votes.

Reagan said Washington was "a failure — an expensive failure," and said programs like education and welfare should be returned to the state.

"Everytime they pass a program in Washington, it becomes the closest thing to eternal life you'll ever see on this earth."

The total cost of education in the 1974-75 school year was $110 billion, and the federal government contributed 11 per cent. During the 1975-76 school year, the total cost of education is estimated to be $120 billion of which the government will contribute 9.8 per cent.

Ford told a group of Tennessee journalists in Washington the vote "will be very close" in the six states holding primaries Tuesday, "We are optimistic that out of six we'll end up with a few more than my opponent, as far as delegates are concerned," he said.

In Knoxville, Reagan was asked whether he would consider selling the TVA, a federal power conglomerate that Barry Goldwater suggested selling during his unsuccessful 1964 presidential campaign.

". . . It would be something to look at," Reagan replied.

"I've always believed that here is an example of the government starting out in what was supposed to be one kind of undertaking, flood control, and competing with private power on a competitive basis tax free" the former California governor said.

The TVA, created in 1933 to harness flooding from the Tennessee River, is now the nation's largest power system. It provides electricity in seven states and is involved in fertilizer research, recreation, forestry, wildlife management and other programs.

Reagan also said he regards nuclear power, which TVA is seeking to expand, as the answer to the nation's energy crisis. He indicated there is too much regulation in nuclear power and other industries.

"It takes 11 years to build a nuclear power plant in America today," Reagan said, blaming federal regulations. "It only takes four years in Japan. All this regulation is not coming from elected leaders."

Ford touched on the TVA in his interview with the Tennessee journalists, saying he strongly supports the government-owned utility and has no plans to recommend any changes.

Ford noted he personally has heard no complaints about TVA operations but "perhaps the

Jetliner hostages faced with death

Combined News Services

MANILA — Hijackers holding more than 100 persons aboard an immobilized Philippine Airlines jet at Zamboanga airport threatened to kill the hostages unless their demands were met, airline sources said. There was no communication early this morning from the grounded aircraft, surrounded by troops and armor on a runway near the terminal building. The martial-law government clamped on a news blackout and military authorities would not confirm the threat. The military ordered the nose wheels of the jetliner deflated to keep it grounded, and officials said the government was standing firm on its refusal to pay ransom and provide a new jet to take the hijackers to Libya.

Typhoon hits Guam

AGANA, Guam — Typhoon Pamela battered this Pacific island with winds exceeding 100 miles per hour Friday, causing damage estimated at millions of dollars. Two persons were reported killed. By Saturday morning Guam time, people were peering out of their houses and beginning to assess damage. Rain continued, but winds were far below the 100 m.p.h. level that had snapped power lines, trees and a radio tower. The storm temporarily knocked out electric power and almost all communication on Guam and to other points.

Meantime, thousands of residents around Manila began returning home Friday after being stranded or forced to evacuate by Typhoon Olga. The storm took at least 19 lives Wednesday and Thursday, not including 12 persons aboard two small aircraft missing since the storm began.

Lebanon alliance

BEIRUT — Iraq, Libya and Algeria, the most militantly anti-Israeli Arab states, on Friday strengthened their foothold in Lebanon by forming an alliance with the Moslem-leftist side in the civil war. Representatives of the three Arab states met with Kamal Jumblatt, leader of the Lebanese leftists, and expressed full support for Jumblatt's forces and his Palestinian allies, the Iraqi delegate to the meeting reported. The alliance will oppose a trend to moderation by more conservative Arab states: Egypt, Jordan, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait. Meantime, Hisham Shaar, Lebanon's chief of internal security, announced that according to police figures more than 25,000 have been killed and 79,000 wounded in the 13-month-old Moslem-Christian war.

West Bank quiet

JERUSALEM — Heavily armed Israeli troops and border police Friday patrolled the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, where two days of relative quiet have followed bloody Arab riots at the start of the week. Troops in Nablus lifted a five-day-old curfew in the Casbah section of the town and removed iron gates put up to control rioters at the entrances to the ancient market place. The military governor eased security in Nablus, where a 17-year-old girl was killed during riots Sunday.

Pound hits record low

LONDON — The pound sank to an all-time closing low against the U.S. dollar Friday despite the Bank of England's effort to bolster the British currency by raising the minimum lending rate. The pound ended the day at $1.7615 in London, compared with $1.8085 Thursday. Elsewhere in Europe, the dollar declined against the Italian lira but rose against the West German mark and the Swiss and French francs.

BELFAST — One of three bombs planted on a commuter train killed a 30-year-old woman and injured 10 other persons Friday, police said. The four-pound bomb blew up the first car of a train from Bangor to Portadown at Broomhedge, 15 miles south of Belfast. A train inspector threw a knapsack containing another bomb out a train window and it exploded on the embankment at Britannic Station on the outskirts of Belfast. A third bomb was found in the railroad car's debris and defused.

No credit

BRUSSELS — The Dutch government, under strong pressure from anti-South African groups in the Netherlands, decided Friday against granting a $260-million credit guarantee to three Dutch firms taking part in a large nuclear reactor sale to Pretoria. But the government did not block Dutch participation in the deal. The companies involved, led by the Rijn-Schelde-Verolme engineering group of Rotterdam, will probably go ahead, using financial backing from private banking sources although on less favorable terms. The Dutch companies have formed a consortium with General Electric and the Swiss firm Brown-Boveri to seek the contract for two 1,000-megawatt reactors near Cape Town which will be worth about $700 million.

Agriculture guidelines

MOSCOW — The Communist Party's central committee issued guidelines Friday tightening procedures for agricultural production and distribution. The guidelines, carried by the Tass news agency, stressed production of fodders and preparedness of harvesting and transport equipment. Recent agricultural losses have led to large Soviet grain purchases from the West and to apparent shortages in a number of food items.

NBC settlement

NEW YORK — A seven-week work stoppage by 1,700 writers, technicians and other NBC employes will end Monday, according to union and company officials. A tentative agreement involving 15 separate contracts was reached last Wednesday, and the union said its members ratified 12 of the contracts Friday. The stoppage began with a strike by members of the National Association of Broadcast Employes and Technicians last April 1. It was later declared a lockout by the union when its offer to return to work during negotiations was declined by management.

Payoff data shared

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department and the Belgian High Committee of Control on Friday signed an agreement to share information in the investigation of Lockheed Aircraft Corp. payoffs in Belgium. The agreement is similar to those the department already has signed with Japan, Italy, the Netherlands, Colombia, Nigeria and Greece. It provides for a confidential exchange of information gathered by investigators in both countries.

Lawmaker who spurned life-support machines dies

Combined News Services

Rep. Torbert Macdonald, the Massachusetts Democrat who was hospitalized earlier this month and directed that his life-sustaining devices be removed, died Friday night at Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital.

Macdonald helped shape the creation and growth of the public broadcasting system and is widely known for the anti-blackout legislation which bears his name, providing home-area telecasting of sold-out sports events.

Macdonald was first elected to Congress in 1954 from the city of Malden, a Boston suburb, where he will be buried.

Upon announcing his decision not to seek reelection, he said, "I find I can no longer come up to the standards which I have set for myself. I cannot, therefore, in good conscience, continue to serve the people of the 7th District."

Macdonald was hospitalized in serious condition on May 9. After losing, then regaining consciousness the following day, he asked that all life-support devices be removed.

An aide said that even after Macdonald underwent a "spontaneous" recovery which left him alert several days later, he still declined to be put back on the life-support machines.

Gerald Mackenzie of Claysville perched on top of the pole Thursday because he said the county was not honoring its contract with him to maintain lights at the county airport.

After about two hours, he was assured he would be paid and was persuaded to slide down. At the bottom he got a check for $1,750.

Life

Salvatore Soli was sentenced Friday in Philadelphia to life imprisonment for the Dec. 7 stabbing death of newspaper heir John S. Knight III.

Soli, 37, was convicted Thursday night of first-degree murder, robbery, burglary and criminal conspiracy. He was sentenced by Judge Robert Williams Jr. after the jury failed to reach a unanimous decision on a sentence.

A second defendant will be tried later, and a third was found slain shortly after Knight was killed.

Admiral

Retired Adm. Royal E. Ingersoll, who commanded the U.S. Atlantic Fleet during the "Battle of the Atlantic" in World War II and organized the convoys that supported the Allies, has died at the age of 92.

Ingersoll was by date of commission the senior officer of the Navy at his death Thursday in Bethesda Naval Hospital in Maryland.

Born in Washington, Ingersoll was appointed to the Naval Academy from Indiana, rising to become commander of the Atlantic Fleet on Jan. 1, 1942. In that post he directed the escort services protecting convoys against German submarines in the battle to supply arms to the Mediterranean and European theaters. He was also responsible for the defense of the Western Hemisphere.

Leadbelly

A federal suit was filed Friday in Houston in behalf of the family of the late Huddie Ledbetter against Paramount Pictures Corp. seeking $16.5 million in damages over the movie "Leadbelly."

Ledbetter, songwriter and singer better known as "Leadbelly," composed "Good Night, Irene," "Midnight Special" and "Good Mornin' Blues."

The suit filed by John Ledbetter of Houston charged that the movie is false and portrayed in a "vile and rude manner which would shock the conscience." The movie caused family members in Houston and Louisiana to be ridiculed among friends and neighbors, the suit alleged.

Cadet

About 101 cadets have been accused of honor-code violations in recent weeks in a scandal over cheating on a home-study electrical-engineering course.

Ringgold and military lawyers for some of the accused cadets had asked Army Secretary Martin Hoffman to investigate charges that the academy was covering up even more widespread charges. But Hoffman refused to intervene, saying the accused cadets should take their cases to officer boards set up to hear appeals of honor-code violation convictions.

Memoirs

The New York Times Co. has informally discussed with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger the possibility of publishing his memoirs and syndicating a column when he leaves office, a Times executive said Friday in Washington.

However, Sydney Gruson, executive vice president of the New York Times and director of subsidiaries, denied that there were active negotiations under way with Kissinger. The Chicago Daily News said Friday that the Times was negotiating for the book and column.

Sold

Former President Nixon's Key Biscayne, Fla., residence was sold Friday to an elderly New York couple who discounted any historic value in the purchase.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bittner of Southbold, Long Island, paid $320,000 for the three-bedroom, four-bath home that Nixon bought seven years ago for $125,000.

Friday's sale was the first involving the Key Biscayne "compound" homes owned by Nixon and dubbed the Florida White House while he was in office. Two other houses in the compound, not owned by Nixon, have already been sold.

Ensign

Ensign Vernon Berg III, the first Navy officer to admit publicly he is a homosexual, said Friday in Virginia Beach, Va., that the Navy Bureau of Personnel has ordered him discharged by next Friday.

Berg, a 1974 graduate of the Naval Academy, said his attorney will file suit in U.S. District Court in Washington to block the Navy from forcing Berg from the service.

He said he learned of the decision Friday from the chief of staff of 5th Naval District headquarters at nearby Norfolk. The discharge will be "less than honorable," which means either a general or dishonorable discharge.

Secret Witness tip brings murder conviction

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

A teen-ager has been convicted in Long Beach Superior Court of first-degree murder in the slaying of 37-year-old car salesman Royce Lee Outten.

Jurors in the trial of Charles Nylon Scott returned the verdict Thursday afternoon following a week's testimony in the court of Judge John A. Arguelles.

With the conviction, informant 555-QQQ in the Independent, Press-Telegram's Secret Witness program became eligible for a $2,000 reward.

It was the informant's tip which sent police to a California Avenue apartment where Scott, 19, was arrested last Jan. 29, more than a month after Outten's death.

During Scott's trial, said prosecutor Jack Hourigan, witnesses testified Outten had retired from the Coast Guard six months earlier and was working part-time at Woolpert Motors, 431 W. Pacific Coast Highway, while attending school.

He had moved into the Henderson Avenue home, directly behind the car lot, just two days before his death, Hourigan said.

Robert Head, a salesman at the car dealership, testified he went up to the front door of the house at about 11 a.m. Dec. 24 after Outten had failed to show up for work.

Peering through a window in the door, he told the court, he saw Outten's body slumped just inside. He called police.

Police Det. Terry Walton testified he found Walton dead of multiple stab wounds. The handle of a butcher knife protruded from the victim's side, he said.

The apartment appeared to have been ransacked, Walton testified. Walton also told the court that a fingerprint on a bloody surface in the home later was found to be Scott's.

Walton testified that later investigation showed the suspect had fled to central California, where he stayed through the holiday before returning to Long Beach. He remained a fugitive for three weeks before his arrest, Walton said.

Another witness, George A. Miles Jr., also an employe at the car lot, said he had seen Scott at the lot on several occasions, including Dec. 23.

Scott, Miles testified, had asked if Outten had any money, and once had approached Miles with a suggestion that they rob Outten.

The defendant took the stand to testify that he had talked with Outten on previous occasions, and on Dec. 23 had gone to the victim's house to ask for a ride home after he found himself stranded at a nearby tavern.

Scott testified that in the house, Outten made homosexual advances and, when Scott took up a knife in desperation to escape, Outten ran at him and grappled for the weapon.

It was then Outten was stabbed, according to a tape-recorded talk between police and the defendant, introduced as evidence during the trial.

The defense also called as a witness Long Beach Police Officer Darrel Gath, who testified he had arrested Outten twice in the previous year.

Both arrests occurred in a public restroom near the Pike, the officer told the court. One arrest was on charge of homosexual sex play and another was on a charge of loitering, he testified.

Jurors heard final arguments in the case Wednesday and deliberated for five-and-a-half hours Thursday before returning the first degree murder verdict.

Arguelles ordered the defendant returned to court June 10 for probation hearing and sentencing.

Special suit

My child was tested for a special education program and the results showed that he should be placed in a class for the Educable Mentally Retarded (EMR). But I can't get my child in such a class because the special education program has been tied up in a lawsuit filed by a group of people who think the tests are unfair to their children. My child needs to be in a special class and I can't afford to send him to a private school. Can Action Line look into this? J.S., Long Beach.

An injunction was issued in San Francisco prohibiting any school district in the state from placing a child in an EMR class solely on the basis of an IQ test, but this shouldn't keep your child from enrolling in such a class. In compliance with the court order, the Long Beach Unified School District is now using an adaptive behavior test instead of just an IQ exam to test children such as yours. You can arrange to have your child take this test by contacting the staff psychologist at your child's school. There currently is no waiting list for enrollment in EMR classes in Long Beach. When your child was given the IQ test in November, the court was on the verge of issuing the injunction and that's apparently why you were informed that the special education program was tied up in a lawsuit, according to a spokesman for the the school district. It's unclear why you weren't told later that an alternative testing method had been devised to comply with the court order. The lawsuit, which was filed on behalf of several black youngsters in EMR classes in San Francisco, contends that a standard IQ test is culturally biased and an inaccurate gauge of intelligence.

Notary

Any United States citizen who is a California resident and at least 18 years old may apply to be commissioned as a notary public in this state, according to Jim Randall, spokesman for the Notary Public Division of the California secretary of state's office, the agency which issues the commissions, in Sacramento. Application blanks, test and information booklets are available by mail or phone from the Secretary of State, 107 S. Broadway, Room 4001, Los Angeles, Calif. 90012, 620-3104. The exam consists of simple questions about the duties of a notary public, answers to which can be found in the information booklet. The application and test are to be returned to the secretary of state's office in Sacramento with a $6 filing fee. The office will forward the applicant's commission to him with an oath of office which is to be taken before the county clerk when he registers there. He must also file with the clerk a $5,000 bond on himself from a bonding agency. He must re-file with the secretary of state every four years. A notary public authenticates the signing of contracts and other documents.

Ruin

There is a burned-out house on St. Louis Avenue between 10th and Anaheim streets, and it has been in this deplorable state for almost a year. Why doesn't the city make the owner of this house tear it down and clean up the mess? W.S., Long Beach.

Condemnation proceedings take a long time to complete and it's not unusual for a burned-out structure to remain standing for more than a year. The Long Beach Building and Safety Department is on the verge of officially ordering the demolition of that house, which, according to a department spokesman, caught fire about six months ago. But after the demolition order is issued, the owner still can take up to a year to comply before the city will hire someone to do the work and bill the owner. Except for cases involving extreme safety hazards, the city doesn't automatically order a building demolished after a fire. "We usually have to wait for the owner to get his insurance settlement before we take any official action, and then the municipal code spells out the time period that must be allowed before we can have the building torn down if the owner refuses to comply," the spokesman said.

In your recent item on writer's clubs, you made no mention of the Professional Writers' League of Long Beach. Most of us are professionals, however, we do admit beginners and do our best to steer them in the right direction. Anyone interested may attend one of the regular luncheon meetings at 11:30 a.m. the first Wednesday of each month at the Bit of Sweden restaurant, 2131 E. Broadway. Our next meeting will be held June 2. H.H., Long Beach.

The Writers' Workshop West, an organization of beginning and professional writers, meets monthly to read and critique manuscripts, exchange marketing information and socialize. Our meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. the fourth Tuesday of each month at Mercury Savings & Loan, 4140 Long Beach Blvd., Long Beach (at Carson Street). Our meetings are open to anyone interested. Preliminary hearing set June 21

Mayer arraigned in L.A.

By JOANNE NORRIS
Staff Writer

Suspended Long Beach Planning Director Ernest Mayer Jr., arrested last week on bribery charges, was ordered Friday to appear in Los Angeles Municipal Court at 8:30 a.m. June 21 for a preliminary hearing before Judge Michael Burke.

Judge Antonio Chavez set the preliminary hearing date after Mayer, 45, was arraigned in his court on two counts of soliciting and accepting more than $50,000 in bribes from two Long Beach architects.

Mayer, who is free on $25,000 bail, looked grim during the brief court appearance—his first public outing since his arrest May 14.

HE REFUSED ALL COMMENT as he and an attorney, Robert Priver, tried in vain to dodge members of the media who had gathered near a fifth-floor elevator in the Los Angeles Criminal Courts Building.

Noting the bright television lights, Mayer and his attorney took the elevator to the sixth floor—one level above the courtroom in which he was to appear—then tried to slip past the media by walking down a flight of stairs.

"This just isn't going to work," Priver said as the two returned to run the gauntlet of lights and cameras.

During the brief court appearance, Priver waived a reading of the complaint which charges Mayer with soliciting and accepting bribes from Long Beach architects James Coppedge and Claflin A. Ballance.

Both Mayer and Priver, who was appearing for Mayer's regular attorney, Gary Sawtelle, refused to answer questions as they strode from the courtroom.

The charges against Mayer stem from testimony given by Coppedge and Ballance to Los Angeles County district attorney's investigators.

The architects, who have been granted immunity from prosecution in the case, allege they paid Mayer $26,950 between December 1971 and July 1974.

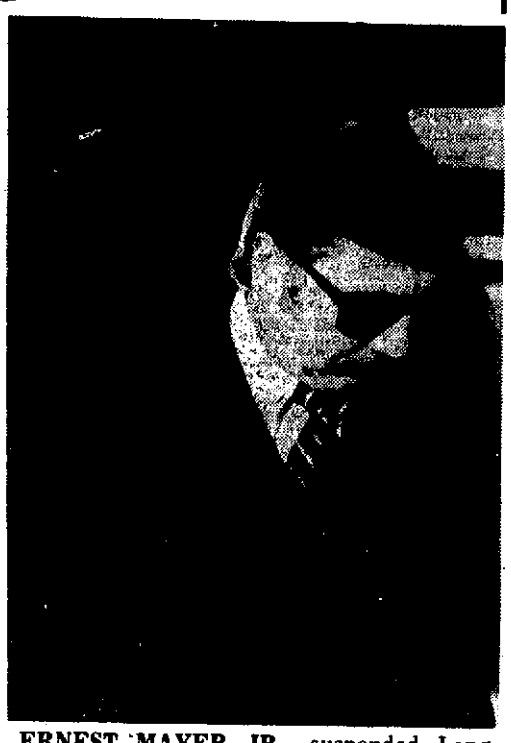

Officials have said the two men took their story to the district attorney's office last January after Mayer allegedly asked for more money.

When Mayer was arrested—climaxing a four-month investigation by the district attorney's office—he was carrying a shoe box full of Mexican 50-peso gold coins valued at $25,141.

The coins allegedly were the latest payoff in the series of bribes the architects said they made to the planning director in exchange for his help in pushing six multimillion-dollar projects through his department.

According to Dist. Atty. John Van de Kamp, Mayer's arrest has spurred at least 30 more informants into conversations with authorities concerning alleged corruption in city government.

Van de Kamp said four teams of investigators are interviewing informants and sifting through potential evidence confiscated by search warrant from Mayer's City Hall office, International Towers penthouse apartment and Marina Pacifica bachelor-party pad.

ERNEST MAYER JR., suspended Long Beach planning director, arrives at Los Angeles Municipal Court for arraignment on bribery charges Friday.

DON EASTMAN, a member of the district attorney's special investigations division, said six to 12 witnesses are expected to testify during Mayer's trial.

If convicted of the bribery charges, Mayer could be sentenced to one to 14 years in state prison and be permanently barred from holding public office.

He has held the planning director post, which currently pays $41,700 a year, since October 1968 when he was appointed to succeed Werner Ruchti, who organized the planning department and was its first director.

Mayer, who had been planning director in Newport Beach for two years before he came to Long Beach, was chosen for the post from a field of 65 applicants.

Coed insurance hit as incentive for abortion

By RON ROACH

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Forty-two coeds at Stanford University have had abortions covered by a student health plan that an official said was designed to "protect the woman who gets caught."

But some state lawmakers, led by Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose, feel that the unique Blue Cross plan sponsored by the private university is an incentive for abortions.

The Assembly on Thursday barely approved McAlister's bill that would not allow any health plan to cover abortion without providing an equal amount of maternity coverage. But a parliamentary tactic has held up the bill for perhaps another vote on Monday.

At the time, McAlister said he "assumed" the abortion-only plan was limited to married couples, but if unwed coeds are involved, "I'll do something about that, too."

Dr. James McClenahan, director of the Stanford Health Center, said single women are covered. "In fact, that's who the provision was primarily designed for. We're trying to protect the woman who gets caught."

The abortion-coverage policy, which does not provide childbirth insurance, was first issued in 1972 at the request of the Stanford Health Center's Student Advisory Committee.

Lawrence Rodriggs, a Blue Cross spokesman in Oakland, told Associated Press in a telephone interview that since 1972 there have been "40 abortions in single party contracts, and I assume most of them are single women."

There are 700 single contract policies providing abortion coverage for women at Stanford, Rodriggs said. In addition, two married students at the university underwent insured abortions, he said.

"We do have maternity benefits for unmarried people," said Blue Cross spokesman Jim Norton of San Jose, who handles the Stanford policy.

But, he said, "Stanford kids are really concerned with the dollar. Many of them, although they are from rich families, are investing their own dollars into the health plan."

He said normal birth costs $1,200 to $1,600, and abortions between $200 and $600, so the difference in policy premiums is considerable.

Norton said he had heard of an abortion health plan at one eastern university, but could not think of any others. "It is unique," said Rodriggs. "This was at the buyers' request. It is a university plan, designed by the university."

The coverage is sold on an individual basis.

"The philosophy was that it fell under the general concept of insurance," said McClenahan. "It came under the general idea that, like illness, an unwanted pregnancy is an insurable thing that was unplanned.

"We felt that if the students felt they needed it, it wasn't objectionable."

He said the policies don't also carry maternity benefits, because students felt "pregnancy was an elective event and there was no particular reason why students felt they should be covering the cost of some other student's pregnancy."

McClenahan said it is a "right-to-life issue that ought to be brought up and discussed. I don't know how you could legislate pregnancy coverage into insurance, but it's certainly a discussable issue."

McAlister said in Assembly debate on his bill that California should have a policy of "at least equal preference for life as preference for death."

He said some insurance companies oppose his bill because it would set a precedent in mandating contents of such health plans.

But Rodriggs said: "We don't really oppose the bill. We're the third party in this thing."

Stanford students wanted the aboriton coverage, he said, so Blue Cross wrote it.

McAlister's bill is AB 3133.

Berkeley senior becomes 2nd student on regents

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Daryn Peeples, a 22-year-old Berkeley senior who described her politics as "pretty liberal," was named Friday as the second student regent in University of California history.

She will succeed Carol Mock, UC's first student regent, who finishes her one-year term July 1 on the board that governs the nine-campus, 120,000-student system.

Miss Peeples, a Savannah, Ga., native, was confirmed unanimously by the board on the recommendation of a regents' committee that chose among three students nominated by student presidents.

IN another action, the regents affirmed UC's long-standing policy of generally voting its $633 million worth of corporate stock against proposals by dissident shareholders on social issues.

Despite support from UC President David Saxon and student and teacher groups, and a message from Gov. Brown calling for change, a proposal aimed at establishing a committee to advise regents on stock voting was rejected on a 10-5 vote.

Miss Peeples, an English major with a B average and an aspiring journalist, handles press relations for Berkeley's student government and belongs to committees studying campus admission and registration policies.

She said her first priority as a regent was to see that an increase in UC's registration fee next year, if needed, is "as equitable as possible for all campuses."

THE fee, now $300 a year, supports some student services. The regents are expected to consider a substantial increase in the fee next fall.

The new regent was chosen over two politically active law students, Stephen Wade of Berkeley, a former labor organizer and worker against then-Gov. Ronald Reagan's 1973 tax initiative, and Angela Blackwell of Berkeley, a writer on black women's issues.

Miss Peeples described her own political convictions as "pretty liberal" and "left-of-center to middle-of-the-road," and said she would have voted, as did Miss Mock, for a regents' advisory committee on stock voting.

That proposal came from regent William Matson Roth, author of similar proposals in past years.

"A COMMITTEE would be able to do the kind of homework the board of regents doesn't have time to do," Roth said. He said the regents' investment committee, which currently handles stock voting, has "a management bias."

But the board's conservative majority said the university should avoid taking sides on social issues, and should manage stock solely to protect the value of its investment.

Regent Edward Carter said most shareholder proposals are "irresponsible" and come from "a small handful of professional persons in the eastern section of the United States whom I regard as self-serving."

Grants logging extension

Governor vetoes extended benefits for ex- supervisors

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown has signed bills relating to a timber tax and the California Arts Council and vetoed more retirement benefits for county supervisors, his office said Friday.

The Democratic governor signed a bill stating that the Arts Council's main office must be in Sacramento. At one time the council had talked about moving to San Francisco but dropped the idea later.

That bill was by Sen. Albert Rodda, D-Sacramento.

Collier's bill gives timbermen an additional six months, through Jan. 1, when they can log under timber-harvest plans already filed last year. The cutoff date for allowing them to do so — without having to go through the same paperwork again — had been June 30 before Brown signed the bill, which goes into effect immediately.

Starting last Jan. 1, any new timber-harvest plans submitted had to meet stricter environmental requirements, and the Collier bill does nothing to affect that.

Brown also vetoed a bill by Assemblyman Richard Robinson, D-Santa Ana, which would have improved retirement benefits for county supervisors.

Brown stated in his veto message the retirement system already provided generous benefits and "the bill would far exceed the retirement benefits available to other public employes in this state."

Cal. fair-employment bill clears Assembly

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Brown administration-backed bill expanding the powers of the state's Fair Employment Pratices Commission cleared the Assembly Friday without a vote to spare.

Assemblyman Julian Dixon, a Los Angeles Democrat, said his measure was backed by Gov. Brown, but he still had a tough time scraping together his needed votes.

Assemblyman Frank Murphy, R-Santa Cruz, spoke critically about the bill, stating it had the potential to "ruin the business community."

Among other things, the bill gives the commission the power to go to court and seek an injunction to stop illegal discriminatory actions in employment and housing.

It also gives the chief of a newly created Division of Civil Rights the power to prosecute cases and shifts much of the commission's investigation authority to the new division from the commission.

A 41-26 vote sent that bill to the Senate.

Another bill affecting the commission, by Assemblyman Bill Lockyer, D-San Leandro, also was sent to the Senate. A 41-25 vote approved that bill.

Lockyer's bill attempts to attack the commission's backlog of complaints by setting deadlines when a commission accusation must be issued after a complaint has been filed.

This bill would place the commission in an appellate capacity.

Judge gives weekend off to Battin jurors

Jurors deliberating seven felony counts against Orange County Supervisor Robert Battin, were excused late Friday until Monday at 8:45 a.m.

The charges include use of his office assistants for partisan political purposes, falsifying their payroll records, misuse of county supplies and equipment, misappropriation of public funds and grand theft.

Santa Ana Superior Court Judge Kenneth Laye ordered the jurors, who began deliberations Tuesday, not to read newspaper accounts of the trial, listen to TV news, or discuss the case with their families or friends during the weekend recess.

The court has told the jurors that, regardless of whether Battin set out to defraud the taxpayers by having his office staff work on his political campaign at the 1974 primiary, he would be guilty of intent if he had used his staff for such a purpose. His campaign was for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor.

Conviction could mean a prison term plus forfeiture of his office and possible disbarment as an attorney.

U.S. orders independent check on Alaska pipe work

By TAD BARTIMUS

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Officials said Friday that the U.S. Department of the Interior has ordered an independent accounting firm to review the quality of welds on the $7 billion trans-Alaska pipeline.

Alyeska, a consortium formed by eight oil companies building the pipeline, said it will cost up to $55 million if the Interior Department orders the repair of all 1,700 welds whose quality is disputed by the builders and federal and state pipeline monitors.

Any major repair work could force a delay in completion of the pipeline project, now slated to begin operation in July 1977.

Edward L. Patton, Alyeska president, said the cost estimate includes the money needed to redo the X rays of 360 welds — the radiographs of which are now missing — if Alyeska is ordered to do so by federal officials.

Alyeska released last week a summary of its own audit which re-examined 35,600 X rays, or radiographs, of welds made so far on the 48-inch-wide pipe that eventually will carry oil 800 miles from Prudhoe Bay to Valdez.

The $4.5 million Alyeska audit revealed that 360 radiographs were missing and that cracked welds were found at 28 locations.

Alyeska says it will voluntarily repair those cracks. But a spokesman said he is "quite sure" none was located at buried river crossings.

Alyeska has confirmed to the Interior Department that some of its missing radiographs involve welds at river crossings. If Interior forces Alyeska to dig those welds up and take new radiographs, the pipeline completion date could be delayed, officials have said.

Interior's environmental stipulations require that all work involving pipe burial at river crossings be completed during late fall and winter, when the ground is frozen. That is to protect fish and other water life in the streams.

The Alyeska audit also revealed the pipeline builders disagree with federal and state pipeline monitors on the quality of about 1,700 of the welds already made on pipe in place.

The firm says discrepancies found in the rest of the welds "do not raise concern over the integrity" of the pipeline. According to weld specifications from the American Petroleum Institute, the disputed welds do not meet the API standards.

Alyeska said API's standards "are intended ... for judging workmanship, not criteria for metallurgical fitness and safety."

Federal stipulations governing construction of the pipeline require "radiographic inspection of all main-line girth welds." Some of the radiographs were missing, according to the Alyeska audit.

A spokesman for Interior in Washington told The Associated Press the accounting firm of Arthur Anderson has been hired by the federal government to validate Alyeska's own audit results.

"We don't know yet how much it will cost to review Alyeska's results," the Interior spokesman said. "It is now more or less open-ended, and there is no time deadline yet."

GM looks to diesels in future

DETROIT (AP) — The chairman of General Motors said Friday that the firm plans to introduce a diesel engine for its passenger cars in the 1978 model year if the federal government postpones tighter emission standards set to go into effect that year.

Thomas A. Murphy told shareholders at the firm's annual stockholders meeting that the diesel program would be precluded if standards for emissions of oxides of nitrogen are lowered.

MURPHY previously has said GM is developing a light duty diesel engine for use in trucks and passenger cars, but he did not say when the new power plant would be introduced.

The engine is being developed by the firm's Oldsmobile Division. GM is believed to be planning production of 80,000-100,000 of the engines in the first year for the mid-size Olds Cutlass and Chevrolet and GMC light trucks.

The main advantage of the engine is an improvement in fuel economy over the conventional gasoline-powered engine. However, the diesel has disadvantages that include higher cost, increased exhaust emissions, noise and odor.

Murphy said GM is working to overcome those disadvantages.

NO AMERICAN car manufacturer now sells a passenger car diesel in this country, although two foreign makers — Mercedes-Benz and Peugeot — are selling cars in this country with diesel engines.

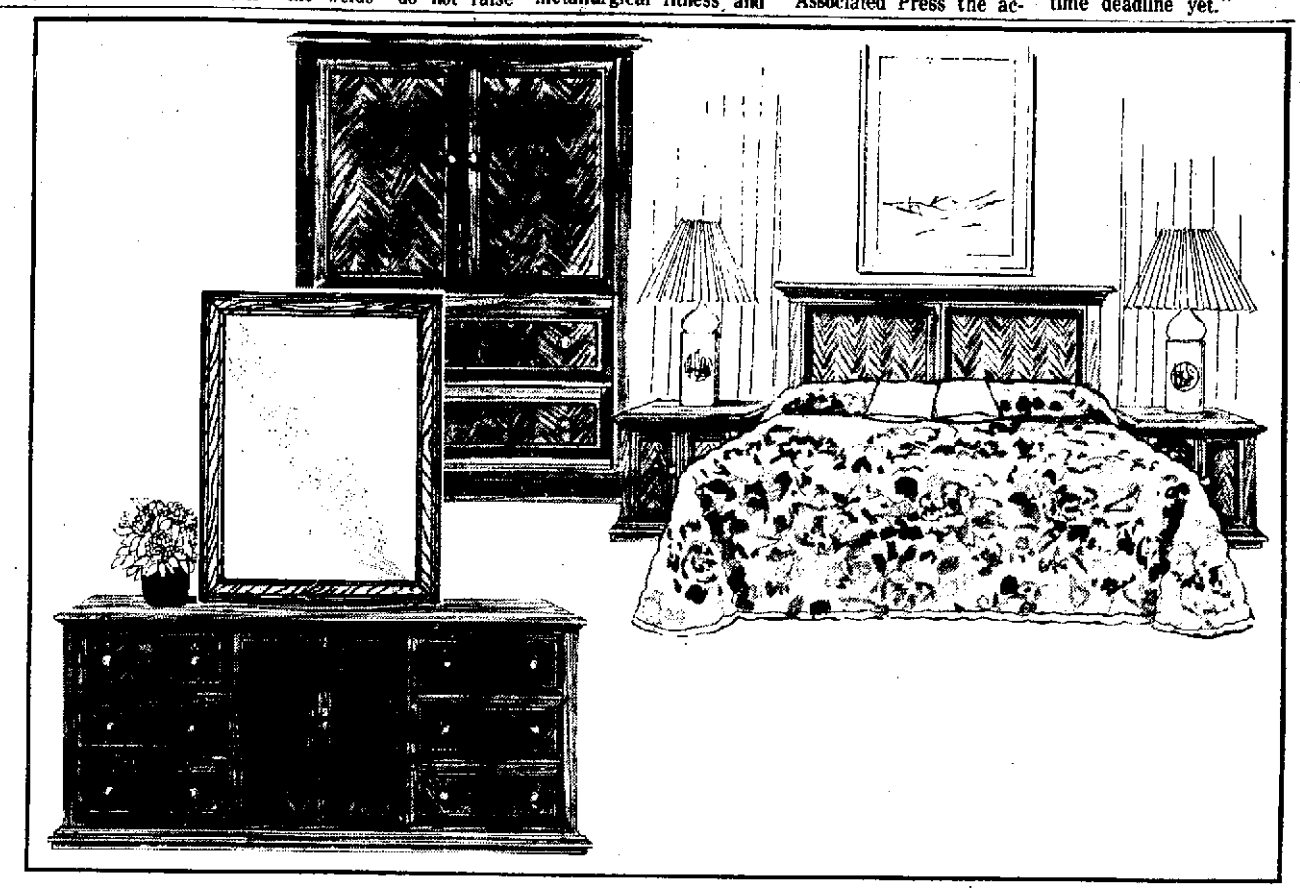

Current antipollution standards require that cars emit no more than 3.1 grams nitrogen oxides per mile. Beginning with 1977 models, the standard falls to two grams per mile and it would drop to .4 gram per mile under standards set for the 1978 model year.

Murphy also predicted that new car and truck sales in the 1977 model year could total 14.5 million units, the second best year in industry history. Car and truck sales, including imports, were a record 14.9 million during the 1973 model year.

Only 'passive' on wiretaps, Kissinger says

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says he played only a "passive role" in the wiretapping of a national-security aide and that authority for the action was in the hands of the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

In a sworn deposition made public Friday, Kissinger insisted that at a 1969 meeting with former President Nixon, Hoover and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, "the whole (wiretapping) program was approved, including that the authority was given to Mr. Hoover, not to me. . .to tap those people that had been mentioned."

THE deposition was made in connection with a suit brought by former national-security aide Morton Halperin, whose telephone was tapped for 21 months as part of an administration effort to discover the source of leaks of classified information.

Halperin was closely associated with Kissinger and came to the administration at the same time Kissinger joined it as Nixon's national-security adviser.

Kissinger's statement differs somewhat from that of Nixon, who said in an earlier deposition:

"I of course did not select the names myself because I did not know (the individuals). I told Dr. Kissinger that he should inform Mr. Hoover of any names that he considered prime suspects.

"THAT was Dr. Kissinger's responsibility. It was his responsibility not to control the program but solely to furnish the information to Mr. Hoover. Mr. Hoover then was to take it from there."

Halperin was one of 17 persons, including four newsmen, whose phone was tapped under the surveillance program which began May 10, 1969, a day after the New York Times disclosed the bombing of Cambodia.

Several other suits have been filed as a result of the wiretaps, all asking monetary damages. If Halperin wins the case, which may come to trial this year, he could receive a maximum of $3 million in damages.

In the deposition given to Halperin's lawyers, Kissinger said he had been urged by several people in the administration not to hire Halperin. Kissinger said none of the security questions that had been raised created any question in Kissinger's mind as to Halperin's discretion or to his ability to keep confidences.

KISSINGER said the meeting with Nixon, Hoover and Mitchell was on April 25, 1969.

At a news conference, Halperin said research of White House and FBI records shows no evidence of an April 25, 1969, meeting among Hoover, Mitchell, Kissinger and Nixon. Halperin said he concluded from Kissinger's deposition that "it was Mr. Kissinger and not Mr. Hoover

Kissinger was asked if it was his understanding that Hoover could start the taps on four people whose names were discussed at the meeting, including Halperin's, "without any further instruction or signal from anyone, if he decided it was necessary."

SAID Kissinger: "My understanding at the time was that this would be a procedure that would go into effect when there was another request for a security investigation — for an investigation of news leaks. My impression was that he substantially had the authority once the investigation started."

"Who would have to request such an investigation to trigger these four taps?" he was asked.

"The investigation would be triggered by a news leak of a kind that had been identified by the president as constituting a national security problem," Kissinger answered. He was asked:

"Was Mr. Hoover to decide when a leak was of that character?"

". . .I don't know if that question ever was decided," Kissinger replied. "The fact of the matter was that on May 9 such a leak occurred, and I was asked by the president to call Mr. Hoover to start an investigation, and that is what appears to have started the whole process."

AT THE time of the Cambodian-bombing leak Halperin was identified to Kissinger as a possible source, and Kissinger said in the deposition that Halperin had been a college roommate of William Beecher, who wrote the Times article.

In a memorandum, Hoover said Kissinger told him that "he hoped I would follow it up as far as we can take it, and they will destroy whoever did this."

Kissinger said he did not recall using that expression but that "it is possible that I used it."

Kissinger also said he did not think that turning off the wiretaps was the responsibility of his office. Mitchell, in a deposition, said that "Dr. Kissinger, having initiated the taps, that it would be his determination as to when they came off."

But Kissinger said that wasn't so and that it was "incompatible with the facts in the sense that I now know there were people being tapped about whom no reports were ever sent to my office."

French troops to Lebanon possible

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing told foreign newsmen Friday that France is willing to send peace-keeping soldiers to Lebanon within 48 hours if Lebanon asks.

He said he discussed the plan with U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and with the Syrian government, which has troops in Lebanon now. He said Syria said it would favor the plan.

The U.S. State Department in Washington had no comment on the report.

Giscard d'Estaing said the French troops are on standby and could be called within 48 hours.

THE remarks were reported by newsmen who talked informally with Giscard d'Estaing in French at a reception for the foreign reporters who traveled with him on his bicentennial tour of the United States.

The president called the reporters into his suite in a New Orleans hotel on the last night of the week-long tour. He excluded all local reporters.

Asked about it later, several foreign reporters quoted Giscard d'Estaing as saying France was willing to send several regiments of French soldiers to Lebanon.

However, he specified that the troops would go only if Lebanon's president-elect Elias Sarkis requested them after his installation.

HE ALSO was quoted as saying it would be necessary for France to have a formal agreement with Syria before the troops could go.

U.S. 'vitality, confidence' impress French president

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Praising America for its vitality and confidence, French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing ended his Bicentennial tour Friday urging the United States to live up to its responsibilities as the world's foremost democracy.

D'Estaing, who will return to France today on the Concorde supersonic jetliner, said the strongest impression of his six-day journey is of America's "vitality in overcoming the political, institutional and moral crises which divided" the country.

"Doubt had been cast on the (United States') strength and degree of commitment," he said. "Indeed, the strongest impression I will take back from what I have seen and heard from this visit is one of confidence. You showed amazing vitality."

SPEAKING AT a luncheon in the Louisiana Superdome, d'Estaing said the United States must now live up to its role as the leader of the world's democratic nations.

"You are now emerging from the most serious economic upheaval the world has known since the great depression of 1929," he said. "Ultimately the foundations of American power ... were not shaken.

"You are starting your third century of existence as a nation, with all the means necessary not only to preserve your way of life, but also to shape the destiny of the world."

D'Estaing's overnight stop in New Orleans ended his American tour, which began Monday in Washington. He spent Thursday night in Houston and then stopped at Lafayette, La., Friday, on his way to New Orleans.

THE BRIEF appearance in Lafayette threw the spotlight on the French-speaking Acadians of south Louisiania, whom d'Estaing congratulated for holding to their French heritage, including the French language.

His remarks to the 6,000 persons were all in French, and he was made an honorary Acadian, or Cajun.

Giscard's speech in New Orleans was serious, addressed to the importance of the United States in world peace.

"Your contribution becomes irreplacable," he said, urging the United States to have confidence in its allies and not fear their freedom.

OUT OF SUCH solidarity, he said, must come security to vanquish the specter of another world war, to restore international economic and monetary order, and to pursue with the developing countries a dialogue to prevent conflict.

"I leave New Orleans with the conviction that we are capable of meeting all the political, economic and social challenges of the modern world if we keep our principles of freedom intact," he said.

Nevada doubts riches in that thar mine

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — The state is questioning a statement by a Nevada mining firm that a claim it holds could yield $2.5 billion in gold.

Buster Sewell, chief of the securities division in the Secretary of State's office, said Friday "the chances of a claim of this size are remote."

Sewell said he checked "with other state and federal agencies and they have the same opinion" of the statement by R. T. Schindler and Associates, Inc.

R. T. Schlindler said at a news conference Wednesday in Los Angeles that a 3,368-acre claim near Goldfield had the potential gold yield, plus a possible yield of $700 million worth of silver.

Goldfield was a major mining area at the turn of the century "but it's been dead for a long time," Sewell said.

He added that the entire gold production in Nevada in 1975 amounted to $58 million.

Oswald 'may have had help in plot'

By AL EISELE
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON—The ranking member of a special Senate committee that conducted a 15-month investigation of the U.S. intelligence community said Friday that the committee uncovered evidence that could show Lee Harvey Oswald did not act alone when he killed President Kennedy.

Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., said the panel was not able to fully explore some previously undisclosed evidence regarding Kennedy's assassination in November, 1963 in Dallas.

Mondale, who turned down a seat on the new 15-member permanent intelligence oversight committee to be headed by Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, said the recently disbanded Senate Select Committee on Intelligence found that the FBI and CIA failed to cooperate fully with the Warren Commission that investigated Kennedy's death.

"THE record will show that the CIA and FBI were quite deficient in being candid and forthcoming with our committee," Mondale said.

He added, "Based on what we now know, there is nothing to shake the conclusion (of the Warren Commission) that Oswald fired the shot that killed Kennedy, but the question of why he did and whether he was cooperating with others—that was not pursued in any kind of full way."

Mondale said there are "leads that have to be followed" by the permanent committee that "could conceiveably" show that Oswald had help in planning and carrying out Kennedy's assassination.

Mondale, who disclosed last week that his committee had learned of an FBI file concerning possible assassination attempts against Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, said he understands that file has been delivered by the Justice Department to the permanent committee.

Mondale emphasized that there isn't any evidence that the FBI or CIA were directly or indirectly involved in plots to assassinate Castro, but he suggested during an appearance on the CBS television show "Face the Nation" that those attempts may have been linked to the Kennedy assassination.

RFK linked with kill-Castro panel

DETROIT (AP) — Robert F. Kennedy apparently was the key member of a secret Kennedy administration team measuring the impact on Cuba of an assassination of Fidel Castro, the Detroit News reported Friday.

"U.S. Senate probers ... accidentally have uncovered the existence of a supersecret team of top Kennedy administration officials whose mission was to measure the impact" of an assassination of the Cuban dictator, the newspaper said.

In a copyright story written by Seth Kantor of its Washington bureau, the News said knowledgeable government sources disclosed that Robert Kennedy was the key member of the team, which was assembled before President John F. Kennedy was shot in 1963.

"EXISTENCE of the clandestine Kennedy committee was unearthed two weeks ago by probers of the Senate's so-called Kennedy assassination panel, headed jointly by Sens. Gary W. Hart, D-Colo., and Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa.," the paper said.

The News said it had learned that the Hart-Schweiker committee met behind closed doors Friday to sift through information on the Cuba-related policy group known as the "Interdepartmental Coordinating Committee."

The newspaper said its sources disclosed that several federal agencies, including the Central Intelligence Agency, FBI and defense intelligence operatives at the highest levels were involved in the covert Kennedy committee.

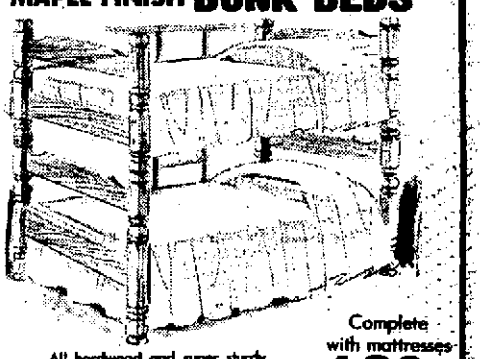

For the past seven months, the News said, the Hart-Schweiker panel has been searching for signs of influence by domestic and foreign intelligence forces on the actions of Lee Harvey Oswald, the man identified by the Warren Commission as President Kennedy's slayer.

THE NEWS said the Hart-Schweiker committee will report next Wednesday on their findings to members of the parent Senate Intelligence Committee, chaired by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

The Church committee is expected to make public most of the report by the end of next week, the newspaper said, adding that some aspects of the report — including details of the Interdepartmental Coordinating Committee — are expected to be withheld from the public.

The details will be furnished instead to the permanent Senate intelligence watchdog committee set up this week.

April rise in food cost 'not out of line'

By R. GREGORY NOKES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail food prices went up in April for the first time this year, pushing over-all consumer prices up four-tenths of one per cent, which was double the consumer prices increase in March, the government said Friday.

However, the behavior of prices so far in 1976 remains well within the government's forecast for the year of a six per cent inflation rate and a two to five per cent rise in food prices.

Consumers had to pay more in April for fresh fruits and vegetables, coffee, pork, poultry and dairy products as retail food prices rose six-tenths of one per cent. Food prices had declined during the first three months of 1976 by a total of two per cent.

PRICES OF commodities other than food rose three-tenths of one per cent, the same as in March, while prices of services rose five-tenths of one per cent, the smallest increase in eight months.

Increasing transportation and health care costs were blamed in part for a rise of one-tenth of a per cent in the Consumer Price Index for April in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area.

The area index stood at 164.1 in April, an increase of 5.5 per cent over the same month last year.

The increase was the smallest in a 12-month period since July,1973,-when the increase was 5.2 per cent.

On the negative side, the Labor Department said the buying power of workers' paychecks declined by nine-tenths of one per cent in April, the biggest drop since November of 1974, when purchasing power fell 1.1 per cent during the depth of the recession.

It blamed the decline on inflation and a decrease in hours worked, coupled with no change in hourly earnings.

Workers' real spendable earnings still were 3.8 per cent above a year earlier, but a continuation of the loss of buying power could slow the surge in consumer buying that has been the major factor in the nation's recovery from recession.

But Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said the April decline in earnings resulted from the fact that the statistics were gathered during Easter week, when total working hours are usually less than normal.

"It's a phony decline ... it wasn't representative," he said.

THE LABOR Department said its Consumer Price Index for April stood at 168.2, meaning that goods that cost $100 in 1967 were priced at 168.20 last month.

President Ford welcomed the April price report, saying that while prices rose more than in March, "it does show the rate of inflation on a downward trend."

Combined with Thursday's report that economic output increased at an annual rate of 8.5 per cent in the first quarter of the year, the price report "is extra good news," Ford told reporters.

"It shows economic activity in moving faster than we anticipated," he said.

PRICES DURING the 12-month period ending in April increased 6.1 per cent, a big improvement over the 12-month increase a year earlier of 10.2 per cent.

Prices increased only two-tenths of one per cent in March, one-tenth in February and four-tenths in January, the same as April, for an over-all increase in prices so far in 1976 of 1.1 per cent.

The annual rate of increase in the past three months was 2.9 per cent.

However, government economists have said all along the rate of inflation cannot continue at such low levels. They say the basic rate of inflation in the economy is probably about six per cent and they predict price reports during the remainder of the year will reflect that rate.

ECONOMISTS consider price behavior of commodities other than food as being more significant in the long run, since food prices are considered especially volatile. The annual rate of increase in non-food commodities so far in 1976 has been near four per cent.

The Labor Department had a mixed report on fuels prices in April, with gasoline and motor oil falling nine-tenths of one per cent, the fifth consecutive month of decline, while fuel oil and coal prices rose three-tenths of one per cent, the first increase in six months.

Among services, the cost of medical care rose seven-tenths of one per cent, somewhat below the average monthly increase of about 1.1 per cent that had prevailed since November.

ALTHOUGH many food prices increased, the price of beef declined again, by six-tenths of one per cent. Grocery store food prices were up seven-tenths of one per cent, and restaurant meals rose three-tenths.

Prices of apparel and household goods rose two-tenths and three-tenths per cent, respectively, about the same as in recent months.

The price changes were adjusted for seasonal variations.

Senate trims gas tax credit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee approved a $10 billion package of tax breaks for business Friday and voted to take away most of the individual deduction for state gasoline taxes.

In the name of simplifying income tax returns, the panel agreed unanimously to allow a person to deduct only that amount of state and local gasoline taxes above $50 a year. The average deduction is about $75.

This would save the Treasury up to $400 million a year but result in slightly higher income taxes for the estimated 20 million taxpayers who claim the gasoline-tax deduction.

"They tell me it's absolutely impossible to keep people from cheating on" the gasoline deduction, said Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the committee chairman. "This is one of the ideal areas to chisel on taxes."

BUT THIS main argument in suggesting repeal or a cutback in the deduction was that it would take away one incentive that taxpayers now have for itemizing deductions. Removing that incentive would make the standard deduction — which is much simpler for the Treasury and taxpayers to deal with — more attractive, Long said.

Between 60 and 70 per cent of taxpayers already use the standard deduction, meaning that they get no benefit from the gasoline-tax break.

In other action affecting individual taxpayers, the committee voted to accept a House-passed provision that would repeal the complex tax exclusion for sick pay and replace it with a $100-a-week exclusion for persons under 65 who have retired with total disability.

ALSO, THE panel slightly liberalized existing tax breaks for workers who claim a deduction when they move from one area to another to take a new job.

The bulk of the tax break for business was in the committee's vote to make permanent the current investment tax credit.

Under that provision, which will cost the Treasury $9.5 billion in 1977, a business can avoid taxation on 10 per cent of the money used to purchase new equipment.

Near average per capita income

College costs reach new high

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press

The school season is ending, but families with children enrolled in or headed for college will find no vacation from rising costs.

The College Entrance Examination Board reported that a student who attends a four-year private college and lives on campus will have to spend an average of $4,568 next year. That's higher than the per capita 1975 personal income in five states, and it isn't too far below the $5,834 average per capita 1975 income for the whole country.

The cost of sending a student to a four-year private college and paying his or her living expenses on campus has risen 6 per cent from 1975 to 1976, according a board survey of 2,500 colleges.

COSTS DURING the 1976 academic year will be 54 per cent more than they were during the 1970 academic year. From 1970 until March of this year, the Consumer Price Index went up 44 per cent.

There are many ways of lessening the bite on the family budget, according to the college board, which is a nonprofit, membership organization that provides tests and other services for students and educational institutions.

—Private, two-year colleges, for example, cost about $400 to $500 less per year than their four-year counterparts.

—Public, four-year colleges are $1,700 to $2,200 less a year than private institutions, although students who are not residents of the state where the college is located may find out-of-state charges can cut savings considerably.

—Tuition and fees generally account for most of the cost differential among different types of schools. For example, tuition and fees will average $621 at a public four-year college next year, compared to $2,329 for a private school. The difference in other costs — living expenses, etc. — is less than $200.

—Don't ignore the possibility of financial aid even if you think your family income is too high to qualify. Other factors in addition to income must be taken into account. These include the number of children in a family, outstanding debts, etc.

The College Board Scholarship Service offers a free pamphlet to help you figure out what sorts of financial aid are available and whether you qualify. The pamphlet, "Meeting College Costs," is available by writing College Board Publication Orders, Box 2815, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

NO MATTER what type of school you are considering, it helps to have a detailed expense budget. The college board lists five categories to be included in any student budget: tuition and fees, books and supplies, room and board, personal expenses and transportation.

The tuition and fees section of the budget is relatively easy to figure out. Simply ask the university or college you are considering. Remember: most schools figure these costs on a nine-month basis; summer sessions will add to the budget.

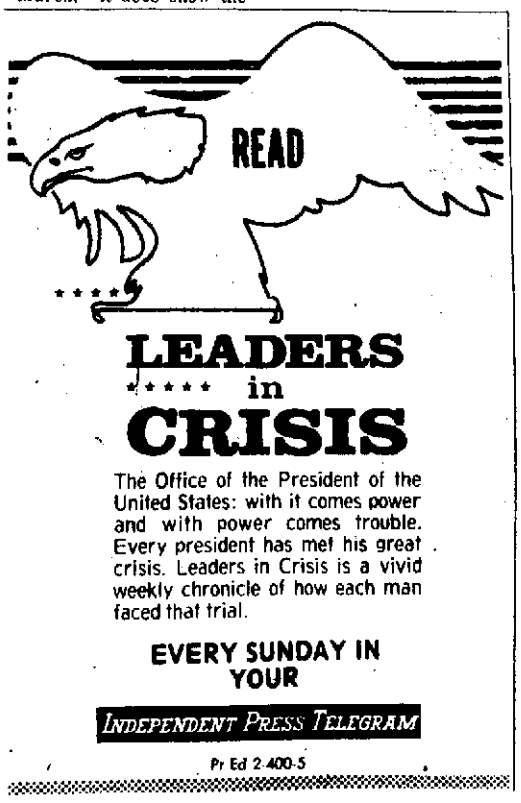

Books and supplies will cost about the same no matter what type of college you attend, according to the college board, although some curricula such as art and engineering require more expensive items. A board survey showed costs for books and supplies will range between $177 and $213 during the next academic year.

THE ROOM and board portion of a student expense budget offers a chance for economizing. Living at home is the cheapest option, the college board reported. "But families should remember that they will still need to buy food for the student and to pay for other normal living expenses," the board said.

Commuting students also probably will have to pay for some meals on campus. The board survey showed that a student who attends a four-year private college this fall can expect to spend $1,371 for room and board on campus; $1,487 for the same items off campus; and $840 as a commuter.

Rumsfeld hits Senate delay of B1 bomber

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld said Friday the Senate's vote to block production of the B1 bomber until next February could endanger the nation's strategic nuclear balance and won't be tolerated by the American public.

The Senate Thursday voted 44 to 37 to postpone a decision on whether to produce the controversial bomber until after the next president is inaugurated.

The House had voted in April 210 to 170 in favor of beginning production of the B1, which Rumsfeld described as the logical successor to the B52 bomber.

Rumsfeld told a group of Tennessee reporters that having manned bombers with nuclear weapons on board is an important facet of the nation's strategic defenses. The B52s which now perform this function are getting old and need to be replaced with the B1, he said.

In voting to block production of the new bomber, the Senate put in jeopardy "the strategic nuclear balance — a critical balance — something the American people are not going to let the Congress trim on," Rumsfeld said.

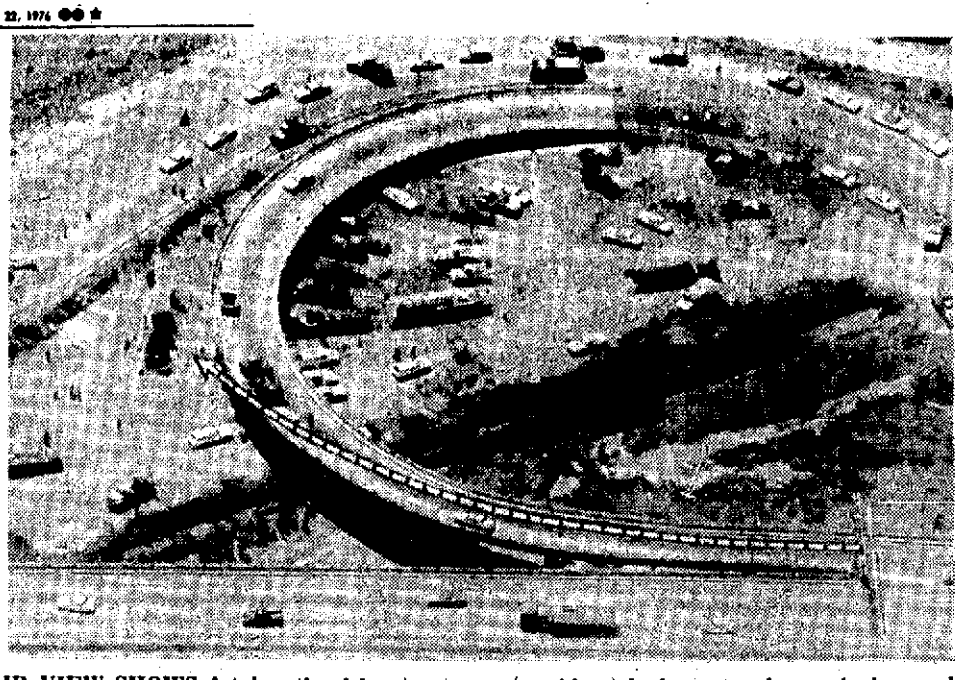

He said he was optimistic that a House-Senate conference committee would agree to go ahead with production of a fleet of 244 of the aircraft, at a cost of $22 billion, as the House had decided.

Rumsfeld predicted that there would be an outpouring of public reaction against the Senate decision, which he said he believed would influence Congress to reject the approach taken by the Senate.

"The American public ... will help us find our way to the right decision," Rumsfeld added.

Air Force Secretary Thomas C. Reed said Friday that U.S. Senate postponement of funds for the B1 bomber will add another $492 million to the cost of the project because of inflation.

Reed said it was wasteful to "turn the program off and then turn it back on." He said the project should have been funded now, and then let Congress and the President reassess the decision next year.

SCHOOL BUS CRASH KILLS 28

ers lost their lives when a farm bus was struck by a train near Salinas, according to police records.

IT TOOK TWO CRANES to turn over the school bus Friday. Debris from the bus and personal belongings were piled nearby.

"We have trains that come by and bump each other when they connect and make a loud noise," said Karla Ackerman, 22, who lives near the fatal roadway. "That's exactly what it sounded like when the bus hit."

Rescue workers were at the scene within minutes, cutting through the jagged wreckage to reach the trapped victims. The dead were wrapped in white sheets and brightly colored tarpaulins and placed on the blood-stained ground where the bus came to rest. Several Roman Catholic priests administered last rites.

"It looked like a battlefield," said one of the priests, the Rev. Thomas Hayes. "The victims all were wearing casual attire and looked like they were on an outing — it was tragic."

"My daughter is one of them," sobbed one father. "I think she's dead. She was only 16 years old."

"Everybody was in critical condition," said Mary Dunten, information officer for Contra Costa County. "The bus was crushed so much that there wasn't anyone uninjured."

State School Supt. Wilson Riles said: "I am deeply grieved by this tragic occurrence, and my heart goes out to the parents of these young people. California is a sad place today."

Rescue officials said they believed the bus was carrying 53 persons, including the driver and the wife of the faculty adviser to the Yuba City High School choir. But they said two or three students may have decided at the last minute not to make the trip — placing the total number of passengers in question

IN ADDITION TO those on the 26-year-old yellow bus, another student and the group's adviser were reported to be traveling in a car. The adviser, choral director Dean Estabrook, went into shock at the sight of the disaster, police said.

The driver of the chartered bus was Evans Prothero, 49, according to an official of Student Transportation Lines in Marysville, a neighboring community to Yuba City in the fertile farmland north of Sacramento. He was in semi-critical condition with a lacerated back and liver at Veterans Administration Hospital after undergoing surgery.

The bus-line official, Herb Brown, said the bus had been inspected by the Highway Patrol within the past 30 days. Its rear tires were recaps, he said, but the front tires were not, in accordance with state law.

But a CHP official said the bus was last inspected on May 12, 1975. A minor defect — loose seat fasteners — was found and corrected, said Inspector Edward Jelich.

One student survivor said the bus was making the fatal turnoff for a rest stop, and a teacher in another car said the bus driver intended to stop at a service station for oil.

The accident occurred shortly before noon on a sunny day as the bus made its way off U.S. 680 onto the Marina Vista off-ramp on the south end of the Martinez-Benicia Bridge. The group was headed for Miramonte High School in Orinda, where the choir was to sing as part of a choral exchange program.

In Sacramento, the Legislature fell silent when Assemblyman Gee Chappie, who represents Yuba City, announced the deaths. The Assembly then was adjourned for the day.

Navy to unveil terror torpedo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sometime this year, the Navy will introduce into its arsenal an exotic weapon even Jules Verne never imagined.

Called Captor, the weapon is designed to strike fear into the hearts of enemy submarine captains.

Captor can be dropped into the ocean from an airplane or eased in from a ship or submarine, according to Navy spokesmen.

It consists of a heavy lead plate, a thick wire, a floating cylinder and a torpedo capable of chasing own the sound of an enemy sub.

The lead plate sits on the ocean bottom, the wire running to the cylinder floating above. The torpedo rests inside the cylinder waiting silently for a passing enemy sub.

When the submarine gets close enough, the torpedo bursts from its hiding place, triggered and directed by the sound of the target vessel's engines. If it misses, the torpedo will travel only so far, then change direction in hopes of getting a second shot at the submarine.

Knowledgeable Pentagon sources said the torpedo can discriminate between enemy and friendly submarines.

Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld was asked Friday if Captor could carry a nuclear warhead.

"I know of no one's interest at this time to make it have a nuclear capability," he said. "I would be reluctant to say it won't ever have such a capability.

"Many weapons are being converted to dual capabilities — both nuclear and non-nuclear. But I do not believe it is the case with this weapon."

A Navy spokesman said there is no intention to install nuclear warheads in Captor, and current treaties which the United States has signed would prevent the use of nuclear weapons on the ocean bottom.

Contracts for production of 130 Captors were first awarded this year to Goodyear Aerospace Co. at a cost of $20 million. They are to be distributed to various Navy installations, but none are to be emplaced.

Another 480 Captors are to be produced by next summer at a cost of $60 million.

Captor carries a Mark 46 torpedo, but the Navy also has another exotic undersea weapon called the Mark 48. It is controlled from a submarine by wires much like the TOW wire-guided anti-tank missile used so successfully during the 1973 Middle East War.

CAMPAIGN

situation should be re-examined."

He also said he has narrowed to several persons his choice to fill a long-time vacancy on the TVA board.

Ford's campaign manager, Rogers C.B. Morton, predicted "major political fallout" from Reagan's statement that selling TVA to private industry "would be something to look at."

"I believe Mr. Reagan's statements will be weighed carefully next Tuesday by thousands of voters in Kentucky and Tennessee who depend on TVA for jobs and lower power rates," Morton said.

He said Ford emphasized his full support for TVA in the interview with Tennessee newsmen, saying, "I think it's been a very, very important energy producer in that great part of our country and I believe it's continuing to perform a very important responsibility."

Ford said Tennessee Sens. Howard Baker and Bill Brock are on his list of possible vice-presidential choices, as were former Secretary of the Treasury John Connally and Massachusetts Sen. Edward Brooke.

But he said Reagan was not on his list, noting that his opponent has said he does not want the job.

Forty-three GOP delegates will be chosen in Tennessee's primary. The four other states with primaries that day are Idaho, Oregon, Nevada and Arkansas. A total of 176 Republican delegates will be chosen in the six elections. Reagan had 528 delegates going into the election and Ford had 479; 1,130 are needed for the nomination.

On the Democratic side, front-runner Jimmy Carter was in Oregon, where his chief opponent in that state, Idaho Sen. Frank Church, was also campaigning. California Gov. Brown was in Nevada, where he is regarded as Carter's strongest challenger.

Alabama Gov. George Wallace was at home, and Arizona's Rep. Morris Udall campaigned in Tennessee and Arkansas.

Church, in Oregon, took swipes both at Brown and the President. Noting Brown's full write-in campaign here, he said he does not think there is enough money in California to buy the Oregon election. But then he added: "Perhaps we're seeing that put to the test."

Of Ford, he said, "We have as President an honest man who replaced a corrupt one. That, in effect, is not sufficient."

There were also these political developments Thursday:

—Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts said through a spokesman that he has not changed his position on the Democratic nomination. He commented in response to a story in the New York Daily News that he was ready to accept a draft. He has said in the past he would not do so.

—New York's Mayor Abraham Beame offered a judgment that the presidential campaign was too far afield from Americans' concerns, one of which he feels is urban problems.

"Frankly, I'm more concerned about detente between New York and Washington than between Washington and Moscow," he said.

several hours after the Senate vote.

—A meeting of the new commission less than an hour later to formally certify matching-fund applications which had been processed by the FEC staff while action on a new election law was completed.

—Issuance of checks by the Treasury Department, which usually takes two days to actually make the money available, but on this occasion, had checks prepared even before the formal FEC certification.

President Ford, who opposed some provisions of the new election law and declined an opportunity earlier this week to get the money flowing again, was the biggest recipient: $1.3 million.

In addition to the $3.2 million for nine candidates, the Republican and Democratic parties each received $500,000 for their national nominating conventions.

The swearing-in of the commissioners ended a period of confusion in the election law which began Jan. 30, when the Supreme Court ruled that the FEC members were unconstitutionally appointed.

THE COURT granted two delays so Congress could rewrite the law without interrupting the flow of matching funds, but the legislation lagged due to various disputes and the court quit granting delays.

Through March 22, the FEC had certified $12.6 million in matching funds under a program financed by the $1 taxpayer check-off on income tax returns.

Candidates, after passing a $100,000 threshold, can receive dollar-for-dollar federal matching for private contributions of up to $250 each.

THE AMOUNTS each campaign received Friday were:

Ford, $1,330,786; Ronald Reagan, $509,217; Jimmy Carter, $437,429; Henry Jackson, $316,676; Morris Udall, $312,258; Frank Church, $120,972; Fred Harris, $120,524; Ellen McCormack, $42,620; Milton Shapp, $19,301.

Ex-coroner's aide killed in crash

A former Los Angeles County coroner's office official was killed Friday evening when a truck was forced into his car at a Santa Fe Springs intersection.

Sheriff's deputies said Raoul Holquin, 50, former head of staff services in the coroner's office, died of massive head injuries at 6:30 p.m. in Whittier Presbyterian Hospital.

Deputies said Holquin's car was westbound on Telegraph Road at Norwalk Boulevard at about 6 p.m. when it was struck by an eastbound truck.

The truck driver, Benjamin McCuneo, 48, of La Puente, told investigators he was forced across the road into Holquin's car when another auto cut him off.

Holquin's car spun on impact and rammed into a power pole, deputies said.

Investigators said they were searching for the driver of the car which forced McCuneo across the road. McCuneo was not cited or held pending further investigation. He was not injured.

Fuel spill blocks Alameda

Alameda Street in Carson was closed to traffic for nearly three hours Friday night after a tank truck overturned and spilled gasoline on the street at the offramp from the San Diego Freeway.

Sheriff's deputies said the truck, owned by United Tank Lines of Pomona, overturned as it came down the offramp to turn south onto Alameda at about 7:30 p.m.

About 100 of the 3,000 gallons of fuel spilled down Alameda Street. County firemen covered the spilled fuel with soil.

DENNIS WATSON WAVES GOOD-BYE AS HE IS CARRIED OFF JAPANESE SHIP IN LONG BEACH

Fractured leg breaks up his Pacific voyage

He broke his left leg aboard a barge about 800 miles off Long Beach and had to be taken aboard the Japanese training ship Nippon Maru.

The 29-year-old Englishman was carried off the sailing ship Thursday, after she docked in Long Beach, and taken to San Pedro Peninsula Hospital.

He fell about eight feet on his left leg, producing a compound fracture.

"I didn't feel a thing," he said.

He was taken aboard the sailing vessel, and an inflatable splint was placed around his leg.

The Nippon Maru crew treated him "really well," he said, and "tried to make me feel at home."

"Everybody was really friendly," he said, and he was given books, Japanese silk, and a painting of the Nippon Maru.

Watson expects to be in the hospital for more than a month and admits to being "very anxious about my leg. This is the first time I've ever broken a bone."

Watson is employed by a London-based firm engaged by an Indonesian company, which in turn was engaged by Atlantic Richfield, Indonesia.

Council to face decision on cuts in property tax

Long Beach City Council's legislative committee will receive a recommendation Tuesday to oppose three pieces of pending state legislation that would cut property taxes for certain residents.

The recommendation from the city's Department of Administrative Management is based on the department's general policy of opposing any legislation which puts revenue limitations on local government, said George M. Medak, acting department director.

One of the three measures is Senate Bill 1674 which, among other things, would limit property-tax revenues of cities, counties and special districts to the percentage increase of the cost of living, plus population increases.

THE BILL also would increase the homeowners' property-tax exemption from $1,750 to $2,500 of assessed value, increase the personal income tax renters credit and increase reimbursements under the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Law.

"The measure would be financed by an additional 12-per-cent tax bracket for state personal income taxpayers," Medak said.

The city staff report said the bill would limit city revenue without providing any reimbursement for losses or any additional source of revenue.

"SB 1674 is just one more example of the Legislature attempting to limit local government revenues at a time when local government finances have never been tighter," Medak said. "At the same time, the state is now projecting a revenue surplus of $624.9 million at the end of its own fiscal year, primarily because personal income tax and sales tax receipts have been higher than expected."

THE OTHER two measures are Senate Bill 1600 and accompanying Senate Constitutional Amendment 47, which would authorize the Legislature to allow a split property-tax roll and a dual set of maximum property-tax rates.

One rate would be for owner-occupied dwellings and one for all other properties, Medak said. On owner-occupied units, the maximum rate would be that which would produce the property-tax revenue which would have been received if the city's prior year's revenues from such dwellings were to change by the percentage change in population plus cost-of-living, the staff report said.

"It is very possible for revenue from owner occupied dwellings to increase at a greater percentage than the cost of living in any one year," the report said. "These bills would prevent the city from receiving the additional revenue from such increases."

Viet-era vets ask ouster of Brown aide

Resignation of Gov. Brown's appointee for veterans' affairs director was called for Friday by representatives of Vietnam-era veterans at a state Veterans Board meeting in Long Beach.

Les Bender, veterans' affairs coordinator at Long Beach City College, accused the Brown administration of being insensitive to the problems of veterans and asked for restoration of state education funds for vets in Brown's budget.

"Gov. Brown has failed to develop a policy addressing the critical needs of veterans in California," Bender told the board, which met in the City Council chambers.

The board, which oversees veterans' programs in the state, meets in a different city each session.

There was little reaction to Bender's charges, which were in the form of a resolution signed by the Veterans Program Administrators of California, the state Delegation of the National Association of Concerned Veterans, the Orange County Veterans Coordinators Association and Swords to Plowshares.

Virginia Days, Brown's veterans' affairs director, asked by Bender to respond to the accusations, said, "I do not see the need for it."

She said the impact of a pending cutoff of vets' federal education funds still is unknown and that Brown's final budget, in which state education funds have been cut, won't be adopted until July.

Other board members said it is unclear how many veterans will be affected by the cuts and how much time they have before they will finish college.

Bender said he would try to supply information if Ms. Days would let vets' groups know what information is needed.

Board members asked Manuel Val, manager of the state Veterans Services Division, to let them know at their next meeting what effect the education cuts would have on vets.

Bender charged that Brown had terminated the Cal-Vet program, which aids vets when their federal education money runs out, "with no public notice or consultation."

The resolution asked that the Cal-Vet program be reinstated in Brown's 1976-77 budget with full funding and that a "bonus of equal value" be given vets not attending school.

He asked that Ms. Days resign and a new director be appointed with advice of veterans groups.

Doctors' malpractice plan tied to L.B.

A new, statewide, doctor-owned medical malpractice insurance program—with headquarters in Westwood and general claims office in Long Beach—has been formed in an effort to provide an alternative to legislative solutions for the problem.

Stanley Rose, president of Physicians and Surgeons Underwriters Corp., manager of Physicians and Surgeons Insurance Exchange of California, said Friday the company anticipates approval of its state license shortly and "we already have a backlog of nearly 300 doctors anxious to join our program."

The nonprofit exchange will be owned by the physicians and surgeons who hold policies with it, Rose said. It will offer professional liability-medical malpractice insurance with policy limits of $1 million per claim and $3 million in annual total claims.

Rose said that the company already has reached agreement with a London-based firm to underwrite three-quarters of each million dollars lost in claims. Physicians and Surgeons would be responsible for the first $250,000 lost on any given claim.

Rose said that Long Beach attorney Donald B. Caffray will be a member of the compay's board of directors and will direct the operation of the Long Beach claims office.

Rose added that Caffray was selected because of his recent successes as a malpractice litigator. Caffray has had many years of experience defending physicians and hospitals in medical malpractice cases, Rose said.

"What we have in our exchange concept," Rose said, "is a nonprofit operation which will be able to furnish physicians and surgeons with full protection—the same protection afforded by other companies in the field—but at a saving to the physician policy holder."

Rose cited, for example, the company's "tail policy" under which doctors are covered for three years after they retire or otherwise end their practice or leave the insurance program.

Another example, Rose said, would be the rating of physicians and surgeons on the basis of the complexity of their specialties. But even the most demanding specialist rating would pay no more than $17,140 per year for the full coverage. (Most insurance companies, Rose said, charge specialists from $26,000 to $36,000 per year for similar coverage.)

Dress parade

Japan sailing ship is open to public

The Nippon Maru, Japan's fully-rigged, four-masted sailing bark, will be open to the public at Pier D, Berth 33, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. today and Sunday.

The port of Long Beach will also operate free harbor cruises out of Berth 55 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days.

L.B. Bicentennial Parade steps off at noon today

An estimated 70,000 persons are expected to line Ocean Boulevard in downtown Long Beach today for a two-hour Bicentennial Parade sponsored by the Masonic Lodge of California. The first of the 174 units steps off at noon from Falcon Avenue and proceeds west on Ocean to Pine Avenue.

A musical salute to America is scheduled in the Long Beach Arena at 3 p.m. Admission is free but special tickets are required and may be obtained by calling 423-6535.

Apollo 11 astronaut Edwin Aldrin, the second man to walk on the moon, is the parade grand marshal and will receive the first Masonic Universe Award at the Arena show.

There will be floats, bands and marching units from schools, colleges, the military, special groups, the Scottish Rite and Masons.

Rapid transit-car prototypes unveiled; Ward is 'impressed'

By JOE SEGURA
Staff Writer

Two sleek prototype Advanced Concept Trains (ACT), forerunners of cars that could be used on a proposed 232-mile rapid transit system for Southern California, were unveiled Friday in Compton.

In observance of National Transportation Week, Garrett Corporation—the prime contractor for ACT — previewed the two cars for about 100 guests, including Rapid Transit District directors, at its AiResearch Manufacturing Co., in Compton where the trains are now under construction.

"I'm extremely impressed," said County Supervisor Baxter Ward, a leading proponent of a June 8 ballot measure that would grant a one-half cent sales tax increase to finance construction and operation of his proposed Sunset Coast Line system. "My only disappointment is that the cars aren't painted red."

Produced jointly by Rockwell International and Garrett, the trains are designed for 80 mile-per-hour speeds.

There are two options for the cars' design: "high density" with 68 seats and a "low density" version which has only 56 seats.

The cars, which are 75 feet long and 10 feet wide, have fiberglass interiors and extra wide windows that, according to the manufacturers' spokesman, offer passengers 25 per cent more viewing space than provided by San Francisco's BART system cars.

When completed later this year, the ACT cars will be delivered to the Department of Transportation's Rail Transit Test Center in Pueblo, Colorado, for extensive testing.

Later, the producers said, the cars will be demonstrated on transit properties in New York, Boston, Cleveland, Chicago and Philadelphia.

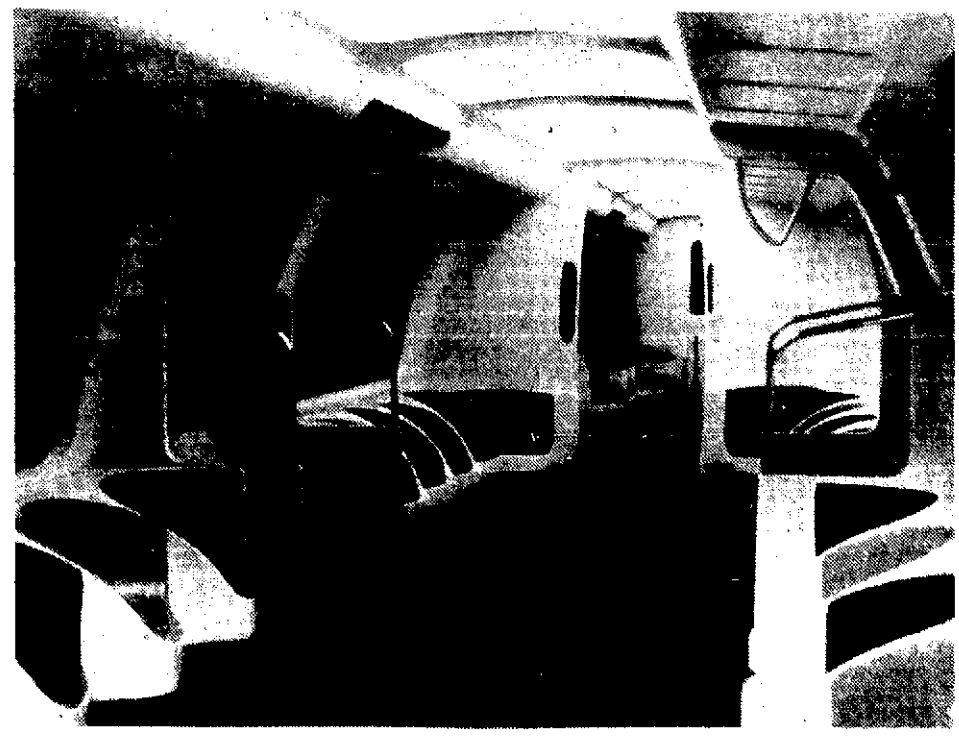

"Southern California will have the advantage of having a well developed system that's been checked out," said Dan Derbes, vice president of Garrett.

Some of the advance features include an energy storage flywheel propulsion system, vandal resistant interior surfaces, improved air conditioning, and modular interior compartments with facilities for the elderly and handicapped.

Garrett AiResearch has installed prototype flywheel energy storage systems on two New York Subway cars.

In the first three months of operaation, according to Garrett AiResearch statistics, the cars have demonstrated an average 33 per cent savings in power consumption compared to conventional cars.

It has been estimated by Garrett AiResearch that the incorporation of the flywheel energy storage system on the entire New York Transit Authority's 6,700 car fleet would result in energy savings of more than $20 million annually.

University will experiment with new life forms

By DOLORES KATZ
Knight News Service

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—The University of Michigan board of regents Friday approved a genetic research program that involves the creation of potentially beneficial and potentially dangerous new forms of life.

The regents' action makes UM the first university research center to give formal approval to the controversial research, in which genetic material is transplanted from one species to another.

"This is a very serious matter, one where all of us have some misgivings in proceeding," said regent Deane Baker shortly before the 6-1 vote of approval.

"But nevertheless, this institution is dedicated to the advancement and betterment of the human race, and I think this (program) is a good compromise in every way. It allows the research to go forward under very controlled conditions."

THE REGENTS' approval permits the spending of $306,000, most of it federal funds, to equip three laboratories with safety systems that will prevent bacteria and other organisms under study from accidentally escaping from the laboratory.

The research that will be done in the laboratories is made possible by a recently developed technique that permits scientists to cut out a single gene — an individual unit of heredity — from one organism and stitch it into the hereditary material of another form of life. The altered organism then passes this new gene onto its offspring as part of its genetic heritage.

Almost all of the experiments done to date have involved the transfer of genes from higher organisms, like toads, flies, and sea urchins, into bacteria.

SCIENTISTS think it may be possible some day to create bacteria that manufacture drugs like insulin and antibiotics.

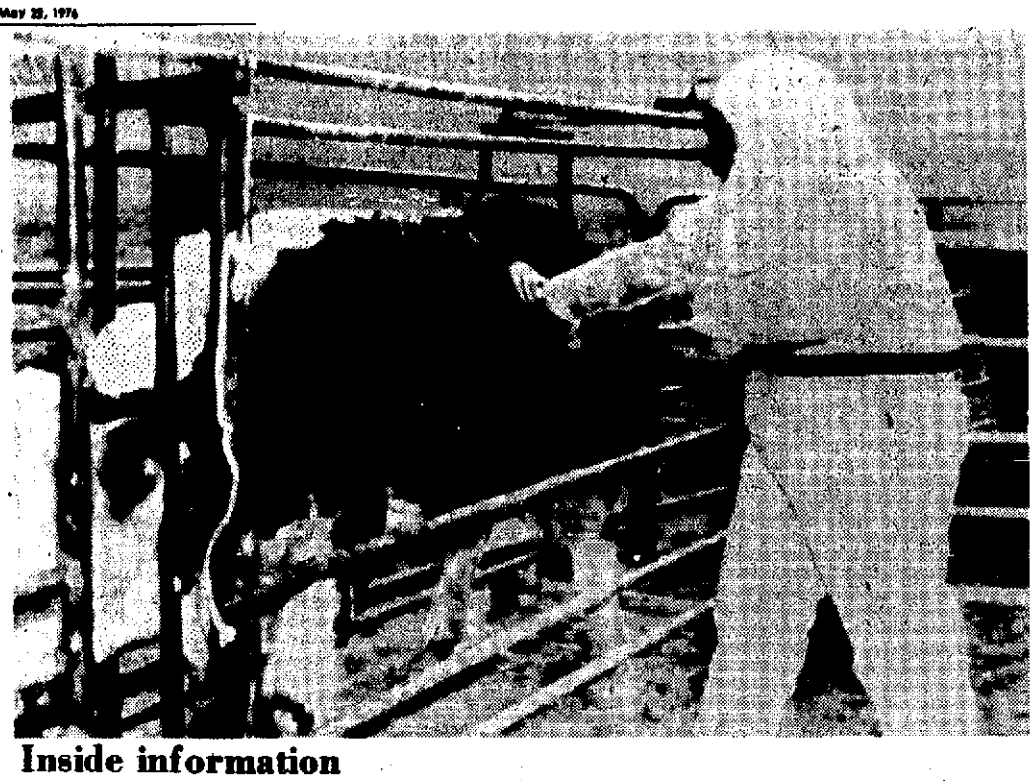

Other scientists worry that the research may also result in the creation of disease organisms that would be resistant to all present drugs, or that may change the environment in unpredictable ways.

At present, most American scientists are limiting the kinds of experiments they do in this area until the federal National Institutes of Health (NIH) produces guidelines for the conduct of such research.

The U-M research will go forward under strict guidelines compiled by a university study committee. These guidelines are more stringent than the proposed NIH regulations, which prohibit experiments likely to create new or more virulent disease organisms. The NIH proposals, for example, would prohibit transplantation of the bacterial gene that governs the production of deadly botulism toxin.

THE U.M. guidelines also require approval of the board of regents for potentially hazardous kinds of experiments that would be permitted by the NIH guidelines.

The research proposed by UM scientists initially will include transfers of genes among different species of bacteria, and transfers of bacterial genes into viruses that cause cancer in mice. These experiments are considered "moderately" hazardous by the NIH.

Family, doctors disagree

Secrecy 'veils Karen fate'

By JOSEPH SULLIVAN
New York Times Service

MORRISTOWN, N.J. — The parents and attending physicians of Karen Anne Quinlan have begun to disagree over the type and extent of medical treatment and testing being performed on the comatose woman, and this reportedly is delaying implementation of the State Supreme Court ruling designed to allow her to die.

IT HAS been seven weeks since the court, in a unanimous opinion, said Miss Quinlan could be removed from the mechanical respirator that has supported her breathing since April 15, 1975, if her attending physicians and an ethics committee or similar body at St. Clare's Hospital in Denville agree that there is "no reasonable possibility" that she can recover to a "cognitive, sapient state."

The 22-year-old woman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Quinlan, have refused to talk to newsmen since the ruling, on the advice of their attorney, Paul W. Armstrong, who said "the veil of family secrecy" should be allowed to fall on the steps that will be taken to implement the court decision.

However, reports that relations between Dr. Robert Morse, the chief attending physician, and the Quinlans have become strained were confirmed Thursday evening when attorneys for the family, the physicians and other principals in the case met behind closed doors with Superior Court Judge Robert Muir Jr. to discuss clarifying lines of communication.

Those who attended the meeting refused to discuss what was said. However, it was learned that the meeting dealt with the responsibilities of various parties to communicate with each other and not with the actual steps that will lead up to removal of the respirator.

In addition to Armstrong, those who attended the meeting were James Growley, Armstrong's associate; Ralph Porzio, the attorney for Morse and Dr. Ashad Javed, the internist in charge of the respirator; David Baime, assistant state attorney general; Theodore Einhorn, attorney for St. Clare's; Donald G. Collester Jr., the Morris County prosecutor, and Daniel R. Coburn, the attorney for the former court-appointed guardian for Miss Quinlan.

Drs. Morse and Javed have been conducting a series of diagnostic tests on Miss Quinlan to provide fresh data for the ethics committee.

Among the tests is an attempt to see how long the young woman can breath on her own without the machine. Even when she is attached to it, Miss Quinlan is able to initiate her own breathing for periods up to 24 hours and it is believed she could breath that long without the machine, although her unassisted breathing is shallow and labored.

During other periods, the young woman does not breath at all and is completely dependent on the machine. Miss Quinlan suffered what doctors have described as irreversible brain damage when she ingested a combination of tranquilizers and alcoholic beverages and sustained a respiratory collapse.

Neither Porzio or the physicians were available for comment Friday, but two sources close to Morse said the physician feels he is under pressure from the family not to administer antibiotics that the young woman needs to combat an almost continuous round of infections.

The family, in its petition to the court, asked for removal of all "extraordinary means" sustaining their daughter's vital processes so that she may be returned "to her natural state" and die "if it is God's will."

One friend of Morse's who asked not to be identified, said, "he doesn't believe administering antibiotics constitutes extraordinary care and has no intention of stopping."

Mother of 3 loses battle with cancer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Linda Joy Hardy died Friday, losing a 3½-year battle against cancer that was nationally publicized when she issued an appeal for "a good family to take my kids, to love them and keep them together."

Friends said the 33-year-old Mrs. Hardy had designated a family to adopt her three children by her first husband, Joseph George Hardy, who they said abandoned the family five years ago.

"Linda made provisions for the children," her attorney said. "They will be taken care of."

There was no elaboration from either the friends or the attorney.

Mrs. Hardy was hospitalized seven times since her cancer was diagnosed late in 1972 and pronounced terminal. Her right breast was removed, then her ovaries and her adrenal glands.

More than 2,000 offers to help poured in and a trust fund of $9,000 was set up for the children from donations.

But sympathy turned to skepticism seven months later when a doctor said Mrs. Hardy had been cured. She left the hospital, married for a second time and was later arrested on an old drug charge.

The charge of possession of two ounces of marijuana—a misdemeanor—was disposed of last January when Mrs. Hardy's $25 bond was forfeited. And two weeks ago, Mrs. Hardy was divorced from her second husband, Gary Marcum, a 28-year-old machinist who had befriended her last year. She charged him with gross neglect.

"There was national television and he was hanging around and questions were being asked about who this guy is. He was going back and forth, doing a lot of things for her," said one friend. "There was no eagerness for her to marry. She was pressured into it. Her case was traumatic and she was not ready to make a decision like that. But she did not want to embarrass the children."

With the low blood count and her body too weak to fight off infections, a cold suddenly turned into pneumonia, and she lapsed into a coma and died hours later.

Contact lenses latest for dogs

By RON BURNS

ANAHEIM (AP) — Anyone who's ever eyeballed a bowl of chicken soup looking for a dropped contact lens may soon be peering in frustration over something much less tasty: Dog food.

Researchers are designing the latest in contacts for dogs, and so far are pleased with the results. But they refuse to rule out the prospect that dogs can be as clumsy as their masters.

"If people can lose them, pets can lose them," says Dr. Milton Wyman, professor of comparative ophthalmology at Ohio State University.

WYMAN HAS researched the possibilities of contact lenses for dogs since 1971 and now believes they are ready for general use.

"We've tested them on dozens of dogs and most of them adapt to the lenses more easily than humans," Wyman said.

"Many people have psychological problems about having anything at all in their eyes, but dogs aren't bothered by such hang-ups."

Wyman discussed his project while attending a convention of the American Animal Hospital Association held here this week. The five-day meeting ended today.

"We began the work almost as a curiosity," he said, "but the further we went, the more serious we became."

Wyman said the lenses are identical to the plastic methyl methacrylate lenses developed for humans. But he emphasized they would be used for very different reasons.

"At the moment, their main use is as a bandage or protection for dogs with severe eye disorders or dogs that have undergone eye surgery," he said.

"KEEPING bandages on dogs is extremely difficult and these lenses are excellent because the dogs don't even notice them once they're properly fitted."

He noted that surgeons often must sew dogs' eyelids shut for their own protection. He said the lenses would be much safer and more humane.

"Dogs have no problem tolerating the lenses 24 hours a day for several months at a time," Wyman said.

He added that the lenses would have no use in improving the eyesight of dogs.

Control by brainwaves makes gains

Associated Press

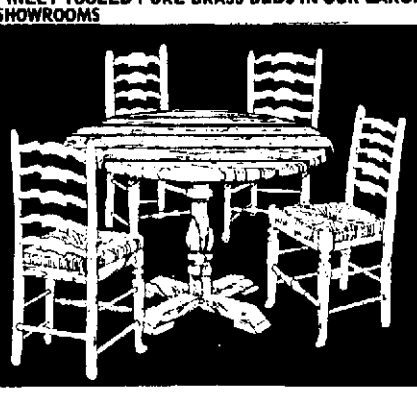

Brainwaves may some day help a quadruplegic control his wheelchair without manipulating levers, or enable an immobilized pilot to fly his plane, says Prof. Jacques Vidal.

Vidal, a UCLA computer specialist with training in the neurosciences, said in Los Angeles Thursday that experiments conducted at the university's Brain Computer Interface Project, which he heads, have shown promise in brainwave use.

Gas demand hiking prices

Associated Press

Demand for gasoline is undiminished and has pushed consumption sharply above pre-energy crisis levels for the first time in three years, an industry analyst said Friday.

Consumer demand also is forcing a growing reliance on expensive foreign oil and pushing up gasoline prices, said Dan Lundberg, president of Lundberg Surveys, Inc., and publisher of the weekly Lundberg Letter.

"Conservation efforts are not living up to expectations, and our undiminshed demand is largely responsible for recent gasoline price hikes," Lundberg said in Los Angeles.

Lundberg, who said he polls some 50,000 gas stations each week, said annual consumption this year is running 3.2 per cent above a comparable period of 1973.

He said this year's daily gasoline consumption from Jan. 1 to April 30 averaged 282.2 million gallons, compared with 273.4 million a day three years ago. Consumption in 1974 and 1975 ran below pre-crisis amounts.

Lundberg said the unabated demand had pushed up reliance on imported oil. He said about 38 per cent of gasoline produced this month was from foreign crude, compared with 31 per cent a year ago.

He said the immediate result had been the most recent round of major oil-company wholesale price increases of from 2 to 3 cents a gallon since the end of March.

The latest to announce hikes were Atlantic Richfield (ARCO) of 2 cents a gallon Friday and Union Oil of a penny a gallon on Thursday. Both companies are headquartered in Los Angeles.

"Despite all efforts by the administration, people are just not staying below 55 miles an hour, and our demand apparently is insatiable," Lundberg said.

"The profit margins of gas stations have been steadily declining for years, and most of them just can't absorb much more," he said, leading to higher pump prices to reflect the wholesale boosts.

He said more price hikes might slow demand.

"This could be de facto rationing in its incipiency," he said.

Lundberg added that price hikes also stemmed from the seasonal shutdown of many refineries in the rush to convert from heating oil to gasoline production.

"This almost always produces a shortage around this time of year," he said.

Shellfish linked to typhoid cases

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A shipment of shellfish from Portugal to San Jose has been linked to four cases of typhoid fever, state Health Department officials said Friday.

The four cases were treated and none was fatal, the department reported, but it is warning consumers to be on the lookout for the shellfish.

The shellfish were received last December by Ventura Imports. The black, univalve limpets about the size of a California mussel were fresh-frozen and packed in two-pound clear plastic bags, the department said.

The department did not know the size of the shipment, but a spokesman said consumers should check their freezers and take the red, orange and white packages to local health departments.

The shipment was sold from a retail outlet in San Jose and from refrigerated trucks in Santa Clara, San Mateo, San Benito, Monterey, Tulare, San Joaquin and Stanislaus counties, the department said.

A retail distributor in San Leandro, Luso Mercado Imports, also sold them.

The bags are marked: "Fresh Frozen Portuguese Lapa-Limpet Distributed by Gonsalves, Pawtucket, R.I. Product of Portugal CPC. Net weight 32 oz., (2 lbs.). Packed by Comfanhia Portuguesa Congelacao S.A.R.L. Lisboa-Portugal."

The department said there are about 100 cases of typhoid with one or two deaths a year in California. Fever would develop one to three weeks after eating an infected shellfish.

Solon urges property tax relief via surplus

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Republican legislator said Friday that the state should use part of an increase in state revenue to fund $300 million in property tax exemptions and renters' tax credits.

Assemblyman Paul Bannai, R-Gardena, said he would introduce a bill providing the rebates.

Bannai said GOP Assembly leader Paul Priolo backs his proposal, and he said he hopes to pick up Democratic support for it as well.

But David Jensen, Gov. Brown's press spokesman, said Brown has not decided what he wants to do with the money.

Under Bannai's proposal, the homeowners' tax exemption would go from $7,000 to $9,250 a year — making $68 the reduction in an average property tax bill, Bannai said.

He added that his proposal would increase renters' relief from $37 to $49 a year.

Earlier this week Finance Director Roy Bell told the Senate Finance Committee that the state's booming recovery would pour an additional $567 million into state coffers.

That would place the state surplys at $538.9 million at the end of this fiscal year — June 30.

Victims of plane crash identified

MARIPOSA (AP)—Two men killed in the crash of their rented light plane Thursday near Lake McClure tentatively have been identified as Steven Parr, age unknown, of Castle Air Force Base, and Michael Farrell, age and hometown unknown. They were killed when they flew into a dead-end canyon, clipped a canyon wall and crashed.

L.A. budget may hike tax rate 5½c per $100

Associated Press

The Los Angeles City Council Friday approved a balanced 1976-77 budget that may increase property taxes by 5½ cents per $100 of assessed value.

City Adminstrative Officer C. Erwin Piper estimated the budget at $983 million, and the council approved it by a 10-to-4 vote after four days of debate.

The recommended budget will be submitted to Mayor Tom Bradley next week.

The property-tax hike may be levied to offset $4.9 million in overtime pay for city firemen. A law mandating cities to pay the overtime was passed by Congress, but is being challenged before the Supreme Court.

If the court upholds the law before August, when the city tax rate is due to be set, then a tax override would have to be levied.

Marine captain accused again

SAN DIEGO (AP) - One of four Marines accused in the beating death of Pvt. Lynn McClure was told Friday that he also is being charged with assault involving another recruit.

The new charge was brought against Capt. Cecil V. Taylor, 34, of Orlando, Fla. A spokeswoman at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot said Pvt. Ronald L. Taylor was 17 when he was hit on the head with enough force to "produce grievous bodily harm" during a pugil-stick fight last Oct. 4.

Taylor, unrelated to the officer, lives in Fountain Valley. He testified during a base investigation before courts-martial trials were ordered, but there was no word of the extent of his injury.

Capt. Taylor also was charged with three counts of violating orders in the way the close-combat fights were staged between Oct. 4 and Dec. 6 and with two counts of dereliction of duty.

In a fight Dec. 6, the 20-year-old McClure was reported beaten unconscious. He died March 13 in the Houston, Tex., Veterans Hospital.

No decision has been made on a trial for Taylor.

Taylor's attorney, Capt. A. W. Applebee, said he was shocked to learn of the new charges after his request to withdraw the others had been approved.

Applebee said in an interview that Taylor was being "penalized for attempting to assert his rights."

The other defendants, all sergeants suspended from training duties, were ordered to stand trial. They are Sgt. Henry E. Aguilar, 23, of Hanford, Calif.; S.Sgt Harold L. Bronson, 30, of Freeport, Fla.; and S.Sgt. Henry C. Wallraff, 27, of St. Croix, Minn.

Nonjudicial punishment ordered for Capt. John B. Uhlmann, 34, was delayed. A letter of reprimand was sent to Col. Rufus A. Seymour, who commanded the Recruit Training Regiment.

An attorney for McClure's family in Lufkin, Tex., has filed a $3.5-million wrongful death claim against the Marine Corps.

It's the poor man's orchid

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Epidendrums, sometimes called the "poor man's orchid", are epiphytic plants — those that grow independently in crotches of and on branch of frees. These tree perching plants produce their own roots and manufacture food from their own green chlorphyll.

Although they are not a parasite living off the tree sap, the plant roots get a foothold, catches leaves from the tree and the decayed leaves serve as a medium for the root to grow in.

The thick reed-like stems have narrow green leaves from four inches to more long. The flowers are an inch or larger in size and resemble the cattleya orchids, with 10 to 15 flowers in a terminal cluster.

There are over 500 species, the most common colors in red, yellow, lavender, orange, rose, and probably white, although we haven't seen a white variety.

These plants are recommended for green house culture, yet they've been seen growing in full sun about 15 miles inland from the coast where there is a lot of night dampness.

Frosts can damage the branches from time to time, but they shortly recover, then bloom for many months of the year. The plants are easy to grow without much fussing — just a balanced plant food at least five to six times a year. It is also an excellent container plant.

Chrysanthemums are available in containers to be planted out now for the fall season. Be sure to check with the nurseryman and have him help you select some that bloom at various times in the season.

The mums with roots that were separated from the outer area of the old clumps and replants, should have the tops snapped off when they have grown about 10 inches tall. Thereafter, each time two or three sets of leaves have grown out, continue snapping off the tops to within six to eight weeks that the plants would normally begin to set buds.

This operation forces the plants to grow bushy, with many more branches that also will provide blossoms when the plants begin to bloom. Best part of all, the upright branches won't be leafless half way up the stems.

Annuals such as Zinnias, Asters, Hybrid and American Marigolds, Ageratum, Amaranthus, Celosia, Gloriosa Daisy, Foxy Foxglove, Gaillardia, and Lobelia should be planted in the sunny garden areas.

Perennials of Begonias, Impatiens and Balsam should be set out in the shade garden areas. Coleus, although considered a shade plant, should get several hours of direct sunlight which helps intensify the colors in the leaves.

Sow Tithonia (Mexican Sunflower), too. Although a sun loving annual, it grows to around six feet tall, with blue gray hairy leaves. It's a good background plant, with fiery orange dahlia-like blossoms that are good cut flowers too.

Don't forget to plant Dahlia roots soon as possible for cutflowers till the frosts come.

Lawn mower lost

Burglars who pried a side door to enter the garage of Douglas J. Watson, 2633 Linden Ave., took a lawn mower valued at $150, Long Beach police said Friday.

Old tires are perfect center for vegetables

Importantly, thhis system has provided the Pettersens with high density plantings of their favorite vegetable crops in the relatively small amount of space that is available to them in their La Mesa backyard.

It has also provided them with a trouble free garden that has produced large vegetable crops well ahead of normal growth periods.

Most of the Pettersens' backyard was previously sprayed to keep weeds from growing between avocado and citrus trees. While this saved them from many long hours of hand weeding, it also produced a toxic soil that would not grow the vegetables that the Pettersens desired.

To compensate for this, they came up with the idea of obtaining old tires from neighborhood gas stations, and filling the tire centers with a planting mix.

Then to be sure each tire center received just the right amount of water at all times, they placed a drip irrigation system along the tire rows. This system provided plastic water distribution tubes with individual discharges at each tire, to regularly replace moisture lost through plant utilization and evaporation.

Different vegetable crops were planted inside each tire center. With these crops grown under optimum moisture and fertility levels, production has been truly amazing.

"For example," says Charlie, "we've grown golden zucchini from seed in just 45 days. Also, we've used individual tire centers to grow large Hubbard squash in only 67 days compared to the usual 120 days, and last summer Judy packed away 22 quarts of dill pickles grown from one tire only, not to mention sweet corn, lettuce and a dozen other vegetables as well — all with equal success."

The optimum moisture and nutrient level that can be easily maintained in thesee tire centers is one of the big reasons for big, fast yields, according to Pettersen. But best of all is the additional heat that is absorbed by the black rubber tires and transmitted to the soil. In addition to speeding germination and growth, Pettersen believes this additional heat also allows plants to grow in cooler geographical areas which would otherwise be too hostile.

His tire center growing system is designed to return weekend backyard vegetable growing to exactly what it's supposed to be — easy and rewarding.

GARDENING

Grow your own vegetables: good meals, save money

Home gardening is gaining in popularity as the cost of living continues to rise. More Americans are tending gardens today than ever before. A recent Gallup poll shows that more than half the homes in this country have vegetable and flower gardens, with an estimated 3.5 million new vegetable gardens planted last year alone.

"A home garden plot 10-feet x 20-feet with $20 invested in seed supplies and equipment can produce vegetables worth $290 at today's going prices," according to Leslie Wood, consumer information specialist.

"In addition to the tremendous savings to your food budget, nothing beats the taste of freshly picked vegetables.

"Many people are under the impression that a vegetable garden requires a lot of space. Not so," she continues. "A vegetable garden can be as small as you have room for or as large as you wish, depending on the time you have to take care of it and the amount of money you invest.

"A garden plot 10-feet x 20-feet, which is in direct sunlight, can produce enough to provide a family of four with many weekly dishes of garden- fresh vegetables. Did you know, for instance, that one tomato plant can produce 25 pounds of tomatoes?"

Even apartment dwellers can get into the spirit — all they need is a terrace with sufficient sunlight and tubs for the plants.

To produce a greater harvest, progressive planting is suggested — which simply means making use of the ground all season long. Some vegetables can and should be planted several times during the season to produce multiple crops.

Instead of planting all the seeds in one weekend, so they all mature at the same time, plant them over four or five weekends. This way, you can spread your harvest over a longer period.

The first step in starting a vegetable garden is to give careful consideration to the best vegetables to plant — those that are highly productive, offer the least problems, and do not take up too much room.

Tomatoes are an excellent choice. They provide the highest yield per square inch of garden space.

Radishes are a popular crop because they are fast and easy to grow. In just three or four weeks you can have fresh radishes, and through progressive planting, they can be harvested all season long.

"Bush beans provide good productivity from only a few cents worth of seed," adds Ms. Wood. The trick to growing beans is to plant a row every ten days to two weeks. Then the harvest will be spread out over many weeks, and you won't find yourself with bushels of beans at one time.

Lettuce is also a good crop to consider. The "loosehead" or leaf lettuce plants can withstand the summer heat, however, better than the head variety.

From just four zucchini plants, enough squash can be harvested to feed a family all summer. They start bearing in early summer and don't stop until the frost.

Deaf woman shot by bandit

SAN DIEGO (AP) - A deaf woman with a speech impediment tried to tell a masked gunman that she was without money but was shot in the face, police said Friday.

Lynn Gloria Hildebrand, 28, was accosted in a laundromat by the youth who fled without money late Thursday night. She was treated at a hospital for a cheek wound and released.

Want a finer lawn? Then read this!

Warren' research facilities, established twenty years ago, have under observation over 1,000 strains and species of grasses. Some of these grasses have been patented and are available to the public in various parts of the United States and Europe.

About ten years ago one of these new grasses...

BenSun (A-34)
KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS

...was introduced into California. Its performance has proven to be outstanding for these reasons:

- Rated first in shade tolerance (up to 65%) yet grows vigorously in full sunlight.
- Rated first in wear tolerance by a university doing turfgrass research. (Of eighteen top bluegrasses tested, for golf course use, BenSun (A-34) was the only grass to receive an excellent rating.)
- Quick to recover when injured and is used extensively on athletic fields and golf courses.
- Does well in most soils, and is highly drought resistant.
- Thrives in hot or cold climates, at high or low altitudes.
- Requires less fertilizer to keep it healthy.
- Can be mowed down to ½ inch when planted in sunlight.
- One pound of seed will plant 2,000 sq. ft. of new lawn area at a cost of only ⅓¢ per square foot.
- BenSun (A-34) Lawngrass Seed carries this guarantee: "If you are not satisfied with the results obtained from this seed, return the empty box with proof of purchase within 6 months to Warren's Turf Nursery, Inc. You will be supplied with more seed or your money will be refunded, your choice".

Available as Sod, Sod Plugs and Seed!

To keep your lawn green and healthy use WARREN'S LAWN FOOD, specially formulated (10-8-4 analysis for proper balance) to give your lawn the proper food nutrients. Use the lawn food the grass professionals use.

Dianthus— a splash of garden color

Although Carnations are normally considered biennials requiring two seasons to produce flowers from sowing, their cousins Magic Charms (Dianthus), should be grown as annuals. Planted this spring and summer, they will provide splashes of color until fall.

Magic Charms' cheerful mixture of colors including scarlet, white, pink, speckled and crimson make perfect borders or large mass plantings. Plants stay a petite eight inches wide and six inches tall.

A five-inch flower pot can easily accommodate Magic Charms. This makes them ideal potted plants for small balconies, window boxes, and porches. Truly easy-to-grow, they require only light fertilizing and have very few insect pests.

Like many other colorful annuals, Dianthus do best in full sun. On the drought-tolerant side, they add a beautiful show of color and texture to rock gardens.

The flowers are a full 1 1 2 to 2 inches across and cover the plant with color. When the blooms fade, cut the plants back to about four or five inches above the ground. Another flush of color will return later in the season to brighten up the garden.

You'll be planting a true winner this season with Magic Charms. It is not only honored in Europe with the Fleuro-Select award but has been an All American Selection winner.

And closes for two months

Hughes will battle opens

By WALLACE TURNER
New York Times Service

LAS VEGAS — More than a dozen lawyers, including the attorney general of Texas, were on hand Friday as the opening round in the battle over Howard Hughes' estate was postponed two months.

It was the first hearing on the first will filed among 18 purported wills of the billionaire industrialist. Four separate attacks have been opened on the validity of this will, which was found on April 27 on a desk in the world headquarters of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) in Salt Lake City.

The upshot Friday was that District Court Judge Keith Hayes, observing that "little of substance can be accomplished here this morning," recessed the hearings until July 30.

The handwritten "Mormon will" was delivered here by church officials as directed by a note on the envelope in which it was found. The document was presented for probate on April 30 by Noah Dietrich, 87-year-old Los Angeles resident who was Hughes's longtime chief assistant but who had been estranged for almost two decades from the reclusive billionaire, who died April 5.

The attacks on the will's validity are called, in legal parlance, "contests." The practice is to name as defendants those who are assumed to have a stake in the validity of the purported will. These defendants then have 30 days from legal notification in which to respond to the contest, and the person filing the contest then has 30 days to answer.

Noting all this, Hayes recessed the hearings.

To some observers there was a sense of unreality about the proceedings. They followed, at the end of the court calendar, a series of uncontested divorces granted at the rate of about one every three minutes, and the reading of orders in other probate matters. Then came the matter of the purported will of the eccentric, moody Hughes — a document that if valid would distribute the $1.5 billion — perhaps more — amassed during the industrialist's lifetime.

Among the attorneys present were those representing Rice Institute, the University of California, the University of Nevada and, representing the University of Texas, the Texas attorney general, John Hill.

These institutions are among the beneficiaries named in the purported will. The Mormon Church was also named as a beneficiary, but the Mormons had no legal representative in court.

The unreal quality of the proceedings was heightened by the knowledge that the will's authenticity has been attacked in uncompromising terms by several handwriting experts who have examined it as well as by Hughes' associates during much of his lifetime. One expert, however, said he thought the handwriting matched samples of Hughes' writing.

Others familiar with Hughes' affairs, including the executives of Summa Corp., his personal holding company, have referred to the document as a forgery.

Perhaps the most significant of the four attacks on the purported will is that of Mrs. Annette Gano Lummis, 85-year-old Houston woman who was the closest surviving relative of Hughes. She is his mother's sister.

Mrs. Lummis says she was "the sole heir under the laws of descent and distribution of Nevada." She denied that Dietrich was executor of Hughes' last testament, and called the document under consideration "a forgery, a fraud and a hoax." She said it was inconsistent, considering their enmity, that Hughes would name Dietrich as executor.

Mrs. Lummis' son, William R. Lummis, a Houston lawyer, has been named by a Delaware court as administrator of Summa Corp., into which Hughes had put virtually all his properties. Summa is a Delaware corporation.

People and ideas

Christian women

MARK CLUTTER
RELIGION EDITOR

Women are more various than men. Richer emotionally, unpredictable, lovely, calmer in desperate emergencies, more spirtual in a down-to-earth way, more fierce, more gentle, etc. About the only the superior trait of men is that they are usually bigger.

So it is impossible for a man to write about the Christian women who really influenced his life. He can't even understand them completely.

But he can remember casual, meaningful contacts.

GIDEON OF THE AIR WAYS

I was lucky on the plane to Omaha. A woman sat beside me. She was petite, pretty in a sedate way, blonde hair in a tight coif, a modest suit.

I have discovered that chance-met companions on public transportation will talk freely if they want to talk at all. A few casual remarks and she started talking. Her name was Jan. She was going home to her three children after two wonderful weeks with her husband on "R & R" in Hawaii.

"Maybe I'm pregnant again," she said. "I kinda hope so. He is such a fine man."

Her husband was a fighter pilot and a captain in the Air Force. From her view, this was about the most noble work a man could do.

He was also a Gideon. If you know your Old Testament, Gideon was a tough, heroic captain in the time of the Judges. A modern Gideon puts Bibles in the dressers of hotels and motels. Her husband in his free time was seeing to it that there were plenty of Bibles in the barracks of Vietnam.

The stewardess came by and I asked Jan if she would like a drink. "Thank you, no. That stuff has harmed so many brother officers and their wives."

She was perfectly sure of their way of life. To be married to a professional warrior, a Gideon, was the most wonderful thing that could happen.

Well, her way was not my way, but I liked her intensely. So clean-cut, so honest, so — do I dare use the word — pure.

We exchanged two or three letters, but chance-met friendships do not last long. I've often wondered about her. Did her knight, her Gideon, who really belonged in another war, take a bad one over Nam? Or did he come home, like so many others, embittered and broken in faith?

One hopes that their purity, naive though it seems, has survived a corrupt era. It sometimes does, you know.

THE LADY OF THE FOREST

My wife had just died unexpectedly and I was distraught. A college classmate, Irene, came to see me.

"At times like this we Christians must love each other," she said. "Come and spend the weekend on our farm."

I hadn't seen her for a long time. I had heard that she had inherited a farm and had married a farmer. She was a tall, handsome, muscular woman with an outdoorsy look. I went.

It was a little, weathered farmhouse with an old-fashioned look inside and out, although no one would call Irene an old-fashioned girl. Her husband, Bill, came in at sunset and dinner was ready. Farmers eat twice as well as their city-dude cousins.

Bill was a slim, sinewy man who was friendly enough but devoted to silence. When he spoke it was usually something of a practical nature, such as "Tomorrow I'll have to get the tractor conburetor fixed."

After supper he stretched and yawned: "Well, tomorrow will be a hard day. I'd better hit the sack."

Irene and I talked for awhile. Mostly she talked. The gist, without preaching, was that sorrow is inevitable, but that it is a beautiful world in which we must live every day and love each other as well as we can. At bedtime she put an arm around my shoulders and kissed me lightly on a cheek.

Next morning I awoke to the aroma of steak and eggs. Bill had been up for awhile caring for the livestock. Breakfast was tremendous. It included corn meal mush with cream and honey, strawberries and strong coffee.

Afterwards she said, "I have work to do this morning. This afternoon I'll show you my woods. Would you like to ride our horse? Or shoot a gun?"

Like many farm homes there was an arsenal. I chose a .22 and plinked for awhile, cleaned the rifle, then saddled the horse. It had been a long time since I had been on a horse. My legs remembered that ride for several days.

In the afternoon we put on swim suits under our jeans and hiked to the river. We swam for a while in the muddy water, then we walked through her forest. "I'll let anyone hunt here if he promises not to shoot my squirrels. They are my friends." The squirrels knew it. They made friendly noises from the oak boughs.

She seemed to know the nature and life history of any tree or plant in her forest.

We had one unusual experience. We came to a tree swarming with Monarch butterflies. They were, she explained, on their annual pilgrimage from Canada to Mexico. They would die there, but their children would know the way home at the proper season next year. "How can anyone say there is no God?" she asked.

That night we went the American Legion Post. Most of the men were sunbrowned and heavy muscled. The music was loud. The evening grew progressively moist. And friendly. All the men and women wanted to say "Hi" to Irene's friend.

Irene didn't care much for booze, but she could dance up a storm. Almost a professional dancer in her youth, she knew how to keep her feet out of the way of clodhoppers, including me. She almost convinced me that I could dance.

The next morning we went to the Methodist Church. It was very much the church many of us remember. Some of our pals of the night before were looking a bit repentant. All the people looked respectable and starchy. We belted out "Onward, Christian Soldiers" and some other hymns and sat bolt upright while the preacher explained about the danger of sin.

Then Sunday dinner, a little more lavish than the others.

What did the weekend mean to me? Well, it meant that there is more to life than private grief. It meant that we must face each day with whatever joy we can muster. It meant that we must face our beautiful, dreadful world with whatever courage we can find. It meant that we must have a sense of comradeship — I felt that at both the American Legion and the church. But, above all, we must love one another.

That isn't easy. The poet Auden may have improved on Jesus when he wrote:

"You must love your crooked neighbor
"With your crooked heart."

THE VIRGIN CHURCH MOUSE

There are certain kinds of Christians one doesn't like — perhaps because they don't like themselves.

Madge was one of them. We were both in our early 20s. She was always hanging around my mother. Her clothes were dowdy, her posture was sloppy, her eyes were clouded by dirty glasses, and her conversation was beyond belief. She knew how to combine piety with nastiness in a most artistic way.

Madge never missed a church function — and her sect seemed to have about 20 a week.

Then she surprised everyone by announcing that she was going to be a missionary to the Navajo. "Poor Indians," I thought. "haven't they suffered enough already?"

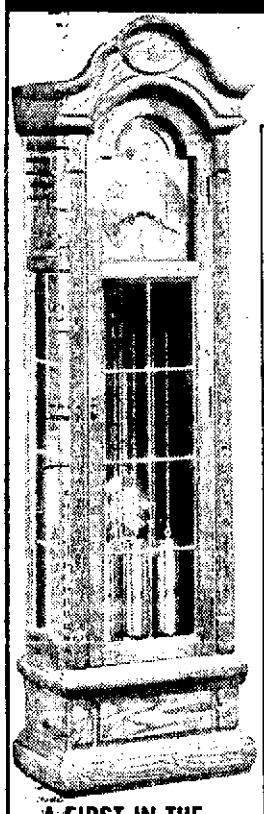

We didn't see Madge for three years. When she came home on leave from Arizona we were surprised. She was slim and straight and almost as brown as an Indian. And she was proud.

She had learned first aid. She had learned the art of midwifery. She could ride horses and drive a truck. She was not afraid of mountains and deserts. She loved her Indian friends because they needed her.

Of course she was still Madge, "the Virgin Church Mouse." No one ever really changes his character. But everyone can change the direction of the character he has.

Our beautiful churches

In my Father's house are many mansions: If it were not so, I would have told you . . . John 14:2.

As thou hast sent me into the world, even so have I also sent them into the world. John 17:18.

Cure for loneliness

Christian students living as families

By MARK CLUTTER

Should young, single, Christian men and women live unsupervised in the same house?

"It is working out very well," said Dr. Edward E. Ray, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, 759 Linden Ave.

Two of those who are directly involved with the community houses wholeheartedly agreed. They are Sandy Dager, 23, of the Dayspring House, 6481 El Roble, just off the LBSU campus, and the Rev. Dave Ellingson, 28, executive director of Lutheran Campus Ministries. Sandy, a graduate student, hopes to go to seminary and become an ordained minister. Ellingson is working on his doctorate.

Of course, the first question anyone asks about a commune of young people is "What about sex?"

Sandy laughed. "Well, if we had to do it, I guess we would have to go into a park and hide under a bush. We don't have much privacy in the house. We are young people and have the usual stresses, but that is not what this is about. It is a family."

Dave added: "Ours is a lonely world. State University and City College are especially lonely. They are like factories. And many homes are not really homes. We try to give people a sense of belonging and sharing."

There are three house — Dayspring; Sonrise, 7036 Stearns St., and Downtown House, 931 Maine Ave. Downtown includes married couples, the elderly and singles. None of them have large numbers. Both Dayspring and Sonrise have fewer than ten. Dayspring started three years ago.

For young students it is hard to imagine a more economical way of life. The rent is $40 a month, the food bill $5 a week.

"We have lots of cookbooks," Sandy said. "It takes some planning to get people properly fed on that money."

"We believe that the world must reduce consuming. We're not vegetarians but we believe that people must start eating more wisely," Dave said.

Not every young person can move in. The applicant must submit a personal resume and be interviewed. The residents are all Christian although of various denominations.

There are few house rules. Each person must do his stint as cook and as dishwasher. All are expected for "family dinner" each night. There is a morning devotion. Dayspring has a weekly Bible study which is open to all interested students.

"The Lutheran tradition is one of conserving and at the same time being liberal," Dr. Ray said. "We seek to apply Christ to daily life. That is what we are trying to do in these houses. We hope we are setting a pattern that other churches will follow."

"It's amazing how much people can grow in our environment," Dave said. "They learn, some of them for the first time, how to live with others."

Methodists set goals

PORTLAND, ORE. (AP) — Delegates to the United Methodist General Conference have been urged to recruit one million new members by 1984, the 200th anniversary of American Methodism.

Bishop James S. Thomas of Des Moines, Iowa, set the goal and also called for donations of $200 million in new funds by the same date. Bishop Thomas' challenges have been approved by all 59 active and 43 retired bishops of the Church.

Lutheran for busing

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The president of the American Lutheran Church has called upon all his group's congregations to support court-ordered desegregation programs and work toward equal educational opportunity in their communities.

Dr. David W. Preus said "The busing of students has occasioned no more difficulties in those communities where school desegregation is an issue than in the thousands of communities where young people are regularly bused because of distance from school.

However, in a few communities, efforts to provide equal educational opportunity through desegregation and busing "have met with fear, hatred and even violence," he said.

"There are no winners when this happens, he said. "Everyone suffers unnecessarily."

"In communities where this occurs I ask American Luthern Church members to give active support to the required desegregation programs and to those responsible for implementing them," he said.

Viet paper in Missouri

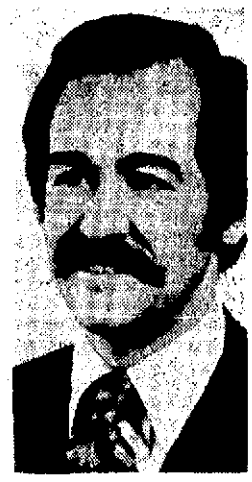

CARTHAGE, MO. (AP) — "Tu-Si Viet-Nam Da Lam, Viec Moi La Tai Ozarks, "read the headline in the newspaper filled with stories and information in Vietnamese.

But the paper was published in the Ozarks as a special section of the Mirror, the weekly newspaper of the Roman Catholic diocese of Springfield-Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Brothers and priests of the Vietnamese Congregation of the Blessed Mother Co-Redemptrix live in Carthage. They fled Saigon when South Vietnam was overrun by the North Vietnamese.

The special section in the group's native language links the 167 brothers and priests to diocesan and other funcions.

And he said to the woman, Thy faith hath saved thee; go in peace. Luke 7:50.

Jewish 'Bill of Rights'

NEW YORK (AP) — Agudath Israel of America, an Orthodox Jewish organization that sponsors diversified programs for Jews, has published a "Bill of Rights" for Jewish hospital patients.

While the Agudath form is not legally binding, the organization said, however, "We are confident that a polite but forceful request for any or all of these rights will be honored."

The "Bill of Rights" includes such things as being served Kosher food, deferred advance payment until the close of the Sabbath or a festival, observance of Jewish rituals where not "medically counterindicated," refusal of outpatient appointments scheduled for the Sabbath or festivals, and the right to consult with spiritual advisers before deciding whether to undergo medical procedures that might pose religious questions.

Ford grant

NEW YORK (AP) — A $50,000 Ford Foundation grant has been made to the communications office of the United Church of Christ to continue its eight-year-old program to combat racial discrimination in broadcasting.

Birth rate worries Jews

NEW YORK (AP) — A low birth rate among Jews and a high intermarriage rate have been cited as factors that could deplete American and Israeli Jewish communities.

William Berman, executive director of the Jewish Population Regeneration Union, said "To maintain its numbers any group must average 2.5 children per family. The Jewish birth rate, however, is estimated at 1.5 per family."

"Coupled with an intermarriage rate of 40 per cent in the U.S., a dismal picture emerges. Sociologists maintain that if the present birth-intermarriage rate continues, American Jewry will be reduced to a paltry remnant within four generations, with the present rate of decline calculated at more than 100,000 per year," Berman wrote in the Jewish Journal.

He said that if the birth rate of Jews in Israel remains similarly low, "Israeli Arabs will populate the Jewish state out of existence."

Churches get more members

NEW YORK (AP) — Membership in religious bodies in the United States has risen after losing ground in recent years, according to the National Council of Churches.

The Council released a Yearbook of American and Canadian Churches that reported 132,287,450 persons are members of religious groups, a gain of 1,042,311, or less than 1 per cent, over 1974.

The yearbook also showed that the percentage of the U.S. population holding formal membership in churches in 1975, 62.3 per cent, was up from the 1974 otal of 61.9 per cent.

Constant Jacquet Jr., editor of the yearbook, said 223 religious bodies in the United States were surveyed. He said a factor in church growth seemed to be "aggressive missionary activity, efforts by religious groups to reach people in many situations."

The highest rates of growth were recorded by the Roman Catholic Church, the Southern Baptist Convention, the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-day Saints (Mormon), the Assemblies of God, and Jehovah's Witnesses.

For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men. Titus 2:11.

POSITIVE THINKING
by Norman Vincent Peale

Where You Want To Go

I once asked a newspaper editor, "How did you get to be the editor of this important paper?"

"I wanted to be," was his simple reply.

"Is that all there is to it?" I asked. "You wanted to be, and so here you are?"

"Well," he explained, "that's only part of it, but it's a large part. If you want to get somewhere, you have to decide definitely on your goal, what you want to be or attain or accomplish. Be sure, of course, that it's a right objective. Then photograph that objective on your mind. Hold it there tenaciously, work hard, and the mental image will become so powerful that it will tend to assure success."

He pulled a worn card from his wallet and handed it to me. "I read this every day of my life," he said. "It has become my dominating thought."

I copied down the words on the card. They were: "A man who is self-reliant, positive, optimistic and undertakes his work with the assurance of success magnetizes his condition; he draws to himself the creative powers of the universe."

It is, indeed, a fact that a person who thinks with a postive, self-reliant and optimistic point of view does magnetize his condition and acquires the power to attain his goals. On the other hand, people who are hazy about their aims find that such nonobjective thinking defeats their own efforts and so they never manage to find the satisfaction of achievement. If you visualize your goal and believe in it, and work hard, your faith in yourself can really work wonders.

A second factor in getting where you want to go is to realize that there is more in you than you realize. There are astonishing things in people just groping for release. The Reader's Digest once published a thrilling story illustrating this fact. It was the story of a man who, during the depression back in the 1930's, found himself in the lobby of a hotel in a strange city on a cold winter morning with only five cents in his pocket. The clerk at the desk had just told him that his baggage had been impounded because of his failure to pay his bill and that he would not be permitted to go back to his room.

This man stood looking out the lobby window which was steamed up by the cold air outside and the warm air inside. Then he became aware that all was not lost; he still had a brain and his brain was not panicky, it was relaxed. He was able to think, and think he did.

The result was an idea: a German chemist had told him years before that if you rub glycerine soap on a window and then wipe it off with a clean cloth, the window will no longer steam up.

So he took his last nickel and with it bought a bar of glycerine soap. He sat on a park bench and cut the soap into twenty-four small pieces. Then he went to the nearest filling station and showed the manager how to keep a windshield from fogging up by rubbing it with his soap and wiping it off with dry cloth. He sold the whole lot for twenty-four times what he had paid for it. He replenished his supply, and, by the end of that day, starting out broke, he had made twenty-seven dollars. Three months later he owned a new automobile and had a thousand dollars in cash in the bank. He named his new product "Miracle Rub".

Now, where was this "Miracle Rub" before it was produced? All the time it had been hidden away back in this man's mind. He had the ability to think and to store up ideas. Also he did not panic, permitting him to relax in a crisis so that his brain could function properly and release its idea power when that power was most needed.

"A man's life is what his thoughts make it," said Marcus Aurelius, one of the world's wisest men. And the most powerful releasing agent for effective thinking is faith — faith in God and faith in yourself. That faith can release powers that lie dormant within you. It can set creative forces in motion. It can permit your personality to function freely and forcefully.

Male, female

NEW YORK (AP) — To 19 new cardinals designated by Pope Paul VI —all men— the head of the U.S. section of the St. Joan International Alliance, Francis McGillicuddy, sent UNICEF greeting cards showing a drawing of a tree-full of red cardinals, and appended this note:

"When God created cardinals, male and female created he them."

Executions

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — After an examination of the question, a commission of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod says that "according to the Holy Scriptures and the Lutheran Confessions, the government has the authority to apply the death penalty," but it "can be abused" and the "government is not required to exercise its right to administer it."

No longer black

Muslim tells Islam's role

By MARK CLUTTER

The Black Muslims are no longer all black. They are simply Americans devoted to the faith of Islam.

"Everyone is welcome in our mosques," said Carl Saafir, assistant to the minister at Muhammad's Temple No. 42, 2104 Orange Ave.

The Muslims are also seeking deeper understanding with Christians. There will be a "Community Spiritual Jubilee" at the Los Angeles Convention Center, 1201 S. Figueroa, Sunday beginning at 11 a.m. The principal speakers will be the Honorable Wallace D. Muhammad, chief minister of the Nation of Islam, and Rev. Jim Jones of the People's Temple Christian Church. Saafir predicted that 30,000 persons will attend.

Saafir said that the mosque here is small, a little over 300 members, but that the Muslims number 100,000 in Los Angeles and Orange counties.

The Muslims in America have been changing, he said. They are in a way more Muslim as they have become more sophisticated in the teachings of Islam. They have better understanding of their fellow religionists in the Eastern world. And they are less racist.

"At the beginning we had the heritage of slavery to overcome. We were never enemies to white people or to Christians. But we had problems to work out," he said.

Morality on all levels is emphasized. "We get truth and knowledge from the Holy Quran," he said, "but we also study the Bible."

The American Muslims don't accept the stern practices of some of those of the East. "We teach that it is wrong to drink alcohol because it harms the body," he said, "but we aren't about to worry about whether a member has bottles in his refrigerator. That's his business. He is a free man."

Women are also free. No harems, no purdah, no subjection. "I don't bosss my wife around. Women are free to work at jobs. We even have women ministers. These are American women."

The doctrine does hold, however, that men and women have very different roles. Motherhood and homemaking are the first duties of women.

with hoods. That custom has fallen into decline. But both men and women are expected to dress neatly and in dignity.

The pastor of Temple No. 42 is Bro. Min. Henry Abdullah. Meeting times are Wednesday and Friday, 8 p.m., and Sunday, 2 p.m. Meetings are simple — no music, no liturgy, just prayers and reading from the Quran, followed by discusssion.

"Everyone is welcome. Please come," Saafir said.

Review

Modern view of Decalog

This witty, chatty, philosophical book by the pastor of Lakewood First Presbyterian Church should be of value to confused Christians. (Are there any other kind?)

Most of us tend to think of the Ten Commandments as some words carved in stone a long time ago. Like granite, they are hard, cold, rigid and can bruise one. They sometimes seem more suitable to a savage people walking around in the Sinai Desert.

That is not Pastor Sueltz's view at all. The Ten Commanments are more than harsh "Thou Shalt Nots." They are statements of deathless principles for all men in all times. But they must be thought about in terms of the world in which we live.

He talks about the ancient words in the sense of Now. He is not puritan or dogmatic or harsh. Rather, he believes that the Ten Commandments can help us live better lives in spite of all sophisticated folly.

Aid sought for Viets

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — An interdenominational delegation of church leaders has returned from a two-week visit to Vietnam, saying churches there are vigorous, and urging U.S. help for rebuilding the war-torn country.

"Such devastation has been brought to that nation that it is imperative that the government of the United States respond with symbolic and substantial help," says United Methodist Bishop James A. Armstrong of Aberdeen, S.D., one of the six-member delegation.

"Americans should be helping and American Christians have a responsibility in Vietnam," says Benard A. Confer, head of Lutheran World Relief, who made the trip. Now that the country is reunited, he adds, "we ought to stand by them and help them to get going."

Pastors, man your posts!

BAD GANDERSHEIM, West Germany (AP) — A pastor should stay where he is needed, says a Lutheran bishop from Communist-ruled East Germany. Bishop Werner Krusche made the comment in regard to reports that an increasing number of clergymen want to leave East Germany. He told a conference of European church leaders here that the established church is dying out in East Germany, but "preaching of the gospel" will go on.

Witnesses

I feel it only proper to make a reply to Mr. Jeff A. Smith concerning his letter about Jehovah's witnesses and Christians in an attempt to enlighten him and those who think like him.

Firstly, I find it a strange set of standards when he remarks that he was shocked at someone calling themselves Christians and yet he was not at all shocked about people (whether Christians or not) being persecuted by others. If the world were populated by Christians, then persecution and all other forms of inhuman treatment would not be in evidence.

Secondly, his statement that the doctrines of Jehovah's witnesses differ totally from Christianity is absurd and shows a complete lack of understanding and knowledge concerning the meaning of being "Christian." In essence it means to be Christ-like or to be followers of Christ in all things. In this respect, Jesus Christ's only earthly purpose was to preach the good news of his father's (Jehovah) Kingdom and to teach those who would listen concerning the things that were to occur. Jehovah's witnesses are the only organization on earth that are following in Jesus' footsteps in this important, commanded work (Mathew 28:19).

Jehovah's witnesses have not prophesied concerning Jesus' return but have only related the scriptures which show when Jesus said he would return. In the 24th Chapter of Mathew, starting in verse 3, Jesus was asked by his disciples what would be the sign of his presence and he answered by describing the composite sign which we all can recognize as starting in 1914. A study of this Chapter in the Bible would help Mr. Smith to also recognize where we are in these last days, and what is required of all Christians if they desire any possibility of living through the great tribulation.

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: From early episodes of fundamental change, redirection, the rest of the year is a response to challenge, a steady application of growing skills. Relationships multiply, making critical choices inevitable. Today's natives are versatile in philosophy and the arts. Their perspective is based on pattern-sensing ability, cause-and-effect connections strung out over a period of time.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Discount emotional expressions from those trying to influence you. Keep moderate habits. Avoid any exposure to contagion, overdoing physical exercise.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): You notice something that has escaped attention up till now. Discretion saves interruption of group effort. Avoid using heavy mechanical equipment.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): You respond to everything you hear. You also go much too far in remarking on other people's behavior. Focus on thrifty self-control.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Money spent on trivia adds up rapidly. Draw the line early. Your intended helpful criticism is classified as nagging. Let people learn for themselves.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): It's better to be a stay-at-home, do-little type than to rush about seeking recognition. Unexpected happenings require thought, analysis before you react.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Realize that you're doing as well as is reasonable, that your perspective is probably distorted. Forgive yourself and others. Make no drastic moves.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): With everybody's patience coming to an end, you have to exercise diplomacy and accept people as they are. Budgets are upset. Ride out conflict.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Moderation in all areas is essential. Self-discipline is rewarding as you guard against criticism. Leave repairs to experts during work-week hours.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Impatience is the general mood, some of it from annoyance, some from anticipation of a delayed experience. Give each person full recognition.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You please very few people, so you may as well do as you wish. Check where your money is going, and be sure you get what you pay for.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Discuss only present topics, let the past rest. Keep your composure during newcomers' intense scrutiny. Don't be upset by it.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Hold on to your wallet and all that's in it; you're surrounded by both temptation and greedy fingers. Make your community appearance, then settle back.

'We'll be active citizens,' chief vows

Norris sees rapid growth in L.B.

By RICHARD HOWLAND
Staff Writer

Norris Industries will continue its rapid growth of profits in building, industrial and defense products after its move to new headquarters in Long Beach, and will work to strengthen its corporate identity in Southern California, President H.J. Meany told this month's meeting of the Long Beach Bond Club.

Construction of the Norris worldwide headquarters at the southwest corner of Ocean Boulevard and Golden Shore will begin in about six months.

About 50 executives will move from Vernon to occupy the new building a year later.

"I can assure you we intend to be good citizens of Long Beach and will participate in community activities," Meany said at the meeting of the Bond Club at the Queensway Hilton last week.

For the quarter ending March 1, Norris reported the company's highest earnings, which rose from 65 cents a share on revenues of $2,652,000 a year ago to $1.80 a share on revenues of $7,181,000. Net sales increased from $92 million to $102 million.

"It is too early to tell whether earnings for the entire year will maintain this very respectable 7.7 per cent net return on sales. But we do look for a new yearly record," Meany said.

He pointed out that Norris has a very good balance of business, with half of last year's sales in building products, more than a quarter in industrial products and the remainder in defense products.

"Our building products business has felt the effects of the welcome upturn in construction that began during the second half last year," he said. "Our building products are spread widely, with lines in bathroom and kitchen plumbing, hardware, and appliances.

"For about two years we have been placing greater emphasis on the remodeling and replacement markets for our building products to reduce our dependence on new construction activity subject to cyclical swings."

He added that the United States is going to have to build 15 to 20 million new homes in the next 10 years and Norris can do very well in a housing market of that size even if the market should fluctuate from year to year.

The Norris industrial products — automobile wheels, wheel covers and compressed gas cylinders — have benefited from the surge in automobile buying that began late last year, Meany said.

He quoted government predictions of almost 10 million new domestic car sales — not a record, but well above recession levels.

Defense work by Norris — metal ordnance products such as steel cartridge cases — will continue downward, Meany said, but last year the company more than tripled research and development expenditures, and "we intend to bid for work that we can handle profitably." Commercial growth will offset the decline in military volume, he noted.

The only real problem Meany spoke of was a lack of a widely recognized corporate identity, despite the fact that Norris ranks 419th among the most recent list of top 500 industrials compiled by Fortune magazine, which is a higher ranking than the well known Hughes Tool Co.

Fortune also has ranked the company 46th in total return to investors during the past 10 years.

Meany said Norris is recognized as a leading producer of locks used in housing, bathroom and kitchen faucets, porcelain-on-steel bathtubs, automotive wheel covers and ammunition metal parts hardware.

"The trouble is we would like more people to know these things," Meany said. "Sure, we're well known to building contractors, durable goods producers and the armed forces. But somehow we are failing to be newsworthy (in California) even though we are getting good coverage nationally."

Last year Norris ran a series of television commercials to improve the company's identity in Southern California.

This year the firm expects to send speakers to more financial groups such as the Bond Club and is planning more interviews with financial writers.

Norris has begun sponsoring a financial news report over radio station KFAC that opens the market at 7:05 a.m. For several years the company has sponsored racing cars for increased name recognition.

"That covers one of our so-called problems," Meany said. "There's another step we feel we must take to achieve an even more ideal business balance than we now have. This is to get Norris more into the capital goods type of business."

He concluded that the company's executives are still quite young (the top 12 officers average 53 years) and the future is excellent.

Robert will address Buy-Selltennial Rally

CAVETT ROBERT

Sales and Marketing Executives of Long Beach will hear Cavett Robert, noted speaker in the field of human engineering and motivation, at their Buy-Selltennial Rally Tuesday, 7:30 p.m. at the Long Beach Elks Club.

Emcee will be Tom Wayman, honorary mayor of Long Beach and news director of KMPC.

Tickets may be obtained at Mel Burns Ford, 20th and Long Beach Boulevard; Jim Gray Imports, Inc., 3515 Atlantic Avenue; Rex L. Hodges Realty Co., 2915 Bellflower Boulevard; Davis and Associates Advertising, 320 Pine Avenue; and Sales and Marketing Executives, 100 Oceangate, suite 422. Tickets also will be at the door.

By RALPH HINMAN Jr.
Staff Writer

Although world trade already is of major significance to Douglas Aircraft and other large elements of the Long Beach economy, smaller companies here were urged this week by a government specialist to become involved internationally.

And what is true for Long Beach also applies to California and the United States, pointed out Commerce Department foreign trade specialist Leslie A. Doak.

During a Long Beach Area Chamber of Commerce breakfast meeting at the Queen's Restaurant, Doak called for more involvement in world trade by smaller business firms, here and elsewhere, and set forth an economic paradox.

"Last year," he said, "the United States shipped more than $100 billion in exports to countries throughout the world. Nearly three million jobs are directly related to that trade."

However, paradoxically, "Even though there are excellent opportunities in world trade, and despite assistance available from the Commerce Department and organizations such as the Long Beach Chamber, only eight per cent of all American manufacturers now are in the export trade."

(The chamber here is designated a Commerce Department "associate office" and provides technical assistance to shippers, Ron Watson, executive vice president, pointed out.)

In 1975, "27 million tons of goods worth nearly $5 billion passed through the Port of Long Beach," Doak continued. "This made the port — with its related businesses — the largest single group or category of employers here."

Exporting helps pay the cost of importing materials lacking in a country otherwise "blessed with an abundance of resources," Doak said.

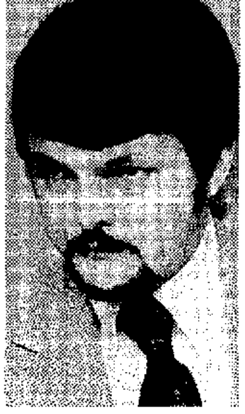

Among major imports required are oil, (45 per cent of the total supply now is imported); chrome, 100 per cent imported; tin, 100 per cent; cobalt, magnesium, nichel and platinum, 95 per cent each; coffee, tea and many spices, import data lacking.

"All of these goods must be bought and paid for by exports" he said. And while the nation as a whole gains by maintaining a "balance of payments," there are significant benefits accruing to individual firms who sell their products abroad.

Listing some some of these benefits, Doak said exporting:

- "Permits larger production runs and facilitates full capacity operations";
- Extends business horizons by expanding old markets while developing new ones;
- "Cushions the shock of business downturns or economic recessions at home";
- "Can lead to innovative marketing techniques and accumulation of new technologies, capital and ideas."

Doak concluded that "Most importantly, exporting can result in substantial new profits and continuous growth for our companies."

Todd loss for fiscal year told

Todd Shipyards Corp. has reported a net loss of $1,350,056 for the year ended March 31, equivalent to 91 cents per share.

Total sales for the year were $245,341,440 compared with $204,015,098 for the preceding year, when Todd's net loss was $43,358,635, equivalent to $29.23 per share.

The net loss of $1.4 million for the year just ended was computed after recognizing additional losses of $16.6 million on certain fixed-price construction contracts and after deducting a $4.2 million loss from discontinued operations.

FOR THE three-month ended March 31, after providing for possible added costs of $7.8 million to complete cetain fixed-price contracts, the net loss was $2,884,080, or $1.94 per share, on sales of $60,614,936.

This compares with a net loss of $42,063,723 or $28.36 per share on sales of $20,620,257 during the comparable earlier period.

The company forcast a profit for the first quarter of the current year, and also for the whole year, because of six factors.

THEY ARE (1) the winding down of certain fixed-price programs, (2) the achieving of a Navy award of contracts for the construction of six guided missile frigates (FFG class), (3) an aggressive marketing program to obtain additional repair business, including the strengthening of its agent representation, (4) capitalizing on the current trend of cargo ship conversions, (5) the expected favorable settlement of claims, and (6) the reduction of approximately $9 million in outstanding indebtedness.

Chamber honors 2 concerns

Two firms were honored this week by the Long Beach Area Chamber of Commerce for their international trade activities.

Koppel Inc. of Long Beach, and Korody-Colyer Corp., Wilmington, received the civic group's first annual World Trade award. Selection was made by the chamber's world trade committee, chaired by Mary Bleming.

Koppel, organized in 1957, merchandises grains and vegetable oils, providing terminal service for grains, vegetable oils and petrochemicals while handling and storing imported automobiles.

Korody-Colyer manufactures replacement parts for diesel engines and is involved in international sales and service.

Dow off after brief rally

Market ends week down

NEW YORK (AP) — Money-supply and interest-rate worries drove stock prices lower Friday, canceling most of the gains of the previous day's rally.

The Dow Jones industrial average took a 6.52-point loss at 990.75, ending another rather lackluster week with a net decline of 1.85 points.

Stocks falling in price topped gainers by about an 8-5 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Big Board volume tailed off to 18.73 million shares, compared with 22.56 million on Thursday.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed stocks, including trades on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 22.03 million shares as of the 4 p.m. New York close.

The scene for Friday's selloff was set as the market was closing on Thursday. At that time the Federal Reserve reported a sharp, $2 billion increase in the nation's basic money supply, which touched off fears on Wall Street that short-term interest rates would continue their recent climb.

Those fears apparently were not allayed by the news as the market opened Friday that Citibank was keeping its prime rate unchanged at 6¾ per cent.

Wall Street's worries about rising interest rates are based on concern that the economic recovery could be slowed, and that interest-bearing investments might begin to draw investment dollars away from stocks.

The market also appeared to be discouraged by the failure of a weak recovery attempt soon after the noon hour. The Dow had been down about four points in the morning, rallied about two points, and then retreated more sharply toward the close when the recovery failed to catch fire.

Some analysts said Friday's decline was partly due to profit-taking following Thursday's 8.37-point advance. Delta Air Lines saw heavy dealings, and lost a fraction. A 311,000-share block crossed at 45.

Amstar gained nearly a point. The sugar company raised its quarterly dividend and proposed a 2 for 1 stock split.

North American Coal surged more than two points during the session. The company said it knew no reason for the stock's gain.

Rockwell International, the main contractor for the B1 bomber, fell nearly two points. The Senate voted Thursday to postpone until next February its decision on whether to go ahead with production of the controversial plane.

Xerox was actively traded and gave up more than a point following Thursday's 3½-point climb. The rise on Thursday reflected the company's statement it is looking into a dividend increase.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was down 0.74 at 101.76, while the NYSE's composite stock index fell 0.34 at 53.97.

At the American Exchange, the market-value index dropped 0.06 to 104.76. On the over-the-counter market, the NASDAQ composite index lost 0.14 to 89.39.

Destroying myths of big money managers

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK — "Money managers are a jittery lot and feel most comfortable when they are worrying," said the securities firm in a report to customers on why so many "myths" exist in the stock market today.

"They worry when they are in the consensus of investment thinking, and they worry when they are outside of it. They constantly try to extend the forecasting horizon beyond what is realistically visible and analyzable ..."

That analysis seems to suggest that money managers are similar to other normal people, even if their particular job calls for handling millions of dollars in a fat stock portfolio rather than a few dollars in a thin wallet.

But Goldman Sachs, the firm that made this unusual analysis, isn't concerned with the similarities of people so much as in destroying what it says are the prevailing myths that many big money managers currently accept.

Myth One: "Most institutional market participants are fully invested, and hence, there is not sufficient sidelined cash to fuel a market advance."

Goldman Sachs' explanation: As with many myths, there is some truth connected with this belief.

Mutual fund cash reserves have been nearly depleted, at about 6.1 per cent of assets. And cash reserves for most other major market participants probably have fallen to 5-10 per cent from 10-15 per cent six to nine months ago.

"However, the market rose about 15 per cent in 1972 when mutual fund cash as a per cent of total assets averaged about 5.5 per cent and the industry was in a net redemption position during the last 11 months of the year."

Recent history, herefore, doesn't support this widely held "truth."

Myth Two: "Tightening monetary policy and rising short-term interest rates will send the market lower."

Explanation: "We doubt that there are many investors today who do not anticipate rising short-term interest rates in the period ahead. In our view, if the rise in rates is gradual and does not worry 90-day Treasuries much above 6 per cent, the stock market can advance from current levels."

Again, recent history does not support the widely held notion. From mid-1962 to yearend 1965 the market rose along with rising Treasury bill rates. It did so again in 1968 and in 1972.

Myth Three: "The historically wide spread — 5 per cent — between bond yields and stock dividend returns renders stocks unattractive relative to bonds."

Explanation: "We have always been a proponent of the theory that bond yields play an important role in stock valuation. However, historically, the bond-stock yield differential has been a poor forecaster ..."

The key question investors must ask themselves, says Goldman Sachs, is whether the inflation that drove up bond yields will eventually do the same thing for earnings and dividends.

"It has been our contention for some time that we are likely to see an increase in corporate profits' share of national income over the next five years, resulting in profits rising more rapidly than nominal Gross National Product."

If bond rates remain stable, the analysis continues, there is room for profits and stock prices to grow.

Myth Four: "The rate of inflation, as measured by the Consumer Price Index, will escalate significantly in 1977, bringing with it declining stock prices."

Explanation: Again, says Goldman Sachs, there is an element of truth in the myth. Inflation is indeed widely expected to accelerate in 1977. But that, it adds, doesn't mean stock prices will automatically drop:

"The key question again is whether the inflation that pushes bond yields up will also find its way into profit growth," the securities firm argues. And its own answer to the question is that, yes, it will.

Summation: "We are in a primary bull market, though the extreme degree of undervaluation has been removed and the easy money has been made."

Soupy Sales will try 'Almost Anything Jr.'

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — I've always been a fan of Soupy Sales. His old nighttime TV shows always struck me as a nifty blend of Marx Brothers, Brother Dave "Rejoice, Dear Hearts" Gardner, Ernie Kovacs and flying cream pies.

So it was good news to hear that after too many years spent batting about on game shows and appearing on others' variety shows, Soupy will be back in September headlining his own show for ABC.

No matter that it's a Saturday morning kid show called "Jr. Anything Goes," a pee-wee version of a flop nighttime series that featured citizens participating in outlandish sports contests.

WEIRD things always happen when Sales runs a show. In fact, weird things were happening this week when he was theoretically being interviewed about the new show at a chow hall theatrical folks flavor.

Nearby diners appeared to be looking for the man with the butterfly net as Sales spoke of a new movie he plans to film at his apartment building, where garbage is piling up because of a strike by Fun City's apartment workers.

"It's going to be a musical sequel to "Ben,' " he said, his voice rising with the thrill of the project. "Right now, we're looking for a rat who can sing."

Sales, a North Carolina boy raised in Huntington, W.Va., hit it big on television in Detroit in1953. But greater fame came in later years when celebrities started appearing on his shows — Frank Sinatra, among them — for the sole purpose of getting hit in the puss by a pie.

PIE-THROWING and receiving is a Sales legend. For historians of the art, he was asked about the first time a pie flew on one of his shows.

Soupy said it happened in Cleveland, in 1950, at WEXL-TV, where he did a live show with a wee budget. The studio was in the country. It was there he happened to meet a farmer with a horse.

"He said, 'Whah doan yew use mah horse on your show?' " Soupy recalled. "I says, 'Okay,' And the director says, 'What are you going to do with a horse?'

"I say, 'Getme a loin cloth and a feather and a sign that says 'Son of Cochise,' because in those days 'Broken Arrow' with Jeff Chandler and Michael Ansara was a very big movie.

"So we set the camera up, we put the farmer in a U.S. cavalry uniform, and me and my loin cloth and-feather come galloping over the hill on his horse, me hanging on for dear life. I got to where he was standing and I fell off.

"THEN I said, 'White man come take away Indian country, take away buffalo, take away squaw, take away happy hunting ground. What is left for Indian?' And the guy hit me with a pie."

Although most people think of Soupy as a pie-thrower, he says he's the one who usually gets hit, "because throwing 'em makes you a heavy. They usually come at the tag line of a joke.

"Like a guy comes to the door, says, 'Would you give ten dollars to help the Old Ladies' Home, and I say, 'Why, are they out again?' And BLAM!"

For the record, Soupy's lunch during the interview consisted of the swordfish platter and two glasses of wine. But no pie.

54,752 see Yeager's homer cap 2-1 win

By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

The 1976 baseball season hasn't even reached the one-quarter pole, but the Dodgers are convinced they're going to be around when the race reaches the wire.

"We're playing very good fundamental baseball, and if we continue we'll win this thing," Steve Yeager said Friday night after he popped his sixth home run to send the Dodgers to their fourth consecutive victory, 2-1, over the Houston Astros.

A Dodger Stadium Cap Night crowd of 54,752 (53,568 paid) flipped their lids when Yeager unloaded off Houston's James Rodney Richard in the seventh inning, breaking a 1-1 deadlock and enabling the Dodgers to continue a remarkable streak that began one month ago.

The Dodgers have won nine of their last 11 games, 21 of their last 25 and 13 out of 14 at home—and they have jumped 2½ games in front of Cincinnati in the National League West.

"I'd like to have one more streak like this, then take my chances with the other games," said manager Walter Alston, sounding very much like a man with pennant on his mind.

The latest victory was hardly an easy one.

The Dodgers took a 1-0 lead in the second inning on Bill Russell's run-scoring single.

Burt Hooton, coming off a shutout victory over the Pirates, blanked the Astros on one hit for five innings. But in the sixth a two-out walk to Greg Gross and singles by Rob Andrews and Jose Cruz tied the score.

Yeager untied it an inning later with his homer—the fifth time the Dodger catcher has produced the game-winning RBI.

"He's hit a lot of key home runs for us," noted Alston, "and he's improved as a hitter. He's more selective at the plate than he used to be."

A .228 hitter last year, Yeager has climbed to .283 and he's already hit half as many homers as in all of last season.

"I'm probably not a .300 hitter," he said, "but I'm not a .228 hitter either. I just want to get the average up and try to help the club offensively as well as defensively."

Of Hooton, who has won four successive decisions, Yeager said:

"He pitched a magnificent game tonight. Spring training definitely is over for him. He's just like he was last year."

But he needed a clutch defensive play by first baseman Steve Garvey in the seventh to bail him out of a jam.

The Astros had runners at first and second with two out when Richard sent a bounder toward third. Ed Goodson, playing in place of injured Ron Cey, gloved the ball but threw high to first. Garvey leaped high to snare the throw and, while still in the air, managed to tag the 6-8 Richard for the third out.

"That was the play of the game," Yeager said, momentarily forgetting his own contribution.

Lakewood, Jordan playoff winners

End of a rally

Lancers pound out 13 hits, 9-2

By KEN PIVERNETZ
Staff Writer

The one thing John Herbold wouldn't want to see happen at this stage of the season is to have someone place Lakewood High's bats in cold storage.

Continuing to gather hits in bunches, the Lancers pounded out a 9-2 victory Friday at El Segundo to take one more step toward the CIF 4-A baseball championship that has eluded them in the finals the last two years.

Lakewood had 13 hits Friday to run its three-game playoff total to 36 and a .419 team batting average in that span.

Everyone has contributed.

Stan Williams had three hits Friday and is 7-for-10. Willie Diaz had his second two-hit game of the week, and Don Ruzek and Mark Bonner singled twice.

"It's no secret that we have the people who can hit," said Herbold. "Matty Lampson (the school's junior varsity coach) has done an excellent scouting job, and we haven't faced anyone as tough as we saw in the Moore League."

The victory places the Lancers, 20-4-1, in the semifinals Wednesday against Chaffey, a 13-2 winner against Arcadia.

The important thing as far as Herbold is concerned is that Williams will have four days to rest a tired right arm.

Pitching with only two days between starts, Williams allowed five hits, walked three and struck out seven. Although touched for a two-run homer by Kevin Clarke, Williams fared considerably better than counterpart Bob Helsom, who was also making his third playoff start.

Clarke, the No. 9 hitter, gave the Eagles a 2-0 lead in the second, depositing a Williams fast ball over the centerfield fence. Don Johnson, who had walked with one out, scored ahead of Clarke.

It was a homer that seemed to fire up the Lancers almost as much as El Segundo.

In its next at-bats, Lakewood scored six runs on seven hits and had 10 men bat in a wild inning that saw El Segundo compound Helsom's problems by committing three errors.

Williams doubled to lead off the inning, then after Alex Dovalis struck out, the next seven batters reached base. Bill Simpson, Ruzek, Diaz, Wayne Larker and Dave Pina had line-drive singles, Pina's blow in a pinch-hit role driving home two runs.

O'Toole sparks Panthers

If pitching is the name of the game, Jordan High has cornered the market in the CIF playoffs.

It was Terry O'Toole's turn to sparkle on the mound, throwing a three-hitter at the Citrus Belt League champions from Rialto who entered the game with a 24-4 record.

The five strikeout, no walk effort was the second shutout by O'Toole in post-season competition. Coming on top of Herb Fauland's 1-0 win Tuesday night against El Modena, opposing teams haven't scored yet on Chuck McFerrin's team in 21 innings.

Jordan (19-7) is only one win away from an opportunity to play for the school's first-ever CIF varsity championship in any sport. The Panthers will play Camarillo, which beat El Rancho 6-2, in the semifinals on Wednesday.

O'Toole, who compared his effort to the 1-0 win against Loara, was quick to give credit to Jordan's defense.

"We've become more aggressive and the defense has come on," he said.

The slender 5-10, 140-pound senior had an excellent curve, great control—and no one could ask for more than that, he said.

"I was able to spot my pitches pretty well. I was on my game."

Almost as pleasing as the pitching was the hitting, which had been limited to four hits and one run in each of the first two playoff games.

Friday night the Panthers had seven hits, the big blows being delivered by Ed Irvine and Fauland.

Irvine, picking up where he left off Tuesday night when he tripled home the only run in the sixth inning against El Modena, doubled to deep center in his first at bat Friday.

Boos turn to cheers for Briles

Texan cools Angels, 5-2

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

ARLINGTON, Tex. — When the trade was announced on Nov. 12, 1975, there were hisses and howls of protest emanating from Dallas-Fort Worth and surrounding environs.

The outcries were directed at Nelson Kelly Briles, a pitcher of 32 who was regarded as a retread at best and one with dubious mileage remaining.

Briles was secured by the Texas Rangers for second baseman Dave Nelson, who was dispatched to the Kansas City Royals.

" So did I," Briles acknowledged Friday night, "just by the nature of the position I was in."

You could define the position as precarious.

In two previous seasons with the Royals, Briles endured only humiliation and heartbreak, suffering a torn knee cartilage in 1974 and an elbow injury the following year, plausible explanations to 5-7 and 6-6 seasons.

Long Beach State is off and running

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

Long Beach State won three of the six final events contested Friday to take a 15-point lead over favored San Jose State in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association Track and Field championships.

The 49ers used title efforts by Jim Knaub, Howard Burgess and Enricke Scott to amass 38 points, and will be bidding to end San Joses's two-year championship reign when the meet resumes today.

Decathlon competition begins at 10 a.m., field events at noon and races at 1:30 p.m.

"With one exception, I'm delighted with the way things went today," 49er coach Ron Allice said after watching nearly every athlete he sent into competition turn in a yeoman effort.

Allice's lone disappointment came in the pole vault where Australian Don Baird, who has cleared 18-2, failed to clear a height, running through the pit twice and then missing on his third attempt at 16-6.

"Someone re-marked the runway and on my first two attempts I was overstriding, trying to compensate for about five yards of distance," Baird said.

The 49er sophomore got his distances corrected for his third attempt, "but by then I was so confused I didn't get a good attempt," Baird said.

Knaub rescued the 49ers to some degree, soaring 17 feet for first place. Knaub and Fresno's Dave Lewis were the only vaulters to clear the opening height.

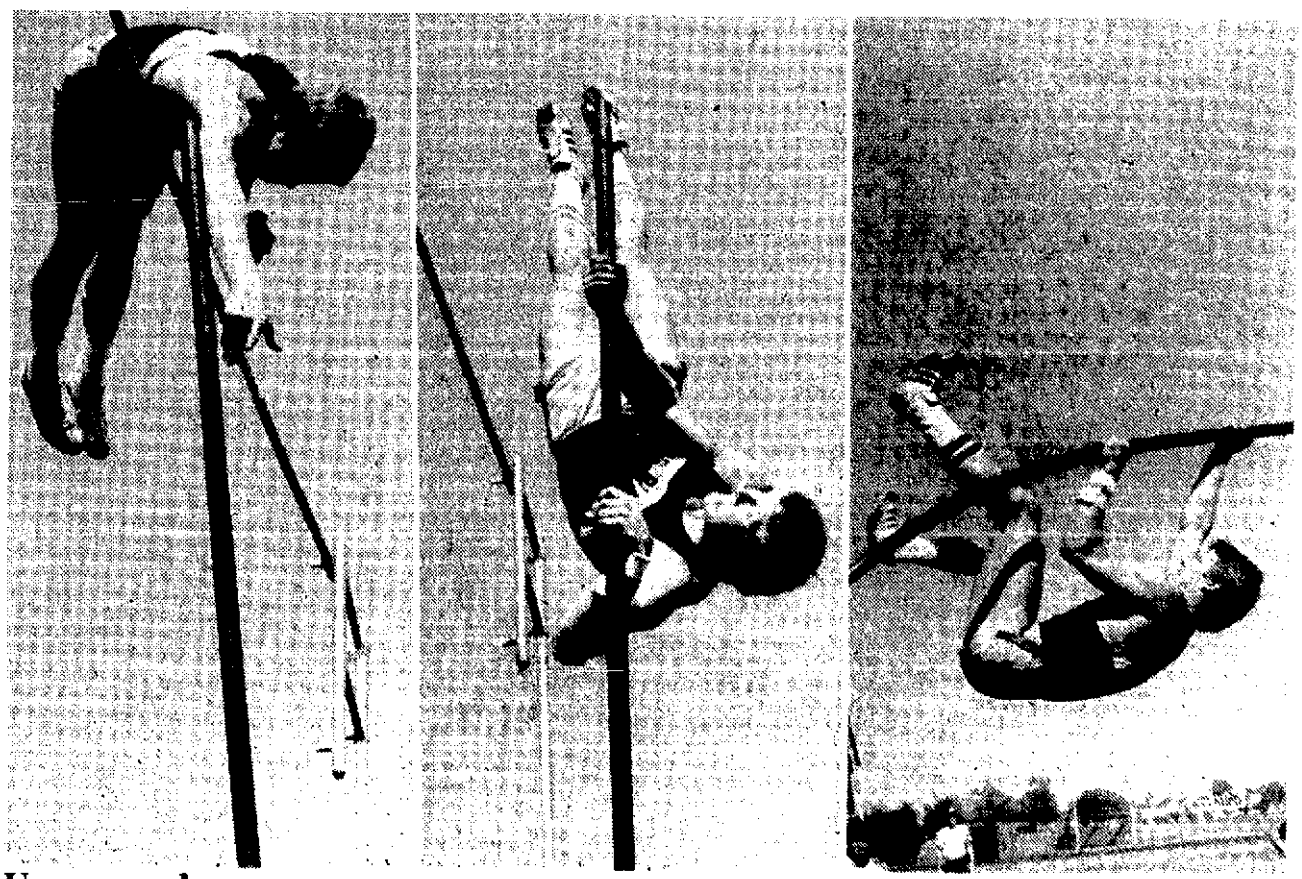

Burgess won the steeplechase in 9:07.2 after being sidelined almost two months with an injured heel.

Scott, who was in seventh place, got off a lifetime best 51-0 to win the triple jump on his last attempt.

Friday's other winners were Ward Sorensen of Fresno State, who threw the hammer 179-7 to upset Aldo Congi of San Jose State (168-4); Mike Weeks of San Jose, who won the discus with a record throw of 186-3, and Dan Gruber of San Jose, who ran away from Rich McCandless of Long Beach in the final mile to win the 10,000 meters in 29:55.0.

Friday's activity was highlighted by nearly as much action off the field as on.

'It was easier than Pony League'

Sandlot umpires work Cubs-Pirates game

Associated Press

Al Cohen, whose last umpiring job was in a 1974 American Legion game, went all the way behind the plate in a National League game Friday night as Chicago defeated Pittsburgh, 5-4.

"It came to me very easily," said Cohen, who joined three other sandlot umpires in handling the game after the regular N.L. crew honored a picket line set up by striking stadium vendors. Cohen, in his 50s, is the security chief in the suburban North Hills School District.

Although he has umpired hundreds of games, he was idle the past two seasons. "Getting old," he said. Yet the Pirates and Cubs said he and his cohorts did a creditable job.

"I don't think either side can complain," said Cub coach Jim Marshall. "I told my players to understand the situation and be lenient, and as it turned out, those guys did a great job."

What if the Cubs had lost?

"Nothing would have been said," Marshall stated. "The teams went out there even. It was the same for both." The move also had been approved beforehand by N.L. president Chub Feeney.

There were no disputed calls in the game, which was pretty well decided by the Cubs' four-run fourth inning. Jose Cardenal had a two-run double to highlight the surge.

Cohen was joined by Ralph Detcher at first base, Joe Shratz at second and Elmer Guckert at third.

"I was just thinking. It's been quite a year for me," said the grey-haired Guckert, who coached the city's Fifth Avenue High School to a state basketball championship last winter.

"It was easier than Pony League," said Shratz, a former Arizona State baseball player. "These are great players. They make the easy plays and the hard plays, and you don't have to worry about anybody throwing to the wrong base and things like that."

The regular umpiring crew, headed by Lee Weyer, also included Nick Colosi, Ed Montague and Paul Runge.

"If the strike is on, we will be back tomorrow," Cohen said after a post-game meeting with pirate general manager Joe L. Brown.

In the other N.L. games, Philadelphia beat St. Louis, 2-1; New York tripped Montreal, 4-3; San Diego defeated Cincinnati, 4-2, and Atlanta crushed San Francisco, 8-0. In the American League, Baltimore downed Detroit, 8-5; Milwaukee nipped Cleveland, 4-3; New York stopped Boston, 6-5; Chicago blanked Oakland, 6-0, and Kansas City whipped Minnesota, 5-1.

Steve Carlton won his fourth game in five starts as the Phillies won their sixth in a row. The N.L. East leaders have lost only once in 16 games this month.

Randy Jones pitched a five-hitter for his eighth victory and seventh complete game, and Dave Winfield smashed a grand slam homer, leading San Diego over Cincinnati. Jones lowered his earned run average to 2:27 while handing the Reds their third defeat in succession.

Doug DeCinces, Brooks Robinson's replacement at third base, blasted a grand slam home run to power Baltimore. He has 12 hits in his last 29 at-bats.

DODGERS WIN, 2-1—

Hooton pitched exceedingly well when he had to, getting ever-dangerous Bob Watson once with two runners on base, and Cesar Cedeno to end the game.

When asked about the Dodgers' chances in 1976, Hooton just smiled and said, "Sure, we've got a chance, but there's a long, long way to go."

That's true. A year ago today the Dodgers also led the Reds, by 5½ games.

DODGER DOPE: In their second player move in as many days the Dodgers are optioning shortstop Ivan DeJesus to Albuqueque, effective today, and are promoting outfielder Joe Simpson (.331 at Albuquerque) who will report tonight...Catcher-outfielder Danny Walton, called up Friday when John Hale was sent to Albuquerque, was in uniform against the Astros...Dave Lopes was back at second base after missing three more games because of his bad side...Ron Cey missed his first game because of a painful groin pull. Ed Goodson was at third base...Friday night's sellout was the Dodgers' fifth of the year...The Dodgers have signed two of the draft choices, both pitchers: Paul Bain from El Camino College, coached by former Dodger Joe Moeller and Jack Lawson of Phoenix...Pitching tonight's 7 o'clock game will be Don Sutton (4-4) and Gil Rondon (0-1).

DODGERS SECOND

ASTROS SIXTH

DODGERS SEVENTH

The hit drove in Ron Herrin, who had singled to short with one out.

Herrin, who had two hits, also figured in the game's other run in the third when the Panthers chased Eisenhower starter Jerry Sanchez.

Bob Hudson, a junior righthander who had gone nine innings Tuesday, got the final out and checked the Panthers on one hit the last 3⅓ innings.

The three hits off O'Toole came with two outs — by Jeff Oliphant in the third, pinch-hitter Tom Rey in the fifth and Nate Miller in the ninth.

Rey was the only one of the three to reach second, advancing on a wild pitch. But O'Toole got catcher Glenn Horton to strike out to end the Eagles' one mild threat.

Molley threw out two runners Friday night from his catching position. He has gunned down five in three games, and picked two men off first.

Chambers-led Santa Monica CIF track king

By DAVE FERRELL
Staff Writer

It's too bad Santa Monica's Tim Chambers is only a junior. He would have ended his high school career with a bang at the Southern Section CIF 4-A finals Friday night at Cerritos College.

Chambers not only made a shambles of a personal duel with Millikan's Kevin Gibson and Jordan's Clarence Hopper in the 330 low hurdles, but led Santa Monica to the team championship with blazing performances in the 440 and mile relays.

After racing to his fastest time of the season to hold off Gibson in the 330 low hurdles, Chambers came within one-tenth of Newport Harbor's one-year-old, one-lap meet record of 48.0. Chambers then ran a 46.9 anchor leg in the mile relay as Centennial lost the team title by running out of its lane.

Gibson almost caught Chambers after starting 10 yards behind, finishing second in 37.2. Chambers clocked 37.1 and Hopper took fourth in 38.1.

The first four finishers in all events except the 330 hurdles, mile and two-mile qualified for the CIF Masters Meet Friday at Cerritos. Five places qualified in those events.

Poly's Rod Miller posted a personal best of 58-6, finishing third in the shotput behind John McKenzie of Hart, who tossed 67-9.

Clark Cox of Wilson also lowered his career record in the mile by exactly five seconds with a 4:16.6 clocking. Cox placed fifth behind Don Moses' winning 4:10.9 for Crescenta Valley. Moses time was one-tenth off the meet record set by Andy Clifford of Sunny Hills in 1974.

Millikan pole vaulter John Young took third on fewer misses behind winner Kevin Anthony of Tustin. Both cleared 14-6.

Burned piston Friday; qualifying today?

The clock keeps running, but Janet doesn't

There are 10 spots to fill today and Sunday in the 33-car starting field May 30, and if Miss Guthrie can't improve on her best practice speed of 171.492 mph, it's highly unlikely she will qualify.

"It'll go faster than 171, the question is how much faster," she said Friday afternoon, sipping a cold drink while her crew made another in a seemingly endless series of adjustments to the Vollstedt-Offenhauser racer.

"There's just too doggone many things to change all at once, unfortunately," the tall, 38-year-old brunette said.

The latest problem, a burned piston, sent the car to her garage Friday.

Whether or not she qualifies, Guthrie already has made history.

She is the first woman to enter the Indy 500, the first woman to drive around the 2½-mile track in other than a publicity stunt, and the first woman to pass the mandatory rookie test which will enable her to make a qualification attempt.

The problem in practice has been the car—not Janet Guthrie.

Teammate Dick Simon, who has qualified another Vollstedt at 182.343, has been able to push her car only to 174.284.

What has been done to Janet's racer?

"How much paper do you have," replied car owner-builder Rolla Vollstedt, who has worked day and night to get her vehicle in shape.

"We burned another piston in our third engine," Vollstedt said. "Then we installed a late style Drake (Offenhauser) engine—this one with questionable connecting rods. We'll be taking a chance it'll stay together—at least long enough for Janet to qualify."

"Our biggest problem has been lack of time on the track," said Vollstedt, who has had one mechanical setback after another since arriving at the Speedway nearly three weeks ago. "The only way I can figure it is that the bad luck has to change awfully quick.

"She must have had 80 laps, but it's not consistent.... just a few at a time," Vollstedt said. "She hasn't had the opportunity to build her confidence and skills. Even non-driving racing professionals don't realize how difficult Indianapolis is to drive at speeds necessary to qualify."

The slowest of the 23 qualified cars belongs to veteran Jim McElreath, at 179.122 mph. Two weeks ago, it seemed unlikely that anything slower than 180 would qualify, but Vollstedt said it's possible that a 174 could squeeze in.

Would he forego a qualification attempt if Janet could go no faster than 171?

"Well, we'll have to wait and see. If the field is filled and the slowest is 169, then I'll gladly take a 171."

What if the field isn't filled?

"Then I'd go to the end of the line and wait to see how the others qualify."

Veteran Lloyd Ruby, who has started more Indy races than anyone except A.J. Foyt, took his first practice ride since being selected to drive an Eagle-Offenhauser for Mike Devin, Ruby, 48, seeking his 17th Indy start, got up to 176.367 mph.

The top speed of the day was a 190.880 by Foyt in a backup car. Al Unser turned in a 188.285. The 1969 winner, Mario Andretti, who passed up last week's qualifications for the Belgian Grand Prix, hit 188.088.

One driver who will not attempt to qualify is Sam Sessions, 40.

Bill Hill, a longtime friend and sprint car official, said Sessions had given away his helmet and uniform and gone home to run a truck stop in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Campregher defends title

L.B. match play begins

Sixty-four players, led by 1975 champion Tony Campregher, begin the two-week countdown today in the 52nd Long Beach City Match Play Golf Championship at El Dorado.

When the final shot is fired Sunday, only eight players will remain. A single round will be played today and two matches Sunday. The quarter and semifinals will be held May 29, the 36-hole finals May 30.

Campregher is not quite on top of his game and may find formidable opposition from as many as a dozen players. He is a working man now and does not play every day.

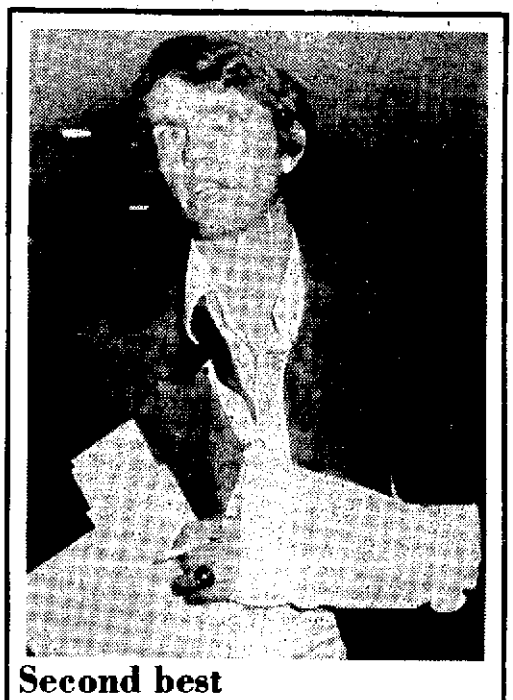

Mike Bellmar, the SoCal Public Links champion, qualifying medalist Jeff Newell and every-day players such as Chuck Wallace, Randy Pallis, Roger Fagan, Chuck White, Phil Caputo, Rich Johnson and Curt Ambrose also are title threats.

There are fewer seniors in the field this year, but all appear capable of winning a few matches. Among the seniors are Willard Bryan and Ed McBratney, former finalists; Tommy Hickman, John McMonegal and Del Walker. McBratney and McMonegal meet in the first round.

Billy Conigliaro faces charges

NEWBURYPORT, Mass. (AP) — Former Boston Red Sox outfielder Billy Conigliaro has been indicted on two counts of assault and battery with a dangerous weapon.

An Essex County grand jury returned the indictment this week against Conigliaro, 28, of Nahant.

He is alleged to have assaulted John McCarthy and William Appleton Jan. 18 following a fracas outside Tony C's Lounge in Nahant.

Conigliaro began his professional baseball career in the late 1960s. He played for the Red Sox in the early 1970s.

He is a brother of former Red Sox outfielder Tony Conigliaro, whose career was shortened when he was hit by a pitch in 1967.

LBCC maintains title hopes; Cerritos ousted from playoffs

SAN PABLO (Special) — Long Beach City College kept its hopes for a state junior college baseball title alive Friday but defending champion Cerritos College was eliminated in sectional play.

The Vikings, who were shut out, 6-0, by Chabot Thursday, responded with a pair of big innings en route to a 10-3 victory over Contra Costa in the Northern Division playoffs.

LBCC will face Fresno, an 8-0 loser to Chabot, today.

Long Beach opened the scoring in the second inning with four runs on only two hits. Three times during the inning Contra Costa players threw to the plate in force attempts, but were late on each occasion. The final run scored when Todd Hewitt was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded. Pat Estes and Dan Gausepohl singled for the only LBCC hits.

The Vikings were again aided by poor fielding in the fifth when they scored five times to put the game out of reach.

Contra Costa suffered through two errors by the second baseman, another late throw to the plate and two wild pitches. Gausepohl had one of the two hits—a double. Perry Maloney opened the inning with a single.

Gausepohl, Estes, Orlando Bryant and Vern Followell led the Vikings' 10-hit attack with two each.

Mike Lord went the distance for the Vikings, scattering eight hits. He was in serious trouble only in the sixth when he gave up two runs.

CERRITOS' attempt for a fourth consecutive state title came to an abrupt end at Saddleback College Friday when the Falcons were routed by Moorpark, 11-4 in Southern Regional play.

The Falcons, who had defeated NCAA World Series-bound Fullerton State, 2-0, May 15, were outscored 21-8 in their two playoff appearances.

Moorpark scored in six of the eight innings in which it came to the plate, failing only in the first and sixth.

Kevin Jacobson and Greg Stiles did most of the damage for Moorpark. Jacobson drove in four runs with a home run and double while Stiles scored four runs as he singled and walked three times.

Dennis King kept his record perfect (9-0) with the win. King was wild, walking eight, but the Falcons could not take advantage, stranding 11 men.

Cerritos employed five pitchers who walked 12 batters. Starter Dave Patterson hurled 4⅓ innings and yielded six earned runs to suffer only his second loss of the season against 14 wins.

Cerritos had the best record in the state, 33-6.

Marti birds last two, holds lead

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Journeyman Fred Marti, again saving the best for last, birdied his last two holes for a 68 and regained a two-shot lead Friday in the second round of the $200,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis Golf Classic.

Marti, who has collected almost $300,000 in his 13-year pro career but has yet to gain his first triumph, ripped six strokes off par on the last five holes of his first round, blew the two-stroke lead, fell behind at one time and then, with his closing surge, again set his advantage at two strokes.

Blalock weathers storm for LPGA lead

JAMESBURG, N.J. (AP) — Jane Blalock fired a 3-under-par 68 despite adverse weather conditions Friday to take the first-round lead in the $76,000 Ladies' Pro Golf Association Golf Classic at the Forsgate Country Club.

Although swirling winds and a 70-minute rain delay pushed scores skyhigh, Miss Blalock, 30, of Highland Beach, Fla., turned in what she considered "one of my five best rounds this year. My mind was right; my game was right," she said of her five birdie, two-bogey performance.

Miss Burfeindt, 30, of Palm Springs, carded three birdies and two bogeys on the 6,056-yard course. One of the longest drivers on the women's tour, Miss Burfeindt said she wasn't surprised at her play on the wind and rain-swept course, pointing out she's been under par in six of her last seven rounds.

Miss Haynie, 32, of Fort Worth, Tex., bogied the par-3, 194-yard 17th and had to settle for a 70.

BATTLIN' BILL LEE ON THE BENCH FOR FIVE WEEKS

BOSTON (AP) — Pitcher Bill Lee, injured in a brawl during Thursday night's baseball game with the New York Yankees, will be lost to the Boston Red Sox for at least five weeks.

The Red Sox' team physician, Dr. Thomas Tierney, said the pitcher suffered torn ligaments in his left shoulder—his pitching arm—and the arm will remain in a sling five weeks.

Lee also had a bruise under his left eye as a result of winding up under Graig Nettles during the fight that erupted in the sixth inning of the game in New York.

Lou Piniella had been cut down at home plate trying to score and when he barrelled into Boston catcher Carlton Fisk, both players came up swinging. Almost immediately, the benches emptied.

"The guy from second base (Otto Velez) ran in towards the plate to jump into it," said Lee. "So I went over to pull him off."

At the same moment, Nettles arrived on the scene, intent on pulling Lee off.

"He fell on top of me and was grinding my left shoulder into the dirt," Lee continued. "I kept yelling, 'Get up! Get up!' and he kept saying, 'I'm just trying to keep you out of it.'"

At one point in their first confrontation, Lee said, Nettles was anything but a peacemaker.

"He picked me up and threw me down...like a body slam. Is that what you call breaking up a fight? Besides, I wasn't fighting."

Lee felt his shoulder go and he knew he was hurt.

"I realized right away that I wasn't going to be pitching for a long time," the lefthander said.

By then, the first fight was over. Lee decided then to have a few last words with Nettles.

"I walked over to tell him off," the pitcher said. "I said, 'Nice going, big guy,' and then he came at me again."

Nettles said he thought Lee had been injured when the two players fell to the ground and landed on the pitcher's shoulder.

"He started walking away," said the Yankee third baseman, "but he stopped and said something to me. I let it go, but he said something else. I wasn't going to keep taking that stuff."

"I don't care about the eye," Lee said. "I don't pitch with my eye."

Lee said when he was examined at the hospital, doctors were tight-lipped.

"They didn't tell me much," he said.

MOTORIST TORTURED ON HIGHWAY
Driving a sluggish car that coughs, misses or drags on the highway can be sheer torture. Erratic engine performance is often caused by crankcase contaminents and sticking mechanical parts. In such cases you can help restore lost performance thanks to a special formulation called WYNN'S' ENGINE TUNE-UP. This famous oil treatment works in 10 minutes as you drive to help quiet valves and lifters, while it dissolves away harmful deposits. So to help end highway torture, GET WYNN'S ENGINE TUNE-UP today. ANGELS—

Briles improved his record to 4-1 Friday night with a four-hitter as the Rangers treated a Bat Night delegation of 40,854 — largest in the history of the franchise — to a 5-2 victory over the Angels.

"One and one-half months doesn't make a season but I'm gratified to be doing so well, especially after he (Lucchesi) went out on a limb for me," Briles declared.

Asked to recite the reasons for his strong comeback, Briles managed to do it in two words:

"I'm healthy," he said.

"I never really thought I was at the end of the line because nothing structurally ever went wrong with my arm. Both injuries were freakish things over which I had no control. That's what made it so frustrating."

The elbow mishap last year was the best example. Briles was struck on the right elbow while he was throwing in the Royals' bullpen. The incident occurred during batting practice.

"I saw baseball's best friend, Dr. (Robert) Kerlan, and he gave me a couple of injections. I don't know what it was but the elbow responded," Briles said.

The Angels would testify to that.

After Bobby Bonds doubled home Rusty Torres with a run that gave the Angels a 2-1 lead in the third inning, Briles proceeded to thoroughly throttle the visitors and the only other nibble they got was a two-out, ninth inning single by Joe Lahoud.

Prior to Lahoud's hit, Briles retired 15 in succession.

Mike Hargrove's two-run homer off loser Don Kirkwood (1-4) in the third provided the Rangers with their margin of triumph and enabled them to curtail a four-game losing streak.

Hargrove was later skulled on top of his helmet by Angel rookie reliever Paul Hartzell and removed from the game, but Hargrove was reported to be feeling fine after the game.

Briles, who hails from what he calls "the ghost town" of Dorris, Calif. on the Oregon border, also snipped Jerry Remy's hitting streak at 11 games, but Toby Harrah of the Rangers extended his to 13 with a run-scoring single in the fifth inning.

ANGEL ANGLES: Outfielder Bob James, who joined the Angels Thursday night, suffered a mild ankle sprain when he tripped at the hotel. He will probably be sidelined until Monday. Jones, 26, felt he should have been on the Ranger team in 1975 following a productive season at Spokane during which he hit .360 with 91 RBI. "I had a good spring with the bat, too," Jones recalled, "but Billy Martin told me I had to be more aggressive at the plate. After a year like that, I didn't know I had to be."

How they scored

ANGELS SECOND

RANGERS SECOND

ANGELS THIRD

With two out, Torres walked. Bonds doubled, scoring Torres, and took third on Smalley's throwing error. Bochte grounded to short. One run, one hit, one error, one left.

RANGERS THIRD

With two out, Randle singled to center. Hargrove homered to right, his third. Harrah grounded to short. Two runs, two hits.

RANGERS FIFTH

only thing that went wrong for Long Beach Friday.

"We've already set a record for protests, or near-protests," meet program director Bill Tisdale remarked as the steamy session struggled toward a conclusion.

The diplomatic squabbles included:

• A protest San Jose filed, and then withdrew, when it realized that Long Beach would gain a point if the complaint was upheld. The Spartans protested that Martin Stevens of San Diego was using illegal gloves in the hammer throw, but withdrew it when it was noted that LBSU's Fritz Coffman would be moved from fourth to third in the standings, giving Long Beach another point.

• There was also an extended discussion on whether or not Baird had taken three "official" jumps at 16-6, the 49ers contending that the first try was a "practice" attempt. Officials ruled against Long Beach.

That was just about the

Allice entered two hurdlers, Paul White and Craig Durck, in the intermediates so that semifinal heats would be required, a maneuver that meant that Dedy Cooper, the brilliant San Jose hurdler, would have to run an extra race.

Cooper won his 400 IH heat handily, but the 49ers got a bonus when White and Durck also qualified for the finals, Durck advancing when Fresno State's Chuck Lowe, who beat Durck by five seconds, was disqualified for trailing his leg over a hurdle.

The 49ers also got heady

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Tight end graduates in home economics

The New Orleans Saints don't just have a brawny tight end in Henry Childs, they've got themselves a rookie with a home economics degree—one of only four males in a graduating class of 238 at Kansas State University Friday.

Childs, 25, was granted the degree in family and child development after spending much of his field study time at Wichita's juvenile detention center. He also took the normal home economics courses in nutrition, textiles and money management.

"I just decided that I wanted to work at something where I could deal with people," said the former business major. "I don't think any of the teenagers I worked with realized I'm a football player, but it could be an asset some time."

Feeney gives Turner fair warning

Colorful Ted Turner, a maverick among major league baseball owners, has been ordered to change his behavior, but the ultimatum by National League president Charles Feeney may have fallen on deaf ears.

"I'll do anything I want to, but he said I better do what he said," revealed the Atlanta owner, who has offered his players $500 bonuses for each victory over 81 this season and additional cash if attendance surpasses 900,000.

Feeney also "suggested strongly" that Turner not play poker with his players. "I asked him why not? It's relaxing and it's only penny-ante stuff anyway," said Turner. "He said, 'You might win money from them.' I said, 'So what? They can afford it'."

Best bypasses Bicentennial Cup

If anything, George Best is loyal. One of the world's greatest soccer players will not compete for Team America in the upcoming American Bicentennial Soccer Cup tournament. He claims the Aztecs need him more.

Best said he couldn't take two weeks off from North American Soccer League play for the six-game series "especially after we lost last Monday, and the way we played. I think I should stay here and get something started with the Aztecs. After all, they are my employers."

Boy using near-severed arm again

This week, David Goldberg pitched his first Little League game in almost a year. He struck out seven and walked eight in three innings. Not bad for a kid whose arm was nearly completely severed in a motorcycle accident last June 29.

Besides pitching, batting and fielding, the San Diego youngster also plays tennis and tackle football. His only problem, he says, is constantly having to explain to other youngsters how he got those strange looking scars on his arm. "Now I tell them I got bitten by a shark."

Two Canadiens missing from Cup

Don Awrey played 72 regular-season National Hockey League games for the Montreal Canadiens, but his name will not be etched on the Stanley Cup. Neither will John Van Boxmeer's because he performed in only 46 matches.

"If you don't play for the Stanley Cup, how do you expect to get your name on it?" asked NHL president Clarence Campbell, explaining how the two are ineligible because they never appeared in any of the Canadiens' 13 playoff games. "Somebody who plays 72 regular season games has a right to be upset, but the people he should be upset with are his management, not the league."

BRIEFLY: Doctors have forbidden World Hockey Association scoring champion Marc Tardif from competing for Canada in the Canada Cup international tournament in September because of the brain contusion he suffered April 11. What's even worse, in Tardif's opinion, is they won't even allow him to play golf...Two men were charged with burglary Friday after someone broke into several motel rooms, including one occupied by pro golfer Eddie Pearce. Pearce, competing in the Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic, reported losing $100 and a money clip which were recovered...The California Relays in Modesto, Martin Luther King Games in Atlanta and the International Track Association meet in El Paso highlight the track and field scene today. Weightmen John Powell, Al Feuerbach and George Woods along with sprinter Reggie Jones, intermediate hurdler Jim Bolding and Long Beach State pole vaulter Don Baird are among those competing in Modesto. High school sensation Houston McTear has the likes of Harvey Glance, Steve Williams and Rey Robinson to beat in Atlanta...Richie Kates of Trenton, N.J., faces Argentina's Victor Galindez in Johannesburg, South Africa, today for Galindez' World Boxing Association light heavyweight title...The fate of the Kansas City Scouts and California Golden Seals will be high on the agenda at the NHL board of governors meeting Tuesday in Chicago. The Scouts have been operating on league funds while the Seals are up for sale again. The Kansas City Kings of the National Basketball Association Friday withdrew an offer to buy the Scouts...Atlanta Braves manager Dave Bristol and coach Vern Benson have been fined by the National League for bumping umpire Harry Wendelstedt in Houston Monday. Wendelstedt ruled Atlanta first baseman Darrell Evans pulled his foot from the bag on a throw with two out in the ninth inning, allowing Houston's Cesar Cedeno to score the winning run..."Racing is like a damned disease: You can't stay away. You learn to love the crowds, the people, the way of life," said pioneer stock car driver Buck Barker, making a comeback at age 57.

Oregon St. wins

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Gail Meier got three hits in four times at bat and batted in three runs Friday as Oregon State beat Oregon 10-0 in a Northern Division Pacific-8 Conference baseball game.

LANCERS—

Williams, who had also survived a shaky first inning when El Segundo had two runners on and only one out, turned over a new leaf with a 6-2 lead to work with.

The strong-armed right-hander gave up back-to-back hits with two outs in the sixth but was unconcerned, especially after he doubled home two more runs in a three-run fifth.

Williams got El Segundo's 6-4 first baseman, Keith Cleary, to ground into a game-ending double play. Cleary, who had 10 homers and 40 RBI entering the game, walked, struck out and singled in his other trips.

El Segundo finished its season 20-12.

McCarron posts another triumph

Chris McCarron, the leading rider at the meeting, guided Mamie Taylor, a 6-year-old mare to victory in the six-furlong dash timed in 1:11 3/5. The mutuel payoff was $3.80, $2.80 and $2.60. Heather Ridge paid $11.40 and $6.20 and Dancing Riffle was $3.80 for show.

Crosby to Cards; Powell activated

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians Friday activated veteran first baseman Boog Powell and assigned the contract of utility infielder Ed Crosby to the Tulsa Oilers of the American Association.

Crosby, a Wilson High graduate, becomes the property of the St. Louis Cardinals, the team affiliated with the Oilers. Crosby, 26, began his major league career with the Cardinals in 1972, was traded to Cincinnati in 1973 and came to Cleveland in 1974 along with Luis Alvarado in exchange for Jack Heidemann.

Schmidt upsets Wilkins

COLOGNE, West Germany (AP) — Wolfgang Schmidt of East Germany tossed the discus 225-1 for a European record, upsetting world record holder Mac Wilkins of the Long Beach Pacific Coast Club, and Guy Drut of France whipped American Charles Foster in the 110-meter high hurdles in a pre-Olympic track and field meet Friday night.

Schmidt shattered the European record of 224-5 set four years ago by Ricky Bruch of Sweden, beating Wilkins in their first duel of the season. Wilkins set the world mark of 232-6 May 1.

Drut, France's top gold medal hopeful for the Montreal Olympics, skimmed over the hurdles in an electronically timed 13.49 seconds to edge the fast-closing Foster, who was timed in 13.55. Willie Davenport, the U.S. gold medalist at the 1968 Olympics, was third in 13.87 seconds.

Dan Ripley, also of the PCC, won the pole vault with a leap of 17-2¾.

Steve Riddick, a U.S. sprint longshot for Montreal, swept both the 100 in 10.32 and the 200 in 20.82, winning by wide margins on an artificial track slowed by moisture from a pre-meet rain storm.

Razorbacks hold tryout camp today

The California Razorbacks, who open Western Professional League play July 3, will hold tryouts today at 1 p.m. at Los Alamitos High.

All prospective minor league football players are requested to be attired in shorts and football shoes. Official practice for the 11-game seasons begins June 1.

LBCC 'darkhorse' in So-Cal track finals

Long Beach City College track coach Don Mulligan rates his team a "darkhorse" for the Southern California track title today at 5 p.m. at Mt. San Antonio College.

"Bakersfield should win it, but Harbor, Fullerton and Grossmont will be tough," said Mulligan.

LBCC sends nine men—its most since 1967—to the finals. Best bet for points are pole vaulter Craig Wilson (16-7¾), quartermiler Gerald Peete (48.2) and the mile relay team of Larry Flewellen, Leon Hawkins, Michael Griffith and Peete (3:16.3).

Other LBCC finalists include Barry Welsch and Ed Vallez (1,500 meters and steeplechase), 400-meter hurdler Larry Norwood; discus thrower Dave Fuller, javelin thrower Shaun Ward and triple jumper Gerald Halcomb.

Fullerton has the largest contingency (15 men), followed by Bakersfield with 14.

Ali-Dunn heavyweight bout is a loser at boxoffice

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — The Muhammad Ali-Richard Dunn world heavyweight title fight was turning into one of boxing's major financial busts Friday, with the estimated loss to its German promoters of close to $500,000.

A report on ticket sales from the Bavarian State Travel Service, which is handling sales in Germany for the fight, was even more pessimistic than figures used by the American co-promoter, Robert Arum of Top Rank, Inc., to make the loss projection.

Arum said that, on the basis of 6,000-7,000 seats sold for the 12,000-seat Olympiahalle, the German fight backers—Promot—could clear about $600,000.

"Their nut (breakeven point) is somewhere over a million," Arum said. "This means that they're a $400,000 to $500,000 loser."

But the state travel service said only 4,500 to 5,000 seats had been sold.

The most notorious flop in boxing history was Jack Dempsey's 1923 fight in Shelby, Montana, against Tommy Gibbons, which led to the failure of several banks.

"The Americans like Arum don't take big losses in this one because they make safe money on selling the television rights and don't put much money up front," a source close to the promotion said. "The Germans, who perhaps should have known better, will have to bear it all."

Reports that Promot was also having trouble paying the rent for the arena were denied by Olympiapark, GmbH, which owns the Olympiahalle, scene of the 1972 Olympic basketball final.

Ali was dragged into the mess Friday when he was asked to announce on the U.S. Armed Forces Network that American military personnel would be given a 50 per cent discount on any tickets, whose prices range from $12.50 for standing room to $400 at ringside.

Arum said that the price scale was too ambitious, "but when people think they can make a lot of money, it's hard to tell them how to lower their sights."

Promot is a mysterious corporation originally capitalized at $8,000 earlier this year. It arranged the agreement to bring Ali to Munich with a $150,000 cash deposit in March, then followed this with a $275,000 letter of credit.

Promot was to have paid Ali $225,000 more, the equivalent of the German tax he was estimated to have to pay on his income. When the money was not produced Thursday, cancellation of the fight was threatened. But the tax estimate was scaled down to $165,000 and Promot signed agreements that made certain Ali would get the money.

Arum claimed Promot owed him $125,000 for television production costs that the Germans contracted to pay, but said Friday he had settled for $60,000.

Shorter favored in U.S. Olympic marathon trials

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Frank Shorter, who won a gold medal in the marathon at Munich four years ago, acknowledges he's the favorite for today's 26-mile, 385-yard event in the U.S. Olympic Trials.

It's a familiar role for the young Colorado attorney.

"I've been favored for a long time, so I've gotten used to it," Shorter said. "When you start worrying about losing you should get out.

"The object is to finish in the top three as easily as you can."

"It's not like most track races, where you have to run as hard as you can to qualify," Shorter said. "You have to run here and you must have something left for the Olympics, so you don't drain yourself."

In the 1972 Olympic Track and Field Trials, also in Eugene, Shorter and Kenny Moore of the Oregon Track Club crossed the finish line together followed by Jack Bachelor, Shorter's teammate with the Florida Track Club.

"The field is much better this year," said Shorter. "Four years ago, 2:20 would be the third-place time. Now there are 30 to 40 with better times than that."

Today's marathon is only the second Shorter has run in the last two years.

"The marathon isn't the kind of race you train for by running," he said. "I thought it would be better if I stayed away for awhile. I didn't have to prove to myself I could run it because I knew I could.

JUST A KICK broke on top to take a clear lead into the first turn, saved ground to hold safe MAMA KALI and won in full stride. The latter raced in hand to the quarter pole while tracking the winner then could make little headway when roused. MYSTERY MOOD saved ground to improve her position but hung late. OUTMODED was not good enough. SOBERANA II showed little. SWAP DANCES lost ground early.

Caucasus, Royal Derby II share Hollypark favoritism

If Cardiff Stock Farm's Caucasus and Fogelson and Whittingham's Royal Derby II were to race in separate interests in today's $46,050 South Bay Handicap at Hollywood Park, 40,000 fans probably would have a difficult time choosing which one to make the favorite.

However, with the two grass stars performing as an entry, and with Edington thrown in for good measure, local turf enthusiasts will have to decide whether to take the three-horse coupling at odds-on.

Caucasus, one of England's top runners last year, Royal Derby II, an import from Australia, and Argentine-bred Edington will race as an entry because Cardiff Stock Farm owns both Caucasus and Edington, while Charlie Whittingham trains Caucasus and Royal Derby II, and is co-owner of the latter.

The 11-furlong South Bay is a conditioned race for older runners which have not won a race worth $15,000 to the winner sice Dec. 25. In post position order, the field attracted Copper Mel (Darrel McHargue-113 pounds), Pampas Host (Francisco Mena-112), Edington (Robert Gonzalez-109), Popular Victory (Bobby Howard-113), Blue Times (Frank Olivares-113), Chief Pronto (Laffit Pincay-116), Royal Derby II (Bill Shoemaker-115), Silver Saber (Don Pierce-110), Caucasus (Fernando Toro-124), Red Orange (Marco Castaneda-110) and Ameri Flyer (Sandy Hawley-117).

If all 11 start, the winner will pocket $28,050 and a possible invitation to the $200,000 Turf Handicap on May 31.

Caucasus was bred in Kentucky but was taken to England for his early racing lessons. The son of European horse of the year Nijinsky II and 1958 champion 2-year-old filly Quill won four of five outings overseas including the classic Irish St. Leger. Caucasus still is looking for his first American score, having finished fourth and second in a pair of classified events.

Royal Derby II, a full brother to the former grass runner Daryl's Joy, is two-for-two at the meeting against slightly lesser foes. The 7-year-old horse is seeking his first American stakes score. A victory by any horse other than Caucasus or Royal Derby II would be a mild surprise.

Just A Kick, a victor in the recent Costa Mesa Handicap, against the top distaffers on the grounds, found classified fillies just as easy Friday as the Roger Clapp-trained filly sped to a wire-to-wire, 1½-length triumph in the $25,000 Morningside Purse.

Shoemaker finds some fickle fans

Veteran jockey greeted by boos

It was just two months ago that Southland racegoers gave Bill Shoemaker, the world's winningest jockey, a rousing ovation after he scored the 7,000th victory of his career at Santa Anita.

But the old race track axiom of "what have you done for me lately" came into play when Shoe was showered with boos after his sixth-place finish on Sibirri in the fifth race Sunday.

Sibirri wasn't even the favorite, but Shoemaker had been aboard four heavily backed choices Friday and Saturday and all four had been beaten. Charger's Star (3-5), Vol Au Vent (1-2), Strong (7-5), and Crystal Water (4-5) had failed for Shoe.

While the players were upset with him, trainers are more than happy to have the 44-year-old veteran ride for them. "There was absolutely nothing he could do with my horse. It was just one of those crazy, instances where a hole never develops. I'll sure use him if I can get him," is the way trainer Ralph West talked about Shoemaker and his trip aboard Charger's Star, who was trapped behind horses throughout her turf-course effort.

GREENER PASTURERS—Action is the name of the game to the powerful Dan Lasater stable. The nation's leading money-winning outfit has a tremendous overhead. To keep the books in black ink, Lasater steeds must see plenty of action.

When trainer David Vance shipped West to Hollywood Park several years back, it was the lure of the rich Hollypark program that caused the invasion. But Vance discovered his stock didn't match the class needed to compete locally, there wasn't enough action and the stable returned to the East Coast in mid-season.

Following a "must" season at Oaklawn Park, the main Lasater forces shipped this year to Chicago, planning to compete at Sportsman's Park, Hawthorne and then the long Arlington-Washington meet. The stable, 50 strong, was expected to strengthen competition on the Windy City circuit.

But Lasater won't campaign at Arlington. "We've changed our mind," said general manager Dick Fisher. "A lot of races that fit our stock didn't fill at Sportsman's and they aren't filling here at Hawthorne.

"We'll ship to Keystone near Philadelphia and then we can head for any one of several tracks which are no more than 100 miles away."

The pressures of success—maintaining three farms, a massive breeding program and more than 150 horses in training—forces the Lasater gang to seek greener pasturers.

DEPARTURE BACKLASH—Could the departure of the Lasater string have been behind the reported appearance of a Chicago race track aide at Golden Gate Fields this week?

An assistant to Guy Clank, the racing sec at Arlington Park, is said to have been touring the grounds of the strike-bound Golden Gate track, passing out stall applications. "No names, just the number of shippers," was the reported cry of the day.

Favor Gent in Los Al marathon

Bids for fifth consecutive win

American Gent bids for his fifth successive victory tonight in the $8,000-added War Chic Stakes as Los Alamitos Race Course brings down the curtain on its abbreviated opening weekend.

The first full week of racing during the 82-night summer season begins Monday night, with the Los Alamitos Derby trials and the Leo Stakes highlighting next week's racing at the Orange County track.

The War Chic has attracted six top distance performers—Little Go Fleet, Go Deer Go, Big Badger, Wheatland and Olde Smoothie—in addition to probable favorite American Gent. Post time is 8 p.m.

AMERICAN GENT enjoyed a sensational Bay Meadows meeting in which he won his last four races in succession, including a head triumph in the Hillsdale Handicap, the 870-yard championship of that Northern California meeting. The Hoist Bar 5-year-old, claimed for $3,500 before beginning his distance campaign, turned in a 44.90 clocking while winning one event at Bay Meadows and figures to be the heavy favorite in the War Chic.

American Gent, who finished far back in the War Chic as the favorite last year, has earned $20,000 in five months after winning $23,000 in 1975. He will carry high weight of 126 pounds, the same load he toted to victory in the Hillsdale Handicap, and will spot his five rivals from four to eight pounds. Kenny Hart will be in the irons.

Wheatland is the reigning state record-holder after turning in a 44.70-second triumph last spring.

IN FRIDAY night's features at Los Alamitos kicked off its 26th summer season, Ed Dee narrowly nipped Triple Beat and favored Mr. Capri Deck while Maskeo Lad, the nation's champion 3-year-old colt last season, stepped off a $17.60 upset victory in the $13,800 Inaugural.

Ed Dee finished a head in front of Triple Beat at the wire and paid $14.60, $5.80 and $2.80 for his 17.95-second sprint. Triple Beat held on for second and Mr. Capri Deck third.

A crowd of 13,500 saw Maskeo Lad outdistance She's Precious and favored Wanta Go as trainer D. Wayne Lukas marked the fourth successive year he's handled the defending national quarter horse champion with a successful opening venture in the Inaugural.

Lakewood dominates swim

SANTA BARBARA (Special) — Swimmers from the Lakewood Aquatics Club took seven of the top nine places in the women's 1,500-meter freestyle during opening day competition in the Southern Pacific Association AAU meet at Los Banos Del Mar.

Nineteen-year-old Shari Ramage finished second with an 18:11.2 clocking to lead the Lakewood domination. Becky Brill (13) won the event in 18:06.5.

Brian Roney of the Aquarius Swim Club won the men's 1,500 when Paul Hartzloss (Santa Barbara SC) was disqualified. Hartzloss, in attempt to strengthen his arms, was swimming with his legs bound and was using paddles. Hartzloss was clocked in 15:50. Roney finished at 17:03.

LYNDON LAMPOONED

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — "Barry Lyndon," described as a "cinematic wallpaper catalogue," was named worst movie of the year Tuesday in the Harvard Lampoon's annual tongue-in-cheek pans.

The college humor magazine bestowed its annual Natalie Wood Award for worst actress on Diana Ross for her work in "Mahagony."

The film headed the magazine's list of 10 worst movies.

The others included "The Hindenburg," "Mahogany," and "Once Is Not Enough," of which the Lampoon said, "We beg to differ."

Rounding out the worst 10 were "Tommy," "At Long Last Love," "The Other Side of the Mountain," "Day of the Locust," "Story of O" and "Shampoo."

Burgess Meredith was named worst supporting actor for his role in "Day of the Locust." Madeline Kahn took worst supporting actress for "The Adventure of Sherlock Holmes' Smarter Brother" and "At Long Last Love."

'Little lady,' Brando told her, 'you're going to be fantastic'

By HARRY TESSEL
Staff Writer

The film is now showing in Long Beach, Lakewood, Torrance, La Mirada and Orange County.

"The only thing I could think to do was stick out my hand. Then he kissed my hand, put his arm around my shoulder, and the two of us walked slowly along this mountain road.

"He was talking very soft and low. But I don't remember a word he said until we stopped and he turned me around to face him.

" 'Little lady,' he said, 'you're going to be fantastic.' Then he kissed me on the cheek and we walked back to the filming."

Miss Lloyd, who was born in San Jose and studied acting at UCLA, was in television for seven years. A consultant for the film, then in its planning stages, spotted one of her shows.

She was tracked down, and when director Arthur Penn called, she remembers:

"I dropped the phone when it hit me who was calling, but it was a good thing because I was speechless. But the time I picked it up, I was able to say yes and get the address and time."

She was tested and signed for the role of a wealthy rancher's sexy daughter. Brando plays a "regulator" hired by the rancher to stop a band of horse rustlers led by Nicholson, Miss Lloyd's love interest.

PRODUCER Irwin Allen has signed famed screenwriter Carl Foreman to write "The Day the World Ended," a $15 million all-star spectacle based on the best-seller.

CELEBRATED French film-maker Claude Lelouch will produce, write and direct "Si C'Etatit a Refair" ("If You Had to Do It All Over Again") starring Catherine Deneuve, for United Artists. It's the story of a woman whose life has been scarred by imprisonment.

FILMING begins Monday on "The Heretic: Exorcist II" at Warner Bros.' Burbank studio. Locations will be New York, Washington, D.C., Rome and Africa. Stars are Linda Blair, Richard Burton, Louise Fletcher, Max Von Sydow and James Earl Jones.

TWENTIETH Century-Fox has signed Sir Alec Guinness for "Star Wars," a space fantasy, and Jan-Michael Vincent has been inked for "Damnation Alley," about a handful of nuclear-war survivors.

WESTERN FILM FESTIVAL

The First West Coast Western Film Festival has been scheduled set for June 16 through 19 at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles. The program will include 100 sound westerns made between 1930 and 1955, 10 serials, panel discussions and an awards banquet. The first stars accepting invitations to attend are: Don "Red" Barry, Bob Steele, Lash LaRue, Monte Hale, Eddie Dean, Jimmy Wakely, Jim Bannon, Duncan Renaldo, Ray "Crash" Corrigan, Dick Foran, Buster Crabbe, I. Stanford Jolley, Marshall Reed, Jim Davis, Noah Beery Jr., Harry Carey Jr., Dub Taylor, James Brown, Iron Eyes Cody, Kent Taylor, Rand Brooks, Petty Stewart, Linda Sterling, Nan Leslie, Marie Windsor and Helen Talbot. Sinatra and press: a love-hate story

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The curious relationship between Frank Sinatra and the press is underscored once more with a new "unauthorized biography" by New York columnist Earl Wilson.

Sinatra continues to revile us and say all manner of evil against us. Yet we go on writing about him. Why?

Wilson, who never lost his wide-eyed Ohio attitude in the big city, offers no real answer in "Sinatra" (Macmillan, $9.95). He himself fell victim to the Sinatra scorn, yet now he has authored a 355-page book that Wilson says is "eminently fair."

His reward from the subject of his biography? A $3-million lawsuit charging that the book, although complimentary, is "false, fictionalized, boring and uninteresting."

Sinatra himself is reportedly midway through an autobiography apparently aimed at correcting the false legends.

Wilson reflects the perplexity of those who have tried to chronicle the activities of Sinatra over the years. For 25 years Wilson felt he had a close rapport with Sinatra, then suddenly found himself barred from a Florida opening.

"After trying to be an honorable newspaperman with a reputation for getting along with big personalities, to get this slap in the face made me crumble spiritually," the columnist writes. "The word 'barred' is a degrading one in my business, and it had never been used against me before."

Wilson recovered from the blow and went for five years without talking to or writing about Frank Sinatra. Then he mellowed and printed nice things about the singer's 1975 European tour. Wilson was invited to the Sinatra-John Denver concerts in Nevada, and peace was declared. But then Wilson had the effrontery to write a biography.

Is it "false and fictionalized"? It would take a busload of Philadelphia lawyers to decide for sure. But Wilson is a good reporter and he doesn't appear to go beyond the facts as he knows them or as they were reported at the time.

Is it "boring and uninteresting"? Only to those who are bored or uninterested in the Sinatra saga, of whom there may be a few. But there are many, many more who can't get their fill of Sinatra lore and, if the singer keeps contributing to the publicity campaign, the book may well become a best-seller.

It's all there: the rise and fall of the bobby-sox idol; the comeback with "From Here to Eternity"; the marriages and divorces with Nancy, Ava and Mia, all of whom remain friendly; the meticulous artistry of his musical career, the "One-take Charlie" sluff-off as an actor; the petty feuds and the selfless acts of beneficence.

Wilson tells the events with little analysis. He does offer an explanation for the split with Ava Gardner, as leaked by her psychiatrists:

"Frank was guilty of trying to be a caveman, according to one expert who had interviewed Ava's Psyche. His strutting and peacocking had eroded whatever small self-confidence she had left. Ava had been testing her strength with Francis Albert Sinatra just to make sure she had some. He hadn't responded the way she felt he should, so Ava felt weaker instead of stronger."

Wilson observes that Sinatra does not like the peaceful but prefers to be "a warrior, an unhappy warrior." He adds:

"The conflicts make him a bigger box-office attraction than all the happy singers. Sinatra knows exactly what he is doing. By protesting that his privacy is being invaded, he gets free advertising for his eccentricities — and his bookings ...

"In that sense he has made dupes of the press for 30 to 40 years. The press gives him free space to blast the press. It has found no way to refuse him space for his outbursts because he is colorful and controversial, and a story about him may be the most interesting thing in the paper."

Best Viet actor asks U.S. role

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "I am a good actor with no place to act," says Doan Chau Mau.

THe 59-year-old war refugee, named best actor in South Vietnam in 1971, fled Saigon a day before it fell last year. He has tried since then to find work in this country.

"Twice I talked to people in Hollywood, girls at desks who told me that I needed an agent," Doan said in an interview.

"Once I talked to somebody on Sunset Boulevard, but the agents don't accept people at all unless they have credits in American movies."

The negatives of his 18 films made over a 17-year career are behind in his Communist-ruled homeland, along with Doan's home in Saigon and mountain home in the Dalat resort.

With only a handbag, he accompanied his wife, a son and a grandson to the U.S. Embassy in Saigon. "It was lucky, somebody recognized us and waved us in," said Doan.

An evacuation ship took them to the Phillipines and then to Wake Island, where they spent six weeks before being moved to Ft. Chaffee, Ark. A son working in the San Diego area as an insurance salesman bought his parents a home in suburban Spring Valley with his $2,000 savings and a bank loan.

But the $320 monthly payments have proved too high, and the house is being sold.

Doan and his wife, Do Thi Dien, may visit a 29-year-old daughter, Doan Thanh Van, who works in the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel gift shop. Or another daughter, Doan Thanh Tuyen, 22-year-old violinist and singer who appears in Los Angeles-area nightclubs.

The producer of "Stone Tears," the Vietnamese movie for which Doan was voted his country's best actor, has the negative of that film but told Doan he lacks money to develop a positive print to show agents. Meanwhile, Doan lives unhappily on public welfare.

The role of an American Indian is one he could play, said Doan.

Dennis Doan, his bright and Americanized grandson who is already a fifth-grader, also wants to be an actor.

"Someday I will act, but first my grandfather will act once again," said Dennis.

Tire company to drill for gas

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. plans to drill for natural gas in the middle of its production complex here, and says that if the first effort succeeds, it has additional sites in mind.

Thomas F. Minter, Goodyear executive vice president, said the first well was expected to produce enough gas each month to cut the company's commercial requirements by the equivalent of the average monthly gas needs of 150 homes.

EARL'S PEARLS

Today's Best Laugh: Life has a way of balancing things. Nowadays what you pay for a few drinks is enough to sober you up.

Wish I'd Said That: After watching some high fashion models, Bill Copeland figures that for models it seems to be the survival of the flattest.

Remembered Quote: "Don't confuse education with honesty. I know a man who speaks a dozen languages — and he's a liar in all of them." — Cong. Tennyson Guyer.

Earl's Pearls: Dialogue: "I'd rather have a million friends than a million dollars" ... "Listen, when you have a million dollars you have a million friends."

Scotch drinkers dated?

Knight News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. — If you're a Scotch drinker who's nearing 40 and you're sensitive about your age, maybe you should change your taste in alcohol.

Every time you belly up to the bar to order a Scotch on the rocks, you may be dating yourself, judging from liquor industry research, which shows that 74 per cent of confirmed Scotch drinkers are older than 35.

Bourbon and American blended whiskies also are favored by the older-than-35 set; and that doesn't bode well for their sales in the next five years, a liquor-marketing expert told some 200 liquor and wine wholesalers meeting here.

"The children of the post-World War II baby boom are maturing — like a fine wine, you might say — and their preferences are going to be the overriding factor in liquor sales in the forseeable future," Robert G. Shoniker, president of R. G. Shoniker and Associates, a Canadian marketing firm, told liquor wholesalers.

Historically, the liquor industry advertising has been aimed at the more mature and sophisticated, but during the next five years the 25- to 35-year-old age group — now more than 30 million strong — will become the industry's major marketing target, Shoniker said.

Despite all the attention paid to the "youth revolution" and the drug culture, market research indicates that the young adults who were the teenagers of the '50s are still turning to alcohol for release and relaxation, Shoniker said.

The baby boom generation will drink just as much alcohol as their parents, but under different labels, he said.

Vodka, gin and Canadian whisky, are heavily favored by men and women younger than 35, while relatively few drinkers in that age group are likely to buy Scotch or bourbon, the marketing man said.

Rum and tequila also are extremely popular with young adults, Schoniker said, but he predicted that the popularity of tequila would decline during the next five years.

"Sales of tequila have jumped by 31 per cent this year, and it's especially popular on college campuses," he said. "But we don't think that will last long. The tequila boom will probably peak out by 1980 because of what we call 'lazy consumers' — drinkers who don't want to go through all the fuss that's required to make margaritas and other tequila drinks."

The "spiked milk shake" fad, set off by the recent appearance of several brands of liquor-and-milk drinks in package stores, will come to an end even sooner, he told liquor wholesalers.

"For one thing, money is important to young adults; and it's not going to take them long to realize that it's cheaper to buy their own milk and liquor, and mix their own 'shakes,' than to buy these drinks by the bottle," Shoniker said.

Old favorites like bourbon and blended whiskies will suffer a much more gradual decline in sales — at the rate of perhaps 2 to 3 per cent a year — he predicted.

Brandies and cordials, on the other hand, are increasing in popularity.

As young adults improve their financial status, they're more likely to indulge in such expensive, after-dinner liqueurs; and sales of those products are expected to increase at the rate of 3 to 5 per cent annually, partially on the basis of their "snob appeal," the marketing expert said.

Thieves get $200

Alice C. Rutan, of 4911 Daisy Ave., told Long Beach police that burglars who entered her home through a bathroom window took $200 in cash.

Alligator backlash brings scrapping of trapping ban

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Fearing a backlash against an alligator invasion of Florida suburbs, the State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission scrapped a decade-old ban Friday and will allow commercial trapping of the reptiles.

In a unanimous vote, commissioners adopted a new alligator-management policy allowing commercial harvesting of the animals "in areas where there are serious conflicts between alligators and people."

"We've got a major problem with a real explosion of alligators in many urban areas of the state," said Dr. Earl O. Frye, director of the commission. "They're eating dogs and cats, and there has been a growing number of attacks on people.

"If we don't take positive action quickly, the public is going to be so turned off we won't be able to get convictions for killing them."

Frye said the new policy won't begin until the commission completes an alligator-research project and adopts specific rules and regulations.

The new policy also depends on approval by federal officials of switching the classification of alligators in Florida from endangered species to threatened species.

Currently, Louisiana is the only state with an alligator-trapping season.

Florida game officials estimated that the state's alligator population has mushroomed from an endangered level 10 years ago to more than 500,000 today, resulting in an overpopulation in urban areas.

Six alligator attacks on humans have been reported in Florida in the last two years, including one death, and Frye said there are now more than 10,000 complaints a year against alligators in canals and lakes.

The new policy came despite the objection of the Florida Audubon Society, which said a resumption of trapping would result in the reappearance of an illicit hide market supplied by poachers.

"The policy says the harvesting would be limited to those with experience in trapping and skinning alligators," said Audubon lobbyist Charles Lee. "The only people around with experience are the poachers."

One witness at the commission hearing, Ernestine Denkins of Leesburg, said she had first-hand experience with the increasingly aggressive nature of alligators.

"A five-footer came right up into our yard and got our dog," she said. "Of course he was a small dog, but something has to be done. We're afraid to even go swimming in the lake anymore."

3 in U.S. get plague this year

ATLANTA (AP) — A California man, a New Mexico woman and an Arizona boy have contracted bubonic plague this year, and the man and woman died, the national Center for Disease Control reported Friday.

CDC said all three had secondary pneumonia, a rare complication that "creates the potential for secondary spreads to people who have been in contact." But the plague did not spread in any of the cases.

The CDC said in its weekly morbidity report that only 5 of 86 plague cases reported to the CDC since 1950 have had evidence of secondary pneumonia.

The plague is spread by yersinia pestis, an organism that infests fleas, and is carried to humans through flea bites, CDC said.

A 45-year-old Bakersfield, Calif., man contracted plague symptoms on April 13 and died April 20. An investigation revealed there had been a die-off of ground squirrels around his home not long before that. The squirrels were tentatively identified as the source of infested fleas.

A 63-year-old woman from a New Mexico pueblo had skinned a pack rat and a rabbit five days before plague symptoms developed April 26. She died May 11. The pack rat was the source of infestation, CDC said.

The 15-year-old Arizona boy found a dead cottontail rabbit, dismembered it and fed the carcass to his dog, CDC said. The boy developed plague but recovered after being treated with antibiotics.

By STEPHEN MONTIEL

MARTINEZ (AP) — A bus carrying a high-school choir to a concert smashed through a guardrail Friday and landed upside down on the ground 30 feet below, killing 28 persons and injuring 24 others.

The California Highway Patrol said the driver lost control of the chartered bus while negotiating a sharp turn on a highway off-ramp. The bus landed on the hard-packed earth, flattening the roof and crushing victims in their seats.

A patrol spokesman said records showed two traffic convictions for the driver — one for drunk driving in 1970 and one for speeding last year. He survived the crash but was seriously injured.

"WE'RE REALLY GOING to work this one over from an investigation standpoint," said Kent Milton, the spokesman.

Twenty-six died at the scene of the crash, described by one rescuer as resembling a war zone. Police said one other person died en route from the scene and another died at one of the hospitals where the injured were rushed by more than 20 ambulances summoned to Martinez, a suburb east of San Francisco.

"It was like a bad dream," said Perry Martin, 18-year-old senior who awoke from a nap inside the toppling bus. "All I can remember is waking up and seeing everything turning around and around and around."

The accident was one of the worst bus tragedies in state history. On Sept. 17, 1963, 32 Mexican farm labor-

U.S. policy rift denied

By KENNETH J. FREED

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Secretary of State Henry Kissinger on Friday denied that the White House has undercut his foreign policy and declared that he and President Ford are in complete accord on American diplomacy.

"There has been complete unanimity," Kissinger told a news conference at the conclusion of a two-day meeting of North Atlantic foreign ministers. "Every initiative has been discussed in full detail and ordered by the President."

The ministers ended their meeting with a joint communique warning of a growth in Soviet military strength and stressing NATO's continued commitment to "deterrent and defensive strength" as a necessary basis for improved East-West relations.

THE statement also voiced concern over the lack of progress in U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation talks; the continued instability in the Middle East and Communist efforts to limit the right of West Germany to represent West Berlin.

Kissinger's news conference was called to discuss the NATO meeting, but politics quickly came to the fore.

While asserting that he and Ford were in full agreement on foreign policy, Kissinger said there may be "this or that person who has nothing to do with foreign policy who may be mumbling something in the corridors of the White House" against him.

On related matters:

—The secretary declined to reopen the question of his resignation by year's end. He said previous statements — that he would prefer to leave but may stay if Ford asked him to — still stand, and "I will say no more about my personal plans."

—He said published reports that he was unhappy with President Ford's political methods were eligible "for the Pulitzer Prize for fiction."

—Kissinger said his statements about the adverse foreign policy effect of extreme positions by presidential candidates applied only to Ford's opponents and not to the President.

—Asked if the White House had undercut his foreign policy, particularly after his recent trip to Africa, the secretary loudly declared: "Absolutely not. First of all, I don't believe that what is being said by the White House is any different from the foreign policy that is being conducted."

That means, Kissinger said, his voice rising, "I have no feeling of being undercut."

—He denied reports that while in Africa he had taken decisions unknown to Ford which hurt the President in the Texas Republican primary.

"There is no independent foreign policy being conducted," the secretary said. All aspects of the Africa trip were discussed in full with Ford before Kissinger left, he said, and all initiatives were ordered by the President.

New 'pals' shoot trio, toss another off cliff

REDDING (AP) — Three college students were shot and apparently left for dead and a fourth was thrown over a cliff by two young men who befriended them at a campground, a victim said Friday.

"They were real nice fellas, right up until the time one of 'em pulled a gun on us," James MacCabe, 19, of Rolling Hills said.

MacCabe was released from a hospital where he was treated for injuries suffered when he was thrown over a cliff by the assailants Thursday night at a Lake Shasta campground. His three companions remained hospitalized.

Siskiyou County sheriff's deputies using airplanes and bloodhounds combed the rolling farmland 85 miles north of Redding for the two men who escaped on foot after police chased them on Interstate 5.

The assailants stole the victims' car. They were spotted in Weed before they left the car and escaped on foot, deputies said.

MacCabe's three classmates from the UC Santa Cruz campus, all 19, were shot once each. They were under treatment at northern California hospitals. They are:

—Jeremy Grainger of San Gabriel, wounded in the chest and reported in fair condition at Sacramento Medical Center.

—Laura Goldman of San Francisco, shot in the stomach and reported in guarded condition at Redding Mercy Hospital.

—Evansmyth Leicester of Pacific Palisades, taken to Chico's Enloe Hospital and in stable condition with a head wound.

MacCabe gave this account:

They got to Antlers Campground about 9:30 p.m. After dinner, they met a man, about 20, and asked him how the swimming was in the lake.

The man said there was a better campground several miles up the road. They returned to their campground, and another man was there.

The students decided to drive to the better spot, and one of the men asked, "Can you give us a ride?"

One of the girls said, "We're kind of crowded, but okay."

Then one man came up. He had a gun and yanked one of the students out of the car. The four were marched into the picnic area.

There the two men took wallets and purses, then tried to tie all four to a picnic table, but there was not enough rope.

They talked of tying them to a tree, but decided against it.

So the students were taken to the top of a 40-foot cliff. Grainger and the women were ordered to disrobe and they were tied together. There was enough rope to just tie MacCabe's feet.

While he was on the ground, MacCabe said one of the men smiled at him and boasted, "I've killed three or four people."

"The guy looked proud of the fact that he had done that," MacCabe said.

Then MacCabe said he was picked up and thrown off the cliff.

Then he heard four shots. One of the girls screamed and moaned.

MacCabe climbed up, found a person with a citizen's band radio in the park and called authorities.

Ford tells Levi it's his busing decision

By MARGARET GENTRY

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford reassured Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi on Friday that Levi alone will decide whether to use the Boston school desegregation case to seek new Supreme Court guidelines limiting busing.

"He said the decision is up to me," Levi told reporters after an hour-long session with the President.

THE attorney general said he recognizes his decision may become a factor in the national political campaign, particularly since Ford faces a primary election Tuesday in Kentucky, where busing has been an issue.

But Levi said, "As far as I'm concerned there's no politics involved. I take it as a fact of life that there has been all this discussion. I don't know whether it has made it more difficult or not because you learn to live with that."

DEPARTMENT spokesman Robert Havel said Levi expects to reach his decision next week. He described the session between Ford and Levi as "an in-depth discussion of the pros and cons" of using the Boston case to bring the busing issue before the Supreme Court.

Ford himself characterized it as a "very long and important session."

Levi and Ford discussed only the Boston case and did not go into other busing alternatives Ford says he is considering, Havel reported.

Meanwhile, 26 members of Congress wrote Levi a letter Friday saying it would be "reckless indeed" to back antibusing forces in the Boston case.

"The Justice Department could be fomenting the violent acts of the much-criticized Boston citizen who riots and attacks innocent bystanders," they wrote Levi.

In New York, Roy Wilkins, executive director of the NAACP, accused Ford of asking the Justice Department to consider entering the Boston case as a political tactic to win votes at the expenses of blacks.

"While this would be the legal posture of the federal government, in actuality it will be lining up on the side of a defiant school committee and lawless mobs," Wilkins said at a news conference.

Earlier Friday, Ford said the courts would not have to impose busing if they would follow all of the steps available in a law already on the books.

He referred to the Esch Amendment, a 1974 law requiring the courts to impose busing only as a last resort after school officials have attempted to achieve desegregation through voluntary student transfers, zoning changes and construction of new schools.

Cousteau fears 'nuclear slavery'

Associated Press

Marine biologist Jacques Yves Cousteau warned Friday that extensive development of nuclear power will require a "worldwide police state" to protect power plants from terrorists.

Cousteau endorsed California's nuclear safeguards initiative, Prop. 15, as "an extremely reasonable" step toward protecting the public.

"The nuclear system is vulnerable to social disorders because reactors cannot be dissociated from bombs," he said at a Beverly Hills news conference.

He said Californians face a choice between "a nuclear age enslaved to a worldwide police state" set up to protect the nuclear plants and "a solar age of freedom and safety."

VOTERS HERE lead the rest of the nation and the world at this turning point in nuclear history, he said.

"In the world as it is... the threat will extend in time for tens of millions of years," he said.

$3.2 million released to primary candidates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential primary candidates received $3.2 million in federal campaign funds Friday as a whirlwind of activity ended a two-month cutoff of the matching money.

The fresh infusion of campaign dollars was certain to help candidates whose budgets had been drained by the grueling string of presidential primaries.

—A White House swearing-in ceremony of Springer and five reappointed commissioners

Reagan campaigns against Washington

Associated Press

Ronald Reagan said Friday a possible sale of the Tennessee Valley Authority to private industry was "something to look at" and said if Washington got out of the classroom, "maybe we could get God back in."

President Ford, looking ahead to six primaries on Tuesday, said from Washington he was optimistic he would get more delegates than Reagan from those states. The five Democratic candidates were trooping around most of those states Friday in search of votes.

Reagan said Washington was "a failure — an expensive failure," and said programs like education and welfare should be returned to the state.

"Everytime they pass a program in Washington, it becomes the closest thing to eternal life you'll ever see on this earth."

The total cost of education in the 1974-75 school year was $110 billion, and the federal government contributed 11 per cent. During the 1975-76 school year, the total cost of education is estimated to be $120 billion of which the government will contribute 9.8 per cent.

Ford told a group of Tennessee journalists in Washington the vote "will be very close" in the six states holding primaries Tuesday. "We are optimistic that out of six we'll end up with a few more than my opponent, as far as delegates are concerned," he said.

In Knoxville, Reagan was asked whether he would consider selling the TVA, a federal power conglomerate that Barry Goldwater suggested selling during his unsuccessful 1964 presidential campaign.

"... It would be something to look at," Reagan replied.

"I've always believed that here is an example of the government starting out in what was supposed to be one kind of undertaking, flood control, and competing with private power on a competitive basis tax free" the former California governor said.

The TVA, created in 1933 to harness flooding from the Tennessee River, is now the nation's largest power system. It provides electricity in seven states and is involved in fertilizer research, recreation, forestry, wildlife management and other programs.

Reagan also said he regards nuclear power, which TVA is seeking to expand, as the answer to the nation's energy crisis. He indicated there is too much regulation in nuclear power and other industries.

"It takes 11 years to build a nuclear power plant in America today," Reagan said, blaming federal regulations. "It only takes four years in Japan. All this regulation is not coming from elected leaders."

Ford touched on the TVA in his interview with the Tennessee journalists, saying he strongly supports the government-owned utility and has no plans to recommend any changes.

Ford noted he personally has heard no complaints about TVA operations but "perhaps the

Jetliner hostages faced with death

Combined News Services

MANILA — Hijackers holding more than 100 persons aboard an immobilized Philippine Airlines jet at Zamboanga airport threatened to kill the hostages unless their demands were met, airline sources said. There was no communication early this morning from the grounded aircraft, surrounded by troops and armor on a runway near the terminal building. The martial-law government clamped on a news blackout and military authorities would not confirm the threat. The military ordered the nose wheels of the jetliner deflated to keep it grounded, and officials said the government was standing firm on its refusal to pay ransom and provide a new jet to take the hijackers to Libya.

Typhoon hits Guam

AGANA, Guam — Typhoon Pamela battered this Pacific island with winds exceeding 100 miles per hour Friday, causing damage estimated at millions of dollars. Two persons were reported killed. By Saturday morning Guam time, people were peering out of their houses and beginning to assess damage. Rain continued, but winds were far below the 100 m.p.h. level that had snapped power lines, trees and a radio tower. The storm temporarily knocked out electric power and almost all communication on Guam and to other points.

Meantime, thousands of residents around Manila began returning home Friday after being stranded or forced to evacuate by Typhoon Olga. The storm took at least 19 lives Wednesday and Thursday, not including 12 persons aboard two small aircraft missing since the storm began.

Lebanon alliance

BEIRUT — Iraq, Libya and Algeria, the most militantly anti-Israeli Arab states, on Friday strengthened their foothold in Lebanon by forming an alliance with the Moslem-leftist side in the civil war. Representatives of the three Arab states met with Kamal Jumblatt, leader of the Lebanese leftists, and expressed full support for Jumblatt's forces and his Palestinian allies, the Iraqi delegate to the meeting reported. The alliance will oppose a trend to moderation by more conservative Arab states: Egypt, Jordan, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait. Meantime, Hisham Shaar, Lebanon's chief of internal security, announced that according to police figures more than 25,000 have been killed and 79,000 wounded in the 13-month-old Moslem-Christian war.

West Bank quiet

JERUSALEM — Heavily armed Israeli troops and border police Friday patrolled the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, where two days of relative quiet have followed bloody Arab riots at the start of the week. Troops in Nablus lifted a five-day-old curfew in the Casbah section of the town and removed iron gates put up to control rioters at the entrances to the ancient market place. The military governor eased security in Nablus, where a 17-year-old girl was killed during riots Sunday.

Pound hits record low

LONDON — The pound sank to an all-time closing low against the U.S. dollar Friday despite the Bank of England's effort to bolster the British currency by raising the minimum lending rate. The pound ended the day at $1.7815 in London, compared with $1.8065 Thursday. Elsewhere in Europe, the dollar declined against the Italian lira but rose against the West German mark and the Swiss and French francs.

BELFAST — One of three bombs planted on a commuter train killed a 30-year-old woman and injured 10 other persons Friday, police said. The four-pound bomb blew up the first car of a train from Bangor to Portadown at Broomhedge, 15 miles south of Belfast. A train inspector threw a knapsack containing another bomb out a train window and it exploded on the embankment at Britannic Station on the outskirts of Belfast. A third bomb was found in the railroad car's debris and defused.

No credit

BRUSSELS — The Dutch government, under strong pressure from anti-South African groups in the Netherlands, decided Friday against granting a $260-million credit guarantee to three Dutch firms taking part in a large nuclear reactor sale to Pretoria. But the government did not block Dutch participation in the deal. The companies involved, led by the Rijn-Schelde-Verolme engineering group of Rotterdam, will probably go ahead, using financial backing from private banking sources although on less favorable terms. The Dutch companies have formed a consortium with General Electric and the Swiss firm Brown-Boveri to seek the contract for two 1,000-megawatt reactors near Cape Town which will be worth about $700 million.

Agriculture guidelines

MOSCOW — The Communist Party's central committee issued guidelines Friday tightening procedures for agricultural production and distribution. The guidelines, carried by the Tass news agency, stressed production of fodders and preparedness of harvesting and transport equipment. Recent agricultural losses have led to large Soviet grain purchases from the West and to apparent shortages in a number of food items.

NBC settlement

NEW YORK — A seven-week work stoppage by 1,700 writers, technicians and other NBC employes will end Monday, according to union and company officials. A tentative agreement involving 15 separate contracts was reached last Wednesday, and the union said its members ratified 12 of the contracts Friday. The stoppage began with a strike by members of the National Association of Broadcast Employes and Technicians last April 1. It was later declared a lockout by the union when its offer to return to work during negotiations was declined by management.

Payoff data shared

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department and the Belgian High Committee of Control on Friday signed an agreement to share information in the investigation of Lockheed Aircraft Corp. payoffs in Belgium. The agreement is similar to those the department already has signed with Japan, Italy, the Netherlands, Colombia, Nigeria and Greece. It provides for a confidential exchange of information gathered by investigators in both countries.

Lawmaker who spurned life-support machines dies

Combined News Services

Rep. Torbert Macdonald, the Massachusetts Democrat who was hospitalized earlier this month and directed that his life-sustaining devices be removed, died Friday night at Bethesda, Md., Naval Hospital.

Macdonald helped shape the creation and growth of the public broadcasting system and is widely known for the anti-blackout legislation which bears his name, providing home-area telecasting of sold-out sports events.

Macdonald was first elected to Congress in 1954 from the city of Malden, a Boston suburb, where he will be buried.

Upon announcing his decision not to seek reelection, he said, "I find I can no longer come up to the standards which I have set for myself. I cannot, therefore, in good conscience, continue to serve the people of the 7th District."

Macdonald was hospitalized in serious condition on May 9. After losing, then regaining consciousness the following day, he asked that all life-support devices be removed.

An aide said that even after Macdonald underwent a "spontaneous" recovery which left him alert several days later, he still declined to be put back on the life-support machines.

TORBERT MACDONALD

To the top

Gerald Mackenzie of Claysville perched on top of the pole Thursday because he said the county was not honoring its contract with him to maintain lights at the county airport.

After about two hours, he was assured he would be paid and was persuaded to slide down. At the bottom he got a check for $1,750.

Life

Salvatore Soli was sentenced Friday in Philadelphia to life imprisonment for the Dec. 7 stabbing death of newspaper heir John S. Knight III.

Soli, 37, was convicted Thursday night of first-degree murder, robbery, burglary and criminal conspiracy. He was sentenced by Judge Robert Williams Jr. after the jury failed to reach a unanimous decision on a sentence.

A second defendant will be tried later, and a third was found slain shortly after Knight was killed.

Admiral

Retired Adm. Royal E. Ingersoll, who commanded the U.S. Atlantic Fleet during the "Battle of the Atlantic" in World War II and organized the convoys that supported the Allies, has died at the age of 92.

Ingersoll was by date of commission the senior officer of the Navy at his death Thursday in Bethesda Naval Hospital in Maryland.

Born in Washington, Ingersoll was appointed to the Naval Academy from Indiana, rising to become commander of the Atlantic Fleet on Jan. 1, 1942. In that post he directed the escort services protecting convoys against German submarines in the battle to supply arms to the Mediterranean and European theaters. He was also responsible for the defense of the Western Hemisphere.

Cadet

About 101 cadets have been accused of honor-code violations in recent weeks in a scandal over cheating on a home-study electrical-engineering course.

Ringgold and military lawyers for some of the accused cadets had asked Army Secretary Martin Hoffman to investigate charges that the academy was covering up even more widespread charges. But Hoffman refused to intervene, saying the accused cadets should take their cases to officer boards set up to hear appeals of honor-code violation convictions.

Leadbelly

A federal suit was filed Friday in Houston in behalf of the family of the late Huddie Ledbetter against Paramount Pictures Corp. seeking $16.5 million in damages over the movie "Leadbelly."

Ledbetter, songwriter and singer better known as "Leadbelly," composed "Good Night, Irene," "Midnight Special" and "Good Mornin' Blues."

The suit filed by John Ledbetter of Houston charged that the movie is false and portrayed in a "vile and rude manner which would shock the conscience." The movie caused family members in Houston and Louisiana to be ridiculed among friends and neighbors, the suit alleged.

Memoirs

The New York Times Co. has informally discussed with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger the possibility of publishing his memoirs and syndicating a column when he leaves office, a Times executive said Friday in Washington.

However, Sydney Gruson, executive vice president of the New York Times and director of subsidiaries, denied that there were active negotiations under way with Kissinger. The Chicago Daily News said Friday that the Times was negotiating for the book and column.

Sold

Former President Nixon's Key Biscayne, Fla., residence was sold Friday to an elderly New York couple who discounted any historic value in the purchase.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bittner of Southbold, Long Island, paid $320,000 for the three-bedroom, four-bath home that Nixon bought seven years ago for $125,000.

Friday's sale was the first involving the Key Biscayne "compound" homes owned by Nixon and dubbed the Florida White House while he was in office. Two other houses in the compound, not owned by Nixon, have already been sold.

Ensign

Ensign Vernon Berg III, the first Navy officer to admit publicly he is a homosexual, said Friday in Virginia Beach, Va., that the Navy Bureau of Personnel has ordered him discharged by next Friday.

Berg, a 1974 graduate of the Naval Academy, said his attorney will file suit in U.S. District Court in Washington to block the Navy from forcing Berg from the service.

He said he learned of the decision Friday from the chief of staff of 5th Naval District headquarters at nearby Norfolk. The discharge will be "less than honorable," which means either a general or dishonorable discharge.

Secret Witness tip brings murder conviction

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

A teen-ager has been convicted in Long Beach Superior Court of first-degree murder in the slaying of 37-year-old car salesman Royce Lee Outten.

Jurors in the trial of Charles Nylon Scott returned the verdict Thursday afternoon following a week's testimony in the court of Judge John A. Arguelles.

With the conviction, informant 555-QQQ in the Independent, Press-Telegram's Secret Witness program became eligible for a $2,000 reward.

It was the informant's tip which sent police to a California Avenue apartment where Scott, 19, was arrested last Jan. 29, more than a month after Outten's death.

The body of Outten was found in his home, at 1815 Henderson Ave., last Christmas Eve.

from the Coast Guard six months earlier and was working part-time at Woolpert Motors, 431 W. Pacific Coast Highway, while attending school.

He had moved into the Henderson Avenue home, directly behind the car lot, just two days before his death, Hourigan said.

Robert Head, a salesman at the car dealership, testified he went up to the front door of the house at about 11 a.m. Dec. 24 after Outten had failed to show up for work.

Peering through a window in the door, he told the court, he saw Outten's body slumped just inside. He called police.

Police Det. Terry Walton testified he found Walton dead of multiple stab wounds. The handle of a butcher knife protruded from the victim's side, he said.

The apartment appeared to have been ransacked, Walton testified. Walton also told the court that a fingerprint on a bloody surface in the home later was found to be Scott's.

Walton testified that later investigation showed the suspect had fled to central California, where he stayed through the holiday before returning to Long Beach. He remained a fugitive for three weeks before his arrest, Walton said.

Another witness, George A. Miles Jr., also an employe at the car lot, said he had seen Scott at the lot on several occasions, including Dec. 23.

Scott, Miles testified, had asked if Outten had any money, and once had approached Miles with a suggestion that they rob Outten.

The defendant took the stand to testify that he had talked with Outten on previous occasions, and on Dec. 23 had gone to the victim's house to ask for a ride home after he found himself stranded at a nearby tavern.

Scott testified that in the house, Outten made homosexual advances and, when Scott took up a knife in desperation to escape, Outten ran at him and grappled for the weapon.

It was then Outten was stabbed, according to a tape-recorded talk between police and the defendant, introduced as evidence during the trial.

The defense also called as a witness Long Beach Police Officer Darrel Gath, who testified he had arrested Outten twice in the previous year.

Both arrests occurred in a public restroom near the Pike, the officer told the court. One arrest was on charge of homosexual sex play and another was on a charge of loitering, he testified.

Jurors heard final arguments in the case Wednesday and deliberated for five-and-a-half hours Thursday before returning the first degree murder verdict.

Arguelles ordered the defendant returned to court June 10 for probation hearing and sentencing.

Special suit

My child was tested for a special education program and the results showed that he should be placed in a class for the Educable Mentally Retarded (EMR). But I can't get my child in such a class because the special education program has been tied up in a lawsuit filed by a group of people who think the tests are unfair to their children. My child needs to be in a special class and I can't afford to send him to a private school. Can Action Line look into this? J.S., Long Beach.

An injunction was issued in San Francisco prohibiting any school district in the state from placing a child in an EMR class solely on the basis of an IQ test, but this shouldn't keep your child from enrolling in such a class. In compliance with the court order, the Long Beach Unified School District is now using an adaptive behavior test instead of just an IQ exam to test children such as yours. You can arrange to have your child take this test by contacting the staff psychologist at your child's school. There currently is no waiting list for enrollment in EMR classes in Long Beach. When your child was given the IQ test in November, the court was on the verge of issuing the injunction and that's apparently why you were informed that the special education program was tied up in a lawsuit, according to a spokesman for the the school district. It's unclear why you weren't told later that an alternative testing method had been devised to comply with the court order. The lawsuit, which was filed on behalf of several black youngsters in EMR classes in San Francisco, contends that a standard IQ test is culturally biased and an inaccurate gauge of intelligence.

Notary

Any United States citizen who is a California resident and at least 18 years old may apply to be commissioned as a notary public in this state, according to Jim Randall, spokesman for the Notary Public Division of the California secretary of state's office, the agency which issues the commissions, in Sacramento. Application blanks, test and information booklets are available by mail or phone from the Secretary of State, 107 S. Broadway, Room 4001, Los Angeles, Calif. 90012, 620-3104. The exam consists of simple questions about the duties of a notary public, answers to which can be found in the information booklet. The application and test are to be returned to the secretary of state's office in Sacramento with a $6 filing fee. The office will forward the applicant's commission to him with an oath of office which is to be taken before the county clerk when he registers there. He must also file with the clerk a $5,000 bond on himself from a bonding agency. He must re-file with the secretary of state every four years. A notary public authenticates the signing of contracts and other documents.

Ruin

There is a burned-out house on St. Louis Avenue between 10th and Anaheim streets, and it has been in this deplorable state for almost a year. Why doesn't the city make the owner of this house tear it down and clean up the mess? W.S., Long Beach.

Condemnation proceedings take a long time to complete and it's not unusual for a burned-out structure to remain standing for more than a year. The Long Beach Building and Safety Department is on the verge of officially ordering the demolition of that house, which, according to a department spokesman, caught fire about six months ago. But after the demolition order is issued, the owner still can take up to a year to comply before the city will hire someone to do the work and bill the owner. Except for cases involving extreme safety hazards, the city doesn't automatically order a building demolished after a fire. "We usually have to wait for the owner to get his insurance settlement before we take any official action, and then the municipal code spells out the time period that must be allowed before we can have the building torn down if the owner refuses to comply," the spokesman said.

Preliminary hearing set June 21

Mayer arraigned in L.A.

By JOANNE NORRIS
Staff Writer

Suspended Long Beach Planning Director Ernest Mayer Jr., arrested last week on bribery charges, was ordered Friday to appear in Los Angeles Municipal Court at 8:30 a.m. June 21 for a preliminary hearing before Judge Michael Burke.

Judge Antonio Chavez set the preliminary hearing date after Mayer, 45, was arraigned in his court on two counts of soliciting and accepting more than $50,000 in bribes from two Long Beach architects.

Mayer, who is free on $25,000 bail, looked grim during the brief court appearance—his first public outing since his arrest May 14.

HE REFUSED ALL COMMENT as he and an attorney, Robert Priver, tried in vain to dodge members of the media who had gathered near a fifth-floor elevator in the Los Angeles Criminal Courts Building.

Noting the bright television lights, Mayer and his attorney took the elevator to the sixth floor—one level above the courtroom in which he was to appear—then tried to slip past the media by walking down a flight of stairs.

"This just isn't going to work," Priver said as the two returned to run the gauntlet of lights and cameras.

During the brief court appearance, Priver waived a reading of the complaint which charges Mayer with soliciting and accepting bribes from Long Beach architects James Coppedge and Claflin A. Ballance.

Both Mayer and Priver, who was appearing for Mayer's regular attorney, Gary Sawtelle, refused to answer questions as they strode from the courtroom.

The charges against Mayer stem from testimony given by Coppedge and Ballance to Los Angeles County district attorney's investigators.

The architects, who have been granted immunity from prosecution in the case, allege they paid Mayer $26,950 between December 1971 and July 1974.

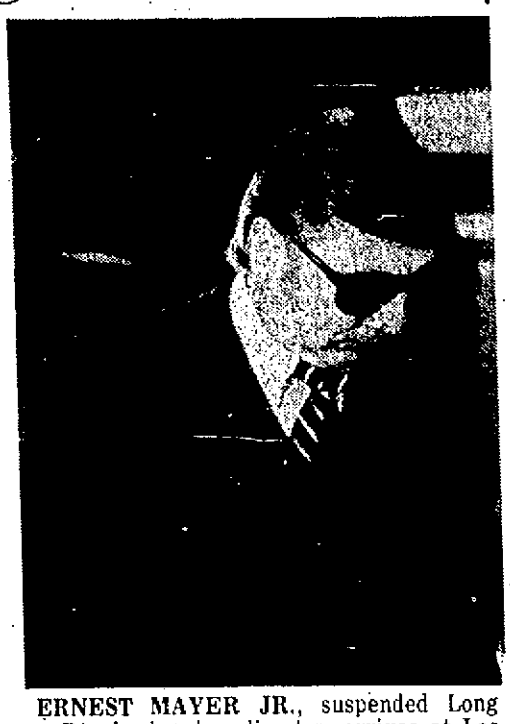

Officials have said the two men took their story to the district attorney's office last January after Mayer allegedly asked for more money.

When Mayer was arrested—climaxing a four-month investigation by the district attorney's office—he was carrying a shoe box full of Mexican 50-peso gold coins valued at $25,141.

The coins allegedly were the latest payoff in the series of bribes the architects said they made to the planning director in exchange for his help in pushing six multimillion-dollar projects through his department.

According to Dist. Atty. John Van de Kamp, Mayer's arrest has spurred at least 30 more informants into conversations with authorities concerning alleged corruption in city government.

Van de Kamp said four teams of investigators are interviewing informants and sifting through potential evidence confiscated by search warrant from Mayer's City Hall office, International Towers penthouse apartment and Marina Pacifica bachelor-party pad.

DON EASTMAN, a member of the district attorney's special investigations division, said six to 12 witnesses are expected to testify during Mayer's trial.

If convicted of the bribery charges, Mayer could be sentenced to one to 14 years in state prison and be permanently barred from holding public office.

He has held the planning director post, which currently pays $41,700 a year, since October 1968 when he was appointed to succeed Werner Ruchti, who organized the planning department and was its first director.

Mayer, who had been planning director in Newport Beach for two years before he came to Long Beach, was chosen for the post from a field of 65 applicants.

Coed insurance hit as incentive for abortion

By RON ROACH

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Forty-two coeds at Stanford University have had abortions covered by a student health plan that an official said was designed to "protect the woman who gets caught."

But some state lawmakers, led by Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose, feel that the unique Blue Cross plan sponsored by the private university is an incentive for abortions.

The Assembly on Thursday barely approved McAlister's bill that would not allow any health plan to cover abortion without providing an equal amount of maternity coverage. But a parliamentary tactic has held up the bill for perhaps another vote on Monday.

At the time, McAlister said he "assumed" the abortion-only plan was limited to married couples, but if unwed coeds are involved, "I'll do something about that, too."

Dr. James McClenahan, director of the Stanford Health Center, said single women are covered. "In fact, that's who the provision was primarily designed for. We're trying to protect the woman who gets caught."

The abortion-coverage policy, which does not provide childbirth insurance, was first issued in 1972 at the request of the Stanford Health Center's Student Advisory Committee.

Lawrence Rodriggs, a Blue Cross spokesman in Oakland, told Associated Press in a telephone interview that since 1972 there have been "40 abortions in single party contracts, and I assume most of them are single women."

There are 700 single contract policies providing abortion coverage for women at Stanford, Rodriggs said. In addition, two married students at the university underwent insured abortions, he said.

"We do have maternity benefits for unmarried people," said Blue Cross spokesman Jim Norton of San Jose, who handles the Stanford policy.

But, he said, "Stanford kids are really concerned with the dollar. Many of them, although they are from rich families, are investing their own dollars into the health plan."

He said normal birth costs $1,200 to $1,600, and abortions between $200 and $600, so the difference in policy premiums is considerable.

Norton said he had heard of an abortion health plan at one eastern university, but could not think of any others. "It is unique," said Rodriggs. "This was at the buyers' request. It is a university plan, designed by the university."

The coverage is sold on an individual basis.

"The philosophy was that it fell under the general concept of insurance," said McClenahan. "It came under the general idea that, like illness, an unwanted pregnancy is an insurable thing that was unplanned.

"We felt that if the students felt they needed it, it wasn't objectionable."

He said the policies don't also carry maternity benefits, because students felt "pregnancy was an elective event and there was no particular reason why students felt they should be covering the cost of some other student's pregnancy."

McClenahan said it is a "right-to-life issue that ought to be brought up and discussed. I don't know how you could legislate pregnancy coverage into insurance, but it's certainly a discussable issue."

McAlister said in Assembly debate on his bill that California should have a policy of "at least equal preference for life as preference for death."

He said some insurance companies oppose his bill because it would set a precedent in mandating contents of such health plans.

But Rodriggs said: "We don't really oppose the bill. We're the third party in this thing."

Stanford students wanted the aboriton coverage, he said, so Blue Cross wrote it.

McAlister's bill is AB 3133.

Berkeley senior becomes 2nd student on regents

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Daryn Peeples, a 22-year-old Berkeley senior who described her politics as "pretty liberal," was named Friday as the second student regent in University of California history.

She will succeed Carol Mock, UC's first student regent, who finishes her one-year term July 1 on the board that governs the nine-campus, 120,000-student system.

Miss Peeples, a Savannah, Ga., native, was confirmed unanimously by the board on the recommendation of a regents' committee that chose among three students nominated by student presidents.

IN another action, the regents affirmed UC's long-standing policy of generally voting its $633 million worth of corporate stock against proposals by dissident shareholders on social issues.

Despite support from UC President David Saxon and student and teacher groups, and a message from Gov. Brown calling for change, a proposal aimed at establishing a committee to advise regents on stock voting was rejected on a 10-5 vote.

Miss Peeples, an English major with a B average and an aspiring journalist, handles press relations for Berkeley's student government and belongs to committees studying campus admission and registration policies.

She said her first priority as a regent was to see that an increase in UC's registration fee next year, if needed, is "as equitable as possible for all campuses."

THE fee, now $300 a year, supports some student services. The regents are expected to consider a substantial increase in the fee next fall.

The new regent was chosen over two politically active law students, Stephen Wade of Berkeley, a former labor organizer and worker against then-Gov. Ronald Reagan's 1973 tax initiative, and Angela Blackwell of Berkeley, a writer on black women's issues.

Miss Peeples described her own political convictions as "pretty liberal" and "left-of-center to middle-of-the-road," and said she would have voted, as did Miss Mock, for a regents' advisory committee on stock voting.

That proposal came from regent William Matson Roth, author of similar proposals in past years.

"A COMMITTEE would be able to do the kind of homework the board of regents doesn't have time to do," Roth said. He said the regents' investment committee, which currently handles stock voting, has "a management bias."

But the board's conservative majority said the university should avoid taking sides on social issues, and should manage stock solely to protect the value of its investment.

Regent Edward Carter said most shareholder proposals are "irresponsible" and come from "a small handful of professional persons in the eastern section of the United States whom I regard as self-serving."

Grants logging extension

Governor vetoes extended benefits for ex-supervisors

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown has signed bills relating to a timber tax and the California Arts Council and vetoed more retirement benefits for county supervisors, his office said Friday.

The Democratic governor signed a bill stating that the Arts Council's main office must be in Sacramento. At one time the council had talked about moving to San Francisco but dropped the idea later.

That bill was by Sen. Albert Rodda, D-Sacramento.

Collier's bill gives timbermen an additional six months, through Jan. 1, when they can log under timber-harvest plans already filed last year. The cutoff date for allowing them to do so — without having to go through the same paperwork again — had been June 30 before Brown signed the bill, which goes into effect immediately.

Starting last Jan. 1, any new timber-harvest plans submitted had to meet stricter environmental requirements, and the Collier bill does nothing to affect that.

Brown also vetoed a bill by Assemblyman Richard Robinson, D-Santa Ana, which would have improved retirement benefits for county supervisors.

Brown stated in his veto message the retirement system already provided generous benefits and "the bill would far exceed the retirement benefits available to other public employes in this state."

Cal. fair-employment bill clears Assembly

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Brown administration-backed bill expanding the powers of the state's Fair Employment Pratices Commission cleared the Assembly Friday without a vote to spare.

Assemblyman Julian Dixon, a Los Angeles Democrat, said his measure was backed by Gov. Brown, but he still had a tough time scraping together his needed votes.

Assemblyman Frank Murphy, R-Santa Cruz, spoke critically about the bill, stating it had the potential to "ruin the business community."

Among other things, the bill gives the commission the power to go to court and seek an injunction to stop illegal discriminatory actions in employment and housing.

It also gives the chief of a newly created Division of Civil Rights the power to prosecute cases and shifts much of the commission's investigation authority to the new division from the commission.

A 41-26 vote sent that bill to the Senate.

Another bill affecting the commission, by Assemblyman Bill Lockyer, D-San Leandro, also was sent to the Senate. A 41-25 vote approved that bill.

Lockyer's bill attempts to attack the commission's backlog of complaints by setting deadlines when a commission accusation must be issued after a complaint has been filed.

This bill would place the commission in an appellate capacity.

Judge gives weekend off to Battin jurors

Jurors deliberating seven felony counts against Orange County Supervisor Robert Battin, were excused late Friday until Monday at 8:45 a.m.

The charges include use of his office assistants for partisan political purposes, falsifying their payroll records, misuse of county supplies and equipment, misappropriation of public funds and grand theft.

Santa Ana Superior Court Judge Kenneth Laye ordered the jurors, who began deliberations Tuesday, not to read newspaper accounts of the trial, listen to TV news, or discuss the case with their families or friends during the weekend recess.

The court has told the jurors that, regardless of whether Battin set out to defraud the taxpayers by having his office staff work on his political campaign at the 1974 primary, he would be guilty of intent if he had used his staff for such a purpose. His campaign was for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor.

Conviction could mean a prison term plus forfeiture of his office and possible disbarment as an attorney.

By TAD BARTIMUS

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Officials said Friday that the U.S. Department of the Interior has ordered an independent accounting firm to review the quality of welds on the $7 billion trans-Alaska pipeline.

Alyeska, a consortium formed by eight oil companies building the pipeline, said it will cost up to $55 million if the Interior Department orders the repair of all 1,700 welds whose quality is disputed by the builders and federal and state pipeline monitors.

Any major repair work could force a delay in completion of the pipeline project, now slated to begin operation in July 1977.

Edward L. Patton, Alyeska president, said the cost estimate includes the money needed to redo the X rays of 360 welds — the radiographs of which are now missing — if Alyeska is ordered to do so by federal officials.

Alyeska released last week a summary of its own audit which re-examined 35,600 X rays, or radiographs, of welds made so far on the 48-inch-wide pipe that eventually will carry oil 800 miles from Prudhoe Bay to Valdez.

The $4.5 million Alyeska audit revealed that 360 radiographs were missing and that cracked welds were found at 28 locations.

Alyeska says it will voluntarily repair those cracks. But a spokesman said he is "quite sure" none was located at buried river crossings.

Alyeska has not yet released the location of the 28 cracked welds, but a spokesman said he is "quite sure" none was located at buried river crossings.

Alyeska has confirmed to the Interior Department that some of its missing radiographs involve welds at river crossings. If Interior forces Alyeska to dig those welds up and take new radiographs, the pipeline completion date could be delayed, officials have said.

Interior's environmental stipulations require that all work involving pipe burial at river crossings be completed during late fall and winter, when the ground is frozen. That is to protect fish and other water life in the streams.

The Alyeska audit also revealed the pipeline builders disagree with federal and state pipeline monitors on the quality of about 1,700 of the welds already made on pipe in place.

The firm says discrepancies found in the rest of the welds "do not raise concern over the integrity" of the pipeline. According to weld specifications from the American Petroleum Institute, the disputed welds do not meet the API standards.

Alyeska said API's standards "are intended ... for judging workmanship, not criteria for metallurgical fitness and safety."

Federal stipulations governing construction of the pipeline require "radiographic inspection of all main-line girth welds." Some of the radiographs were missing, according to the Alyeska audit.

A spokesman for Interior in Washington told The Associated Press the accounting firm of Arthur Anderson has been hired by the federal government to validate Alyeska's own audit results.

"We don't know yet how much it will cost to review Alyeska's results," the Interior spokesman said. "It is now more or less open-ended, and there is no time deadline yet."

GM looks to diesels in future

DETROIT (AP) — The chairman of General Motors said Friday that the firm plans to introduce a diesel engine for its passenger cars in the 1978 model year if the federal government postpones tighter emission standards set to go into effect that year.

Thomas A. Murphy told shareholders at the firm's annual stockholders meeting that the diesel program would be precluded if standards for emissions of oxides of nitrogen are lowered.

MURPHY previously has said GM is developing a light duty diesel engine for use in trucks and passenger cars, but he did not say when the new power plant would be introduced.

The engine is being developed by the firm's Oldsmobile Division. GM is believed to be planning production of 80,000-100,000 of the engines in the first year for the mid-size Olds Cutlass and Chevrolet and GMC light trucks.

The main advantage of the engine is an improvement in fuel economy over the conventional gasoline-powered engine. However, the diesel has disadvantages that include higher cost, increased exhaust emissions, noise and odor.

Murphy said GM is working to overcome those disadvantages.

NO AMERICAN car manufacturer now sells a passenger car diesel in this country, although two foreign makers — Mercedes-Benz and Peugeot — are selling cars in this country with diesel engines.

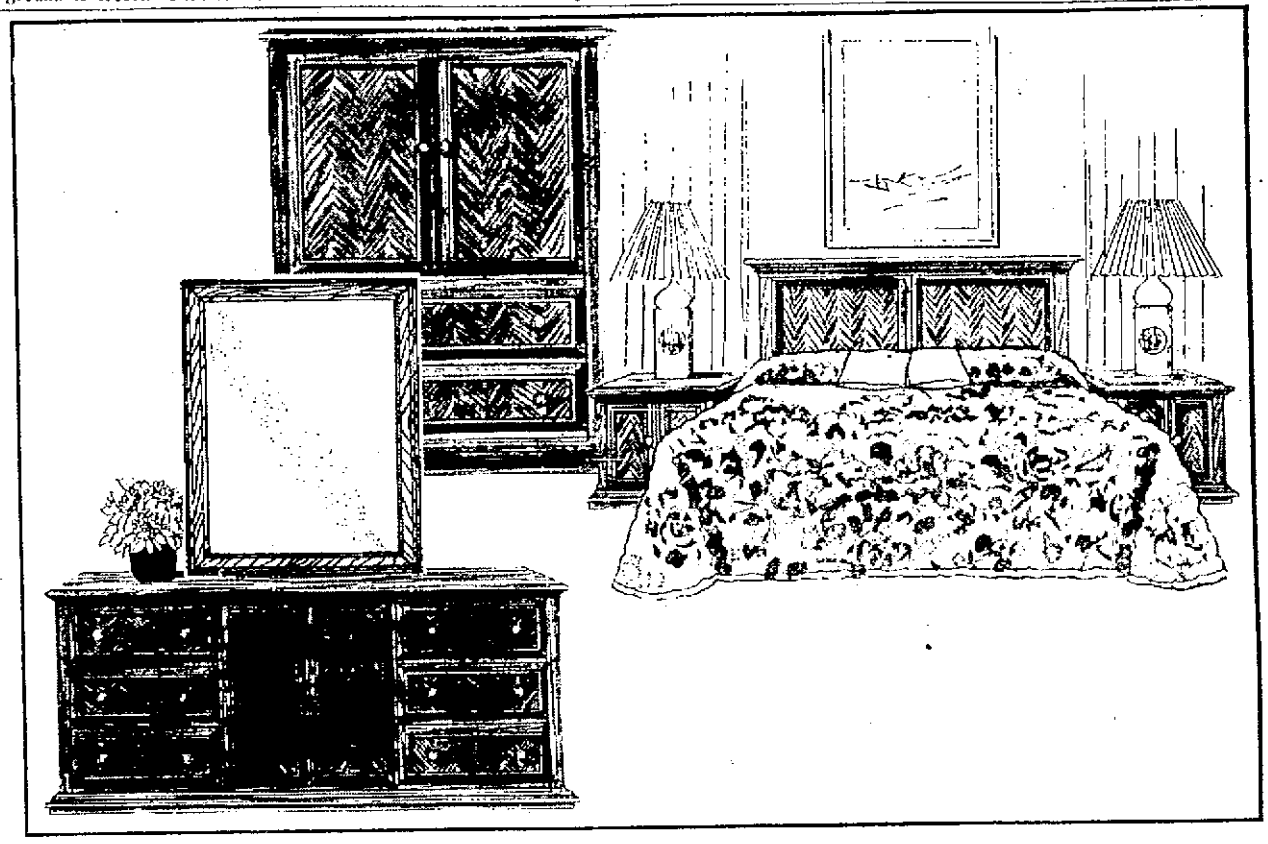

Current antipollution standards require that cars emit no more than 3.1 grams nitrogen oxides per mile. Beginning with 1977 models, the standard falls to two grams per mile and it would drop to .4 gram per mile under standards set for the 1978 model year.

Murphy also predicted that new car and truck sales in the 1977 model year could total 14.5 million units, the second best year in industry history. Car and truck sales, including imports, were a record 14.9 million during the 1973 model year.

Only 'passive' on wiretaps, Kissinger says

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says he played only a "passive role" in the wiretapping of a national-security aide and that authority for the action was in the hands of the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

In a sworn deposition made public Friday, Kissinger insisted that at a 1969 meeting with former President Nixon, Hoover and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, "the whole (wiretapping) program was approved, including that the authority was given to Mr. Hoover, not to me. . .to tap those people that had been mentioned."

THE deposition was made in connection with a suit brought by former national-security aide Morton Halperin, whose telephone was tapped for 21 months as part of an administration effort to discover the source of leaks of classified information.

Halperin was closely associated with Kissinger and came to the administration at the same time Kissinger joined it as Nixon's national-security adviser.

Kissinger's statement differs somewhat from that of Nixon, who said in an earlier deposition:

"I of course did not select the names myself because I did not know (the individuals). I told Dr. Kissinger that he should inform Mr. Hoover of any names that he considered prime suspects.

"THAT was Dr. Kissinger's responsibility. It was his responsibility not to control the program but solely to furnish the information to Mr. Hoover. Mr. Hoover then was to take it from there."

Halperin was one of 17 persons, including four newsmen, whose phone was tapped under the surveillance program which began May 10, 1969, a day after the New York Times disclosed the bombing of Cambodia.

Several other suits have been filed as a result of the wiretaps, all asking monetary damages. If Halperin wins the case, which may come to trial this year, he could receive a maximum of $3 million in damages.

In the deposition given to Halperin's lawyers, Kissinger said he had been urged by several people in the administration not to hire Halperin. Kissinger said none of the security questions that had been raised created any question in Kissinger's mind as to Halperin's discretion or to his ability to keep confidences.

KISSINGER said the meeting with Nixon, Hoover and Mitchell was on April 25, 1969.

At a news conference, Halperin said research of White House and FBI records shows no evidence of an April 25, 1969, meeting among Hoover, Mitchell, Kissinger and Nixon. Halperin said he concluded from Kissinger's deposition that "it was Mr. Kissinger and not Mr. Hoover

Kissinger was asked if it was his understanding that Hoover could start the taps on four people whose names were discussed at the meeting, including Halperin's, "without any further instruction or signal from anyone, if he decided it was necessary."

SAID Kissinger: "My understanding at the time was that this would be a procedure that would go into effect when there was another request for a security investigation — for an investigation of news leaks. My impression was that he substantially had the authority once the investigation started."

"Who would have to request such an investigation to trigger these four taps?" he was asked.

"The investigation would be triggered by a news leak of a kind that had been identified by the president as constituting a national security problem," Kissinger answered. He was asked:

"Was Mr. Hoover to decide when a leak was of that character?"

". . .I don't know if that question ever was decided," Kissinger replied. "The fact of the matter was that on May 9 such a leak occurred, and I was asked by the president to call Mr. Hoover to start an investigation, and that is what appears to have started the whole process."

AT THE time of the Cambodian-bombing leak Halperin was identified to Kissinger as a possible source, and Kissinger said in the deposition that Halperin had been a college roommate of William Beecher, who wrote the Times article.

In a memorandum, Hoover said Kissinger told him that "he hoped I would follow it up as far as we can take it, and they will destroy whoever did this."

Kissinger said he did not recall using that expression but that "it is possible that I used it."

Kissinger also said he did not think that turning off the wiretaps was the responsibility of his office. Mitchell, in a deposition, said that "Dr. Kissinger, having initiated the taps, that it would be his determination as to when they came off."

But Kissinger said that wasn't so and that it was "incompatible with the facts in the sense that I now know there were people being tapped about whom no reports were ever sent to my office."

U.S. 'vitality, confidence' impress French president

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Praising America for its vitality and confidence, French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing ended his Bicentennial tour Friday urging the United States to live up to its responsibilities as the world's foremost democracy.

D'Estaing, who will return to France today on the Concorde supersonic jetliner, said the strongest impression of his six-day journey is of America's "vitality in overcoming the political, institutional and moral crises which divided" the country.

"Doubt had been cast on the (United States') strength and degree of commitment," he said. "Indeed, the strongest impression I will take back from what I have seen and heard from this visit is one of confidence. You showed amazing vitality."

SPEAKING AT a luncheon in the Louisiana Superdome, d'Estaing said the United States must now live up to its role as the leader of the world's democratic nations.

"You are now emerging from the most serious economic upheaval the world has known since the great depression of 1929," he said. "Ultimately the foundations of American power ... were not shaken.

"You are starting your third century of existence as a nation, with all the means necessary not only to preserve your way of life, but also to shape the destiny of the world."

D'Estaing's overnight stop in New Orleans ended his American tour, which began Monday in Washington. He spent Thursday night in Houston and then stopped at Lafayette, La., Friday, on his way to New Orleans.

THE BRIEF appearance in Lafayette threw the spotlight on the French-speaking Acadians of south Louisiania, whom d'Estaing congratulated for holding to their French heritage, including the French language.

His remarks to the 6,000 persons were all in French, and he was made an honorary Acadian, or Cajun.

Giscard's speech in New Orleans was serious, addressed to the importance of the United States in world peace.

"Your contribution becomes irreplacable," he said, urging the United States to have confidence in its allies and not fear their freedom.

OUT OF SUCH solidarity, he said, must come security to vanquish the specter of another world war, to restore international economic and monetary order, and to pursue with the developing countries a dialogue to prevent conflict.

"I leave New Orleans with the conviction that we are capable of meeting all the political, economic and social challenges of the modern world if we keep our principles of freedom intact," he said.

Nevada doubts riches in that thar mine

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — The state is questioning a statement by a Nevada mining firm that a claim it holds could yield $2.5 billion in gold.

Buster Sewell, chief of the securities division in the Secretary of State's office, said Friday "the chances of a claim of this size are remote."

Sewell said he checked "with other state and federal agencies and they have the same opinion" of the statement by R. T. Schindler and Associates, Inc.

R. T. Schlindler said at a news conference Wednesday in Los Angeles that a 3,368-acre claim near Goldfield had the potential gold yield, plus a possible yield of $700 million worth of silver.

Goldfield was a major mining area at the turn of the century "but it's been dead for a long time," Sewell said.

He added that the entire gold production in Nevada in 1975 amounted to $53 million.

Oswald 'may have had help in plot'

By AL EISELE
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON—The ranking member of a special Senate committee that conducted a 15-month investigation of the U.S. intelligence community said Friday that the committee uncovered evidence that could show Lee Harvey Oswald did not act alone when he killed President Kennedy.

Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., said the panel was not able to fully explore some previously undisclosed evidence regarding Kennedy's assassination in November, 1963 in Dallas.

Mondale, who turned down a seat on the new 15-member permanent intelligence oversight committee to be headed by Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, said the recently disbanded Senate Select Committee on Intelligence found that the FBI and CIA failed to cooperate fully with the Warren Commission that investigated Kennedy's death.

"THE record will show that the CIA and FBI were quite deficient in being candid and forthcoming with our committee," Mondale said.

He added, "Based on what we now know, there is nothing to shake the conclusion (of the Warren Commission) that Oswald fired the shot that killed Kennedy, but the question of why he did and whether he was cooperating with others—that was not pursued in any kind of full way."

Mondale said there are "leads that have to be followed" by the permanent committee that "could conceivably" show that Oswald had help in planning and carrying out Kennedy's assassination.

Mondale, who disclosed last week that his committee had learned of an FBI file concerning possible assassination attempts against Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, said he understands that file has been delivered by the Justice Department to the permanent committee.

Mondale emphasized that there isn't any evidence that the FBI or CIA were directly or indirectly involved in plots to assassinate Castro, but he suggested during an appearance on the CBS television show "Face the Nation" that those attempts may have been linked to the Kennedy assassination.

RFK linked with kill-Castro panel

DETROIT (AP) — Robert F. Kennedy apparently was the key member of a secret Kennedy administration team measuring the impact on Cuba of an assassination of Fidel Castro, the Detroit News reported Friday.

"U.S. Senate probers ... accidentally have uncovered the existence of a supersecret team of top Kennedy administration officials whose mission was to measure the impact" of an assassination of the Cuban dictator, the newspaper said.

In a copyright story written by Seth Kantor of its Washington bureau, the News said knowledgeable government sources disclosed that Robert Kennedy was the key member of the team, which was assembled before President John F. Kennedy was shot in 1963.

"EXISTENCE of the clandestine Kennedy committee was unearthed two weeks ago by probers of the Senate's so-called Kennedy assassination panel, headed jointly by Sens. Gary W. Hart, D-Colo., and Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa.," the paper said.

The News said it had learned that the Hart-Schweiker committee met behind closed doors Friday to sift through information on the Cuba-related policy group known as the "Interdepartmental Coordinating Committee."

The newspaper said its sources disclosed that several federal agencies, including the Central Intelligence Agency, FBI and defense intelligence operatives at the highest levels were involved in the covert Kennedy committee.

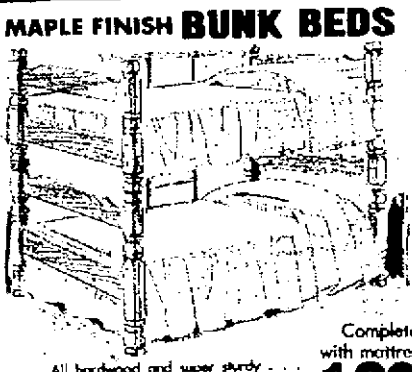

For the past seven months, the News said, the Hart-Schweiker panel has been searching for signs of influence by domestic and foreign intelligence forces on the actions of Lee Harvey Oswald, the man identified by the Warren Commission as President Kennedy's slayer.

THE NEWS said the Hart-Schweiker committee will report next Wednesday on their findings to members of the parent Senate Intelligence Committee, chaired by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

The Church committee is expected to make public most of the report by the end of next week, the newspaper said, adding that some aspects of the report — including details of the Interdepartmental Coordinating Committee — are expected to be withheld from the public.

The details will be furnished instead to the permanent Senate intelligence watchdog committee set up this week.

French troops to Lebanon possible

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing told foreign newsmen Friday that France is willing to send peace-keeping soldiers to Lebanon within 48 hours if Lebanon asks.

He said he discussed the plan with U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and with the Syrian government, which has troops in Lebanon now. He said Syria said it would favor the plan.

The U.S. State Department in Washington had no comment on the report.

Giscard d'Estaing said the French troops are on standby and could be called within 48 hours.

THE remarks were reported by newsmen who talked informally with Giscard d'Estaing in French at a reception for the foreign reporters who traveled with him on his bicentennial tour of the United States.

The president called the reporters into his suite in a New Orleans hotel on the last night of the week-long tour. He excluded all local reporters.

Asked about it later, several foreign reporters quoted Giscard d'Estaing as saying France was willing to send several regiments of French soldiers to Lebanon.

However, he specified that the troops would go only if Lebanon's president-elect Elias Sarkis requested them after his installation.

HE ALSO was quoted as saying it would be necessary for France to have a formal agreement with Syria before the troops could go.

April rise in food cost 'not out of line'

By R. GREGORY NOKES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail food prices went up in April for the first time this year, pushing over-all consumer prices up four-tenths of one per cent, which was double the consumer prices increase in March, the government said Friday.

However, the behavior of prices so far in 1976 remains well within the government's forecast for the year of a six per cent inflation rate and a two to five per cent rise in food prices.

Consumers had to pay more in April for fresh fruits and vegetables, coffee, pork, poultry and dairy products as retail food prices rose six-tenths of one per cent. Food prices had declined during the first three months of 1976 by a total of two per cent.

PRICES OF commodities other than food rose three-tenths of one per cent, the same as in March, while prices of services rose five-tenths of one per cent, the smallest increase in eight months.

On the negative side, the Labor Department said the buying power of workers' paychecks declined by nine-tenths of one per cent in April, the biggest drop since November of 1974, when purchasing power fell 1.1 per cent during the depth of the recession.

It blamed the decline on inflation and a decrease in hours worked, coupled with no change in hourly earnings.

Workers' real spendable earnings still were 3.8 per cent above a year earlier, but a continuation of the loss of buying power could slow the surge in consumer buying that has been the major factor in the nation's recovery from recession.

But Alan Greenspan, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said the April decline in earnings resulted from the fact that the statistics were gathered during Easter week, when total working hours are usually less than normal.

"It's a phony decline ... it wasn't representative," he said.

THE LABOR Department said its Consumer Price Index for April stood at 168.2, meaning that goods that cost $100 in 1967 were priced at 168.20 last month.

President Ford welcomed the April price report, saying that while prices rose more than in March, "it does show the rate of inflation on a downward trend."

Combined with Thursday's report that economic output increased at an annual rate of 8.5 per cent in the first quarter of the year, the price report "is extra good news," Ford told reporters.

"It shows economic activity in moving faster than we anticipated," he said.

PRICES DURING the 12-month period ending in April increased 6.1 per cent, a big improvement over the 12-month increase a year earlier of 10.2 per cent.

Prices increased only two-tenths of one per cent in March, one-tenth in February and four-tenths in January, the same as April, for an over-all increase in prices so far in 1976 of 1.1 per cent.

The annual rate of increase in the past three months was 2.9 per cent.

However, government economists have said all along the rate of inflation cannot continue at such low levels. They say the basic rate of inflation in the economy is probably about six per cent and they predict price reports during the remainder of the year will reflect that rate.

ECONOMISTS consider price behavior of commodities other than food as being more significant in the long run, since food prices are considered especially volatile. The annual rate of increase in non-food commodities so far in 1976 has been near four per cent.

The Labor Department had a mixed report on fuels prices in April, with gasoline and motor oil falling nine-tenths of one per cent, the fifth consecutive month of decline, while fuel oil and coal prices rose three-tenths of one per cent, the first increase in six months.

Among services, the cost of medical care rose seven-tenths of one per cent, somewhat below the average monthly increase of about 1.1 per cent that had prevailed since November.

ALTHOUGH many food prices increased, the price of beef declined again, by six-tenths of one per cent. Grocery store food prices were up seven-tenths of one per cent, and restaurant meals rose three-tenths.

Prices of apparel and household goods rose two-tenths and three-tenths per cent, respectively, about the same as in recent months.

The price changes were adjusted for seasonal variations.

Increasing transportation and health care costs were blamed in part for a rise of one-tenth of a per cent in the Consumer Price Index for April in the Long Beach-Los Angeles area.

The area index stood at 164.1 in April, an increase of 5.5 per cent over the same month last year.

The increase was the smallest in a 12-month period since July,1973, when the increase was 5.2 per cent.

Senate trims gas tax credit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee approved a $10 billion package of tax breaks for business Friday and voted to take away most of the individual deduction for state gasoline taxes.

In the name of simplifying income tax returns, the panel agreed unanimously to allow a person to deduct only that amount of state and local gasoline taxes above $50 a year. The average deduction is about $75.

This would save the Treasury up to $400 million a year but result in slightly higher income taxes for the estimated 20 million taxpayers who claim the gasoline-tax deduction.

"They tell me it's absolutely impossible to keep people from cheating on" the gasoline deduction, said Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the committee chairman. "This is one of the ideal areas to chisel on taxes."

BUT THIS main argument in suggesting repeal or a cutback in the deduction was that it would take away one incentive that taxpayers now have for itemizing deductions. Removing that incentive would make the standard deduction — which is much simpler for the Treasury and taxpayers to deal with — more attractive, Long said.

Between 60 and 70 per cent of taxpayers already use the standard deduction, meaning that they get no benefit from the gasoline-tax break.

In other action affecting individual taxpayers, the committee voted to accept a House-passed provision that would repeal the complex tax exclusion for sick pay and replace it with a $100-a-week exclusion for persons under 65 who have retired with total disability.

ALSO, THE panel slightly liberalized existing tax breaks for workers who claim a deduction when they move from one area to another to take a new job.

The bulk of the tax break for business was in the committee's vote to make permanent the current investment tax credit.

Under that provision, which will cost the Treasury $9.5 billion in 1977, a business can avoid taxation on 10 per cent of the money used to purchase new equipment.

Near average per capita income

College costs reach new high

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press

The school season is ending, but families with children enrolled in or headed for college will find no vacation from rising costs.

The College Entrance Examination Board reported that a student who attends a four-year private college and lives on campus will have to spend an average of $4,568 next year. That's higher than the per capita 1975 personal income in five states, and it isn't too far below the $5,834 average per capita 1975 income for the whole country.

The cost of sending a student to a four-year private college and paying his or her living expenses on campus has risen 6 per cent from 1975 to 1976, according a board survey of 2,500 colleges.

COSTS DURING the 1976 academic year will be 54 per cent more than they were during the 1970 academic year. From 1970 until March of this year, the Consumer Price Index went up 44 per cent.

There are many ways of lessening the bite on the family budget, according to the college board, which is a nonprofit, membership organization that provides tests and other services for students and educational institutions.

—Private, two-year colleges, for example, cost about $400 to $500 less per year than their four-year counterparts.

—Public, four-year colleges are $1,700 to $2,200 less a year than private institutions, although students who are not residents of the state where the college is located may find out-of-state charges can cut savings considerably.

—Tuition and fees generally account for most of the cost differential among different types of schools. For example, tuition and fees will average $621 at a public four-year college next year, compared to $2,329 for a private school. The difference in other costs — living expenses, etc. — is less than $200.

—Don't ignore the possibility of financial aid even if you think your family income is too high to qualify. Other factors in addition to income must be taken into account. These include the number of children in a family, outstanding debts, etc.

The College Board Scholarship Service offers a free pamphlet to help you figure out what sorts of financial aid are available and whether you qualify. The pamphlet, "Meeting College Costs," is available by writing College Board Publication Orders, Box 2815, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

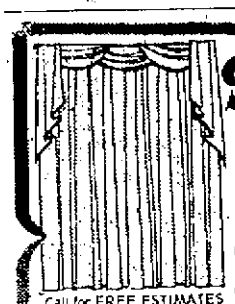

NO MATTER what type of school you are considering, it helps to have a detailed expense budget. The college board lists five categories to be included in any student budget: tuition and fees, books and supplies, room and board, personal expenses and transportation.

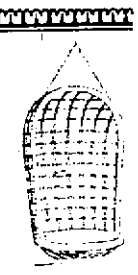

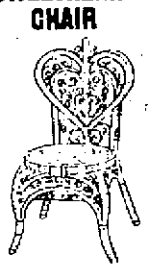

The tuition and fees section of the budget is relatively easy to figure out. Simply ask the university or college you are considering. Remember: most schools figure these costs on a nine-month basis; summer sessions will add to the budget.

Books and supplies will cost about the same no matter what type of college you attend, according to the college board, although some curricula such as art and engineering require more expensive items. A board survey showed costs for books and supplies will range between $177 and $213 during the next academic year.

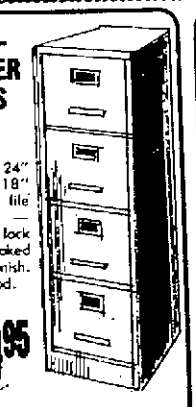

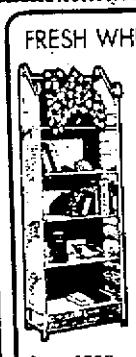

THE ROOM and board portion of a student expense budget offers a chance for economizing. Living at home is the cheapest option, the college board reported. "But families should remember that they will still need to buy food for the student and to pay for other normal living expenses," the board said.

Commuting students also probably will have to pay for some meals on campus. The board survey showed that a student who attends a four-year private college this fall can expect to spend $1,371 for room and board on campus; $1,487 for the same items off campus; and $840 as a commuter.

Rumsfeld hits Senate delay of B1 bomber

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld said Friday the Senate's vote to block production of the B1 bomber until next February could endanger the nation's strategic nuclear balance and won't be tolerated by the American public.

The Senate Thursday voted 44 to 37 to postpone a decision on whether to produce the controversial bomber until after the next president is inaugurated.

The House had voted in April 210 to 170 in favor of beginning production of the B1, which Rumsfeld described as the logical successor to the B52 bomber.

Rumsfeld told a group of Tennessee reporters that having manned bombers with nuclear weapons on board is an important facet of the nation's strategic defenses. The B52s which now perform this function are getting old and need to be replaced with the B1, he said.

In voting to block production of the new bomber, the Senate put in jeopardy "the strategic nuclear balance — a critical balance — something the American people are not going to let the Congress trim on," Rumsfeld said.

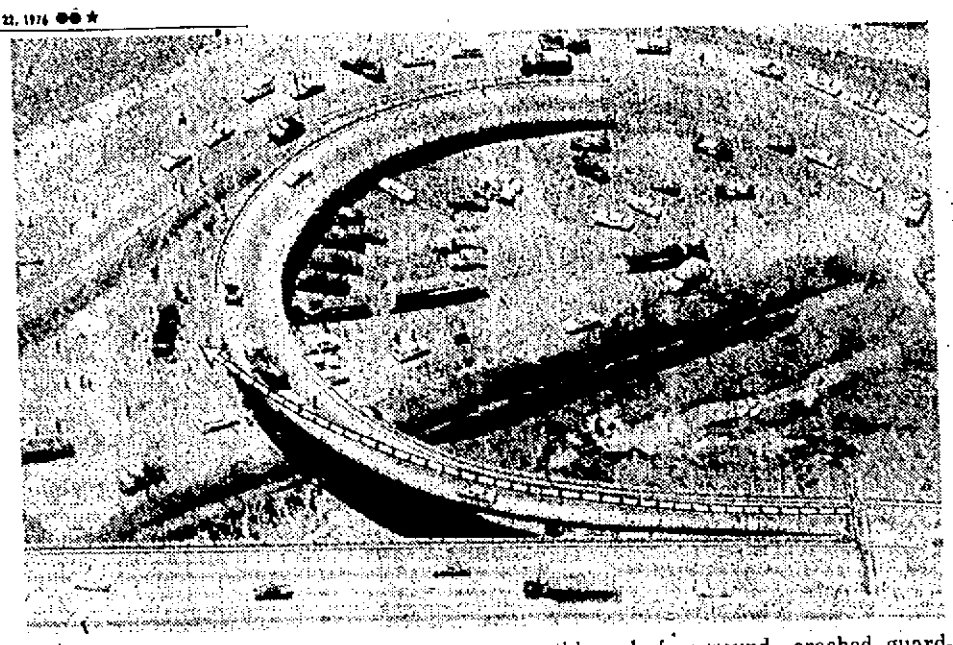

He said he was optimistic that a House-Senate conference committee would agree to go ahead with production of a fleet of 244 of the aircraft, at a cost of $22 billion, as the House had decided.

Rumsfeld predicted that there would be an outpouring of public reaction against the Senate decision, which he said he believed would influence Congress to reject the approach taken by the Senate.

"The American public ... will help us find our way to the right decision," Rumsfeld added.

Air Force Secretary Thomas C. Reed said Friday that U.S. Senate postponement of funds for the B1 bomber will add another $492 million to the cost of the project because of inflation.

Reed said it was wasteful to "turn the program off and then turn it back on." He said the project should have been funded now, and then let Congress and the President reassess the decision next year.

SCHOOL BUS CRASH KILLS 28

ers lost their lives when a farm bus was struck by a train near Salinas, according to police records.

IT TOOK TWO CRANES to turn over the school bus Friday. Debris from the bus and personal belongings were piled nearby.

"We have trains that come by and bump each other when they connect and make a loud noise," said Karla Ackerman, 22, who lives near the fatal roadway. "That's exactly what it sounded like when the bus hit."

Rescue workers were at the scene within minutes, cutting through the jagged wreckage to reach the trapped victims. The dead were wrapped in white sheets and brightly colored tarpaulins and placed on the blood-stained ground where the bus came to rest. Several Roman Catholic priests administered last rites.

"It looked like a battlefield," said one of the priests, the Rev. Thomas Hayes. "The victims all were wearing casual attire and looked like they were on an outing — it was tragic."

"My daughter is one of them," sobbed one father. "I think she's dead. She was only 16 years old."

"Everybody was in critical condition," said Mary Dunten, information officer for Contra Costa County. "The bus was crushed so much that there wasn't anyone uninjured."

State School Supt. Wilson Riles said: "I am deeply grieved by this tragic occurrence, and my heart goes out to the parents of these young people. California is a sad place today."

Rescue officials said they believed the bus was carrying 53 persons, including the driver and the wife of the faculty adviser to the Yuba City High School choir. But they said two or three students may have decided at the last minute not to make the trip — placing the total number of passengers in question

IN ADDITION TO those on the 26-year-old yellow bus, another student and the group's adviser were reported to be traveling in a car. The adviser, choral director Dean Estabrook, went into shock at the sight of the disaster, police said.

The driver of the chartered bus was Evans Prothero, 49, according to an official of Student Transportation Lines in Marysville, a neighboring community to Yuba City in the fertile farmland north of Sacramento. He was in semi-critical condition with a lacerated back and liver at Veterans Administration Hospital after undergoing surgery.

The bus-line official, Herb Brown, said the bus had been inspected by the Highway Patrol within the past 30 days. Its rear tires were recaps, he said, but the front tires were not, in accordance with state law.

But a CHP official said the bus was last inspected on May 12, 1975. A minor defect — loose seat fasteners — was found and corrected, said Inspector Edward Jelich.

One student survivor said the bus was making the fatal turnoff for a rest stop, and a teacher in another car said the bus driver intended to stop at a service station for oil.

The accident occurred shortly before noon on a sunny day as the bus made its way off U.S. 680 onto the Marina Vista off-ramp on the south end of the Martinez-Benicia Bridge. The group was headed for Miramonte High School in Orinda, where the choir was to sing as part of a choral exchange program.

In Sacramento, the Legislature fell silent when Assemblyman Gee Chappie, who represents Yuba City, announced the deaths. The Assembly then was adjourned for the day.

Navy to unveil terror torpedo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sometime this year, the Navy will introduce into its arsenal an exotic weapon even Jules Verne never imagined.

Called Captor, the weapon is designed to strike fear into the hearts of enemy submarine captains.

Captor can be dropped into the ocean from an airplane or eased in from a ship or submarine, according to Navy spokesmen.

It consists of a heavy lead plate, a thick wire, a floating cylinder and a torpedo capable of chasing down the sound of an enemy sub.

The lead plate sits on the ocean bottom, the wire running to the cylinder floating above. The torpedo rests inside the cylinder waiting silently for a passing enemy sub.

When the submarine gets close enough, the torpedo bursts from its hiding place, triggered and directed by the sound of the target vessel's engines. If it misses, the torpedo will travel only so far, then change direction in hopes of getting a second shot at the submarine.

Knowledgeable Pentagon sources said the torpedo can discriminate between enemy and friendly submarines.

Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld was asked Friday if Captor could carry a nuclear warhead.

"I know of no one's interest at this time to make it have a nuclear capability," he said. "I would be reluctant to say it won't ever have such a capability.

"Many weapons are being converted to dual capabilities — both nuclear and non-nuclear. But I do not believe it is the case with this weapon."

A Navy spokesman said there is no intention to install nuclear warheads in Captor, and current treaties which the United States has signed would prevent the use of nuclear weapons on the ocean bottom.

Contracts for production of 130 Captors were first awarded this year to Goodyear Aerospace Co. at a cost of $20 million. They are to be distributed to various Navy installations, but none are to be emplaced.

Another 480 Captors are to be produced by next summer at a cost of $60 million.

Captor carries a Mark 46 torpedo, but the Navy also has another exotic undersea weapon called the Mark 48. It is controlled from a submarine by wires much like the TOW wire-guided anti-tank missile used so successfully during the 1973 Middle East War.

CAMPAIGN

situation should be re-examined."

He also said he has narrowed to several persons his choice to fill a long-time vacancy on the TVA board.

Ford's campaign manager, Rogers C.B. Morton, predicted "major political fallout" from Reagan's statement that selling TVA to private industry "would be something to look at."

"I believe Mr. Reagan's statements will be weighed carefully next Tuesday by thousands of voters in Kentucky and Tennessee who depend on TVA for jobs and lower power rates," Morton said.

He said Ford emphasized his full support for TVA in the interview with Tennessee newsmen, saying, "I think it's been a very, very important energy producer in that great part of our country and I believe it's continuing to perform a very important responsibility."

Ford said Tennessee Sens. Howard Baker and Bill Brock are on his list of possible vice-presidential choices, as were former Secretary of the Treasury John Connally and Massachusetts Sen. Edward Brooke.

But he said Reagan was not on his list, noting that his opponent has said he does not want the job.

Forty-three GOP delegates will be chosen in Tennessee's primary. The four other states with primaries that day are Idaho, Oregon, Nevada and Arkansas. A total of 176 Republican delegates will be chosen in the six elections. Reagan had 528 delegates going into the election and Ford had 479; 1,130 are needed for the nomination.

On the Democratic side, front-runner Jimmy Carter was in Oregon, where his chief opponent in that state, Idaho Sen. Frank Church, was also campaigning. California Gov. Brown was in Nevada, where he is regarded as Carter's strongest challenger.

Alabama Gov. George Wallace was at home, and Arizona's Rep. Morris Udall campaigned in Tennessee and Arkansas.

Church, in Oregon, took swipes both at Brown and the President. Noting Brown's full write-in campaign here, he said he does not think there is enough money in California to buy the Oregon election. But then he added: "Perhaps we're seeing that put to the test."

Of Ford, he said, "We have as President an honest man who replaced a corrupt one. That, in effect, is not sufficient."

There were also these political developments Thursday:

—Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts said through a spokesman that he has not changed his position on the Democratic nomination. He commented in response to a story in the New York Daily News that he was ready to accept a draft. He has said in the past he would not do so.

—New York's Mayor Abraham Beame offered a judgment that the presidential campaign was too far afield from Americans' concerns, one of which he feels is urban problems.

"Frankly, I'm more concerned about detente between New York and Washington than between Washington and Moscow," he said.

several hours after the Senate vote.

—A meeting of the new commission less than an hour later to formally certify matching-fund applications which had been processed by the FEC staff while action on a new election law was completed.

—Issuance of checks by the Treasury Department, which usually takes two days to actually make the money available, but on this occasion, had checks prepared even before the formal FEC certification.

President Ford, who opposed some provisions of the new election law and declined an opportunity earlier this week to get the money flowing again, was the biggest recipient: $1.3 million.

In addition to the $3.2 million for nine candidates, the Republican and Democratic parties each received $500,000 for their national nominating conventions.

The swearing-in of the commissioners ended a period of confusion in the election law which began Jan. 30, when the Supreme Court ruled that the FEC members were unconstitutionally appointed.

THE COURT granted two delays so Congress could rewrite the law without interrupting the flow of matching funds, but the legislation lagged due to various disputes and the court quit granting delays.

Through March 22, the FEC had certified $12.6 million in matching funds under a program financed by the $1 taxpayer check-off on income tax returns.

Candidates, after passing a $100,000 threshold, can receive dollar-for-dollar federal matching for private contributions of up to $250 each.

THE AMOUNTS each campaign received Friday were:

Ford, $1,330,786; Ronald Reagan, $509,217; Jimmy Carter, $437,429; Henry Jackson, $316,676; Morris Udall, $312,258; Frank Church, $120,972; Fred Harris, $120,524; Ellen McCormack, $42,620; Milton Shapp, $19,301.

Ex-coroner's aide killed in crash

A former Los Angeles County coroner's office official was killed Friday evening when a truck was forced into his car at a Santa Fe Springs intersection.

Sheriff's deputies said Raoul Holquin, 50, former head of staff services in the coroner's office, died of massive head injuries at 6:30 p.m. in Whittier Presbyterian Hospital.

Deputies said Holquin's car was westbound on Telegraph Road at Norwalk Boulevard at about 6 p.m. when it was struck by an eastbound truck.

The truck driver, Benjamin McCuneo, 48, of La Puente, told investigators he was forced across the road into Holquin's car when another auto cut him off.

Holquin's car spun on impact and rammed into a power pole, deputies said.

Investigators said they were searching for the driver of the car which forced McCuneo across the road. McCuneo was not cited or held pending further investigation. He was not injured.

Fuel spill blocks Alameda

Alameda Street in Carson was closed to traffic for nearly three hours Friday night after a tank truck overturned and spilled gasoline on the street at the offramp from the San Diego Freeway.

Sheriff's deputies said the truck, owned by United Tank Lines of Pomona, overturned as it came down the offramp to turn south onto Alameda at about 7:30 p.m.

About 100 of the 3,000 gallons of fuel spilled down Alameda Street. County firemen covered the spilled fuel with soil.

DENNIS WATSON WAVES GOOD-BYE AS HE IS CARRIED OFF JAPANESE SHIP IN LONG BEACH

Fractured leg breaks up his Pacific voyage

He broke his left leg aboard a barge about 800 miles off Long Beach and had to be taken aboard the Japanese training ship Nippon Maru.

The 29-year-old Englishman was carried off the sailing ship Thursday, after she docked in Long Beach, and taken to San Pedro Peninsula Hospital.

He fell about eight feet on his left leg, producing a compound fracture.

"I didn't feel a thing," he said.

He was taken aboard the sailing vessel, and an inflatable splint was placed around his leg.

The Nippon Maru crew treated him "really well," he said, and "tried to make me feel at home."

"Everybody was really friendly," he said, and he was given books, Japanese silk, and a painting of the Nippon Maru.

Watson expects to be in the hospital for more than a month and admits to being "very anxious about my leg. This is the first time I've ever broken a bone."

Watson is employed by a London-based firm engaged by an Indonesian company, which in turn was engaged by Atlantic Richfield, Indonesia.

Doctors' malpractice plan tied to L.B.

A new, statewide, doctor-owned medical malpractice insurance program—with headquarters in Westwood and general claims office in Long Beach—has been formed in an effort to provide an alternative to legislative solutions for the problem.

Stanley Rose, president of Physicians and Surgeons Underwriters Corp., manager of Physicians and Surgeons Insurance Exchange of California, said Friday the company anticipates approval of its state license shortly and "we already have a backlog of nearly 300 doctors anxious to join our program."

The nonprofit exchange will be owned by the physicians and surgeons who hold policies with it, Rose said. It will offer professional liability-medical malpractice insurance with policy limits of $1 million per claim and $3 million in annual total claims.

Rose said that the company already has reached agreement with a London-based firm to underwrite three-quarters of each million dollars lost in claims. Physicians and Surgeons would be responsible for the first $250,000 lost on any given claim.

Rose said that Long Beach attorney Donald B. Caffray will be a member of the compay's board of directors and will direct the operation of the Long Beach claims office.

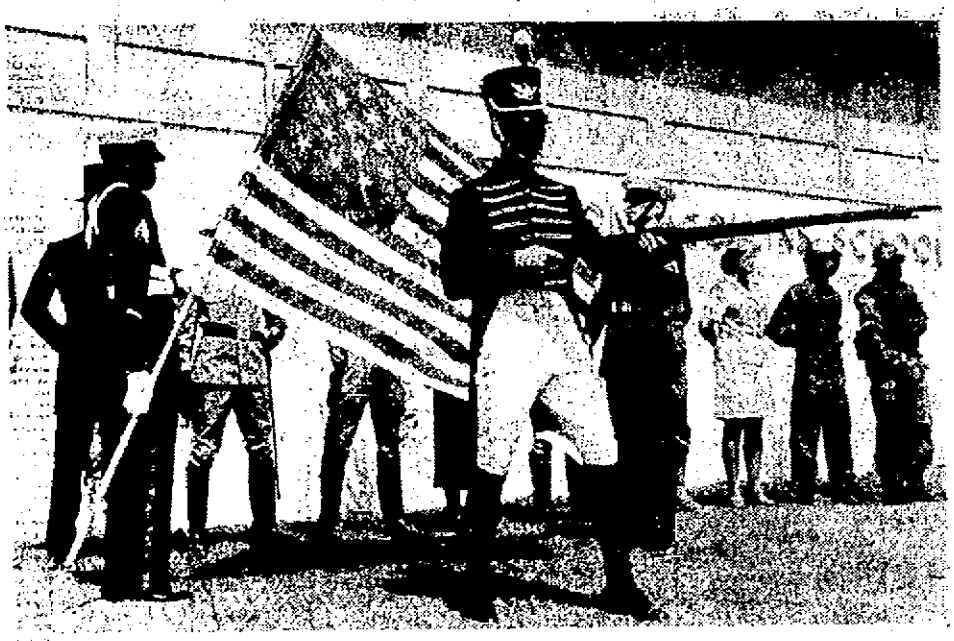

Rose added that Caffray was selected because of his recent successes as a malpractice litigator. Caffray has had many years of experience defending physicians and hospitals in medical malpractice cases, Rose said.

"What we have in our exchange concept," Rose said, "is a nonprofit operation which will be able to furnish physicians and surgeons with full protection—the same protection afforded by other companies in the field—but at a saving to the physician policy holder."

Rose cited, for example, the company's "tail policy" under which doctors are covered for three years after they retire or otherwise end their practice or leave the insurance program.

Another example, Rose said, would be the rating of physicians and surgeons on the basis of the complexity of their specialties. But even the most demanding specialist rating would pay no more than $17,140 per year for the full coverage. (Most insurance companies, Rose said, charge specialists from $26,000 to $36,000 per year for similar coverage.)

Dress parade

Japan sailing ship is open to public

The Nippon Maru, Japan's fully-rigged, four-masted sailing bark, will be open to the public at Pier D, Berth 33, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m. today and Sunday.

The port of Long Beach will also operate free harbor cruises out of Berth 55 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days.

Council to face decision on cuts in property tax

Long Beach City Council's legislative committee will receive a recommendation Tuesday to oppose three pieces of pending state legislation that would cut property taxes for certain residents.

The recommendation from the city's Department of Administrative Management is based on the department's general policy of opposing any legislation which puts revenue limitations on local government, said George M. Medak, acting department director.

One of the three measures is Senate Bill 1674 which, among other things, would limit property-tax revenues of cities, counties and special districts to the percentage increase of the cost of living, plus population increases.

THE BILL also would increase the homeowners' property-tax exemption from $1,750 to $2,500 of assessed value, increase the personal income tax renters credit and increase reimbursements under the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Law.

"The measure would be financed by an additional 12-per-cent tax bracket for state personal income taxpayers," Medak said.

The city staff report said the bill would limit city revenue without providing any reimbursement for losses or any additional source of revenue.

"SB 1674 is just one more example of the Legislature attempting to limit local government revenues at a time when local government finances have never been tighter," Medak said. "At the same time, the state is now projecting a revenue surplus of $624.9 million at the end of its own fiscal year, primarily because personal income tax and sales tax receipts have been higher than expected."

THE OTHER two measures are Senate Bill 1600 and accompanying Senate Constitutional Amendment 47, which would authorize the Legislature to allow a split property-tax roll and a dual set of maximum property-tax rates.

One rate would be for owner-occupied dwellings and one for all other properties, Medak said. On owner-occupied units, the maximum rate would be that which would produce the property-tax revenue which would have been received if the city's prior year's revenues from such dwellings were to change by the percentage change in population plus cost-of-living, the staff report said.

"It is very possible for revenue from owner-occupied dwellings to increase at a greater percentage than the cost of living in any one year," the report said. "These bills would prevent the city from receiving the additional revenue from such increases."

L.B. Bicentennial Parade steps off at noon today

An estimated 70,000 persons are expected to line Ocean Boulevard in downtown Long Beach today for a two-hour Bicentennial Parade sponsored by the Masonic Lodge of California. The first of the 174 units steps off at noon from Falcon Avenue and proceeds west on Ocean to Pine Avenue.

A musical salute to America is scheduled in the Long Beach Arena at 3 p.m. Admission is free but special tickets are required and may be obtained by calling 423-6535.

Apollo 11 astronaut Edwin Aldrin, the second man to walk on the moon, is the parade grand marshal and will receive the first Masonic Universe Award at the Arena show.

There will be floats, bands, and marching units from schools, colleges, the military, special groups, the Scottish Rite and Masons.

Viet-era vets ask ouster of Brown aide

Resignation of Gov. Brown's appointee for veterans' affairs director was called for Friday by representatives of Vietnam-era veterans at a state Veterans Board meeting in Long Beach.

Les Bender, veterans' affairs coordinator at Long Beach City College, accused the Brown administration of being insensitive to the problems of veterans and asked for restoration of state education funds for vets in Brown's budget.

"Gov. Brown has failed to develop a policy addressing the critical needs of veterans in California," Bender told the board, which met in the City Council chambers.

The board, which oversees veterans' programs in the state, meets in a different city each session.

There was little reaction to Bender's charges, which were in the form of a resolution signed by the Veterans Program Administrators of California, the state Delegation of the National Association of Concerned Veterans, the Orange County Veterans Coordinators Association and Swords to Plowshares.

Virginia Days, Brown's veterans' affairs director, asked by Bender to respond to the accusations, said, "I do not see the need for it."

She said the impact of a pending cutoff of vets' federal education funds still is unknown and that Brown's final budget, in which state education funds have been cut, won't be adopted until July.

Other board members said it is unclear how many veterans will be affected by the cuts and how much time they have before they will finish college.

Bender said he would try to supply information if Ms. Days would let vets' groups know what information is needed.

Board members asked Manuel Val, manager of the state Veterans Services Division, to let them know at their next meeting what effect the education cuts would have on vets.

Bender charged that Brown had terminated the Cal-Vet program, which aids vets when their federal education money runs out, "with no public notice or consultation."

The resolution asked that the Cal-Vet program be reinstated in Brown's 1976-77 budget with full funding and that a "bonus of equal value" be given vets not attending school.

He asked that Ms. Days resign and a new director be appointed with advice of veterans groups.

By JOE SEGURA
Staff Writer

Two sleek prototype Advanced Concept Trains (ACT), forerunners of cars that could be used on a proposed 232-mile rapid transit system for Southern California, were unveiled Friday in Compton.

In observance of National Transportation Week, Garrett Corporation—the prime contractor for ACT—previewed the two cars for about 100 guests, including Rapid Transit District directors, at its AiResearch Manufacturing Co., in Compton where the trains are now under construction.

"I'm extremely impressed," said County Supervisor Baxter Ward, a leading proponent of a June 8 ballot measure that would grant a one-half cent sales tax increase to finance construction and operation of his proposed Sunset Coast Line system. "My only disappointment is that the cars aren't painted red."

Produced jointly by Rockwell International and Garrett, the trains are designed for 80 mile-per-hour speeds.

There are two options for the cars' design: "high density" with 68 seats and a "low density" version which has only 56 seats.

The cars, which are 75 feet long and 10 feet wide, have fiberglass interiors and extra wide windows that, according to the manufacturers' spokesman, offer passengers 25 per cent more viewing space than provided by San Francisco's BART system cars.

When completed later this year, the ACT cars will be delivered to the Department of Transportation's Rail Transit Test Center in Pueblo, Colorado, for extensive testing.

Later, the producers said, the cars will be demonstrated on transit properties in New York, Boston, Cleveland, Chicago and Philadelphia.

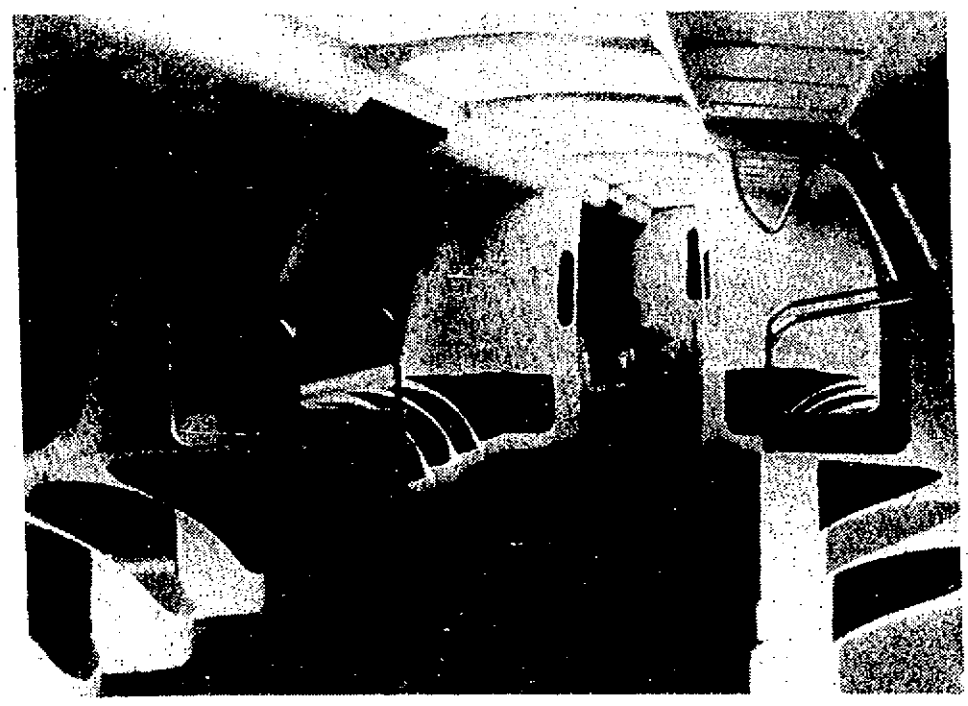

"Southern California will have the advantage of having a well developed system that's been checked out," said Dan Derbes, vice president of Garrett.

Some of the advance features include an energy storage flywheel propulsion system, vandal resistant interior surfaces, improved air conditioning, and modular interior compartments with facilities for the elderly and handicapped.

Garrett AiResearch has installed prototype flywheel energy storage systems on two New York Subway cars.

In the first three months of operaation, according to Garrett AiResearch statistics, the cars have demonstrated an average 33 per cent savings in power consumption compared to conventional cars.

It has been estimated by Garrett AiResearch that the incorporation of the flywheel energy storage system on the entire New York Transit Authority's 6,700 car fleet would result in energy savings of more than $20 million annually.

University will experiment with new life forms

By DOLORES KATZ
Knight News Service

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—The University of Michigan board of regents Friday approved a genetic research program that involves the creation of potentially beneficial and potentially dangerous new forms of life.

The regents' action makes UM the first university research center to give formal approval to the controversial research, in which genetic material is transplanted from one species to another.

"This is a very serious matter, one where all of us have some misgivings in proceeding," said regent Deane Baker shortly before the 6-1 vote of approval.

"But nevertheless, this institution is dedicated to the advancement and betterment of the human race, and I think this (program) is a good compromise in every way. It allows the research to go forward under very controlled conditions."

THE REGENTS' approval permits the spending of $306,000, most of it federal funds, to equip three laboratories with safety systems that will prevent bacteria and other organisms under study from accidentally escaping from the laboratory.

The research that will be done in the laboratories is made possible by a recently developed technique that permits scientists to cut out a single gene — an individual unit of heredity — from one organism and stitch it into the hereditary material of another form of life. The altered organism then passes this new gene onto its offspring as part of its genetic heritage.

Almost all of the experiments done to date have involved the transfer of genes from higher organisms, like toads, flies, and sea urchins, into bacteria.

SCIENTISTS think it may be possible some day to create bacteria that manufacture drugs like insulin and antibiotics.

Other scientists worry that the research may also result in the creation of disease organisms that would be resistant to all present drugs, or that may change the environment in unpredictable ways.

At present, most American scientists are limiting the kinds of experiments they do in this area until the federal National Institutes of Health (NIH) produces guidelines for the conduct of such research.

The U-M research will go forward under strict guidelines compiled by a university study committee. These guidelines are more stringent than the proposed NIH regulations, which prohibit experiments likely to create new or more virulent disease organisms. The NIH proposals, for example, would prohibit transplantation of the bacterial gene that governs the production of deadly botulism toxin.

THE U.M. guidelines also require approval of the board of regents for potentially hazardous kinds of experiments that would be permitted by the NIH guidelines.

The research proposed by UM scientists initially will include transfers of genes among different species of bacteria, and transfers of bacterial genes into viruses that cause cancer in mice. These experiments are considered "moderately" hazardous by the NIH.

Contact lenses latest for dogs

By RON BURNS

ANAHEIM (AP — Anyone who's ever eyeballed a bowl of chicken soup looking for a dropped contact lens may soon be peering in frustration over something much less tasty: Dog food.

Researchers are designing the latest in contacts for dogs, and so far are pleased with the results. But they refuse to rule out the prospect that dogs can be as clumsy as their masters.

"If people can lose them, pets can lose them," says Dr. Milton Wyman, professor of comparative ophthalmology at Ohio State University.

WYMAN HAS researched the possibilities of contact lenses for dogs since 1971 and now believes they are ready for general use.

W"We've tested them on dozens of dogs and most of them adapt to the lenses more easily than humans," Wyman said.

"Many people have psychological problems about having anything at all in their eyes, but dogs aren't bothered by such hang-ups."

Wyman discussed his project while attending a convention of the American Animal Hospital Association held here this week. The five-day meeting ended today.

"We began the work almost as a curiosity," he said, "but the further we went, the more serious we became."

Wyman said the lenses are identical to the plastic methyl methacrylate lenses developed for humans. But he emphasized they would be used for very different reasons.

"At the moment, their main use is as a bandage or protection for dogs with severe eye disorders or dogs that have undergone eye surgery," he said.

"KEEPING bandages on dogs is extremely difficult and these lenses are excellent because the dogs don't even notice them once they're properly fitted."

He noted that surgeons often must sew dogs' eyelids shut for their own protection. He said the lenses would be much safer and more humane.

"Dogs have no problem tolerating the lenses 24 hours a day for several months at a time," Wyman said.

He added that the lenses would have no use in improving the eyesight of dogs.

Control by brainwaves makes gains

Brainwaves may some day help a quadruplegic control his wheelchair without manipulating levers, or enable an immobilized pilot to fly his plane, says Prof. Jacques Vidal.

Vidal, a UCLA computer specialist with training in the neurosciences, said in Los Angeles Thursday that experiments conducted at the university's Brain Computer Interface Project, which he heads, have shown promise in brainwave use.

Family, doctors disagree

Secrecy 'veils Karen fate'

By JOSEPH SULLIVAN
New York Times Service

MORRISTOWN, N.J. — The parents and attending physicians of Karen Anne Quinlan have begun to disagree over the type and extent of medical treatment and testing being performed on the comatose woman, and this reportedly is delaying implementation of the State Supreme Court ruling designed to allow her to die.

IT HAS been seven weeks since the court, in a unanimous opinion, said Miss Quinlan could be removed from the mechanical respirator that has supported her breathing since April 15, 1975, if her attending physicians and an ethics committee or similar body at St. Clare's Hospital in Denville agree that there is "no reasonable possibility" that she can recover to a "cognitive, sapient state."

The 22-year-old woman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Quinlan, have refused to talk to newsmen since the ruling, on the advice of their attorney, Paul W. Armstrong, who said "the veil of family secrecy" should be allowed to fall on the steps that will be taken to implement the court decision.

However, reports that relations between Dr. Robert Morse, the chief attending physician, and the Quinlans have become strained were confirmed Thursday evening when attorneys for the family, the physicians and other principals in the case met behind closed doors with Superior Court Judge Robert Muir Jr. to discuss clarifying lines of communication.

Those who attended the meeting refused to discuss what was said. However, it was learned that the meeting dealt with the responsibilities of various parties to communicate with each other and not with the actual steps that will lead up to removal of the respirator.

In addition to Armstrong, those who attended the meeting were James Growley, Armstrong's associate; Ralph Porzio, the attorney for Morse and Dr. Ashad Javed, the internist in charge of the respirator; David Baime, assistant state attorney general; Theodore Einhorn, attorney for St. Clare's; Donald G. Collester Jr., the Morris County prosecutor, and Daniel R. Coburn, the attorney for the former court-appointed guardian for Miss Quinlan.

Drs. Morse and Javed have been conducting a series of diagnostic tests on Miss Quinlan to provide fresh data for the ethics committee.

Among the tests is an attempt to see how long the young woman can breath on her own without the machine. Even when she is attached to it, Miss Quinlan is able to initiate her own breathing for periods up to 24 hours and it is believed she could breath that long without the machine, although her unassisted breathing is shallow and labored.

During other periods, the young woman does not breath at all and is completely dependent on the machine. Miss Quinlan suffered what doctors have described as irreversible brain damage when she ingested a combination of tranquilizers and alcoholic beverages and sustained a respiratory collapse.

Neither Porzio or the physicians were available for comment Friday, but two sources close to Morse said the physician feels he is under pressure from the family not to administer antibiotics that the young woman needs to combat an almost continuous round of infections.

The family, in its petition to the court, asked for removal of all "extraordinary means" sustaining their daughter's vital processes so that she may be returned "to her natural state" and die "if it is God's will."

One friend of Morse's who asked not to be identified, said, "he doesn't believe administering antibiotics constitutes extraordinary care and has no intention of stopping."

Mother of 3 loses battle with cancer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Linda Joy Hardy died Friday, losing a 3½-year battle against cancer that was nationally publicized when she issued an appeal for "a good family to take my kids, to love them and keep them together."

Friends said the 33-year-old Mrs. Hardy had designated a family to adopt her three children by her first husband, Joseph George Hardy, who they said abandoned the family five years ago.

"Linda made provisions for the children," her attorney said. "They will be taken care of."

There was no elaboration from either the friends or the attorney.

Mrs. Hardy was hospitalized seven times since her cancer was diagnosed late in 1972 and pronounced terminal. Her right breast was removed, then her ovaries and her adrenal glands.

More than 2,000 offers to help poured in and a trust fund of $9,000 was set up for the children from donations.

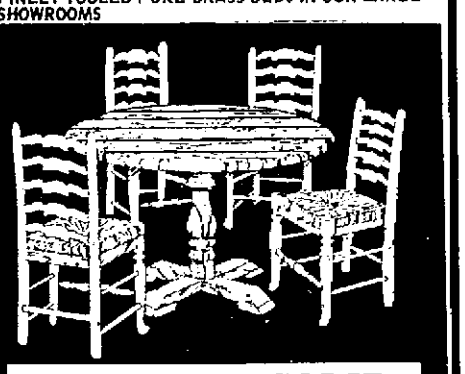

But sympathy turned to skepticism seven months later when a doctor said Mrs. Hardy had been cured. She left the hospital, married for a second time and was later arrested on an old drug charge.

The charge of possession of two ounces of marijuana—a misdemeanor—was disposed of last January when Mrs. Hardy's $25 bond was forfeited. And two weeks ago, Mrs. Hardy was divorced from her second husband, Gary Marcum, a 28-year-old machinist who had befriended her last year. She charged him with gross neglect.

"There was national television and he was hanging around and questions were being asked about who this guy is. He was going back and forth, doing a lot of things for her," said one friend. "There was no eagerness for her to marry. She was pressured into it. Her case was traumatic and she was not ready to make a decision like that. But she did not want to embarrass the children."

With the low blood count and her body too weak to fight off infections, a cold suddenly turned into pneumonia, and she lapsed into a coma and died hours later.

Gas demand hiking prices

Associated Press

Demand for gasoline is undiminished and has pushed consumption sharply above pre-energy crisis levels for the first time in three years, an industry analyst said Friday.

Consumer demand also is forcing a growing reliance on expensive foreign oil, and pushing up gasoline prices, said Dan Lundberg, president of Lundberg Surveys, Inc., and publisher of the weekly Lundberg Letter.

"Conservation efforts are not living up to expectations, and our undiminished demand is largely responsible for recent gasoline price hikes," Lundberg said in Los Angeles.

Lundberg, who said he polls some 50,000 gas stations each week, said annual consumption this year is running 3.2 per cent above a comparable period of 1973.

He said this year's daily gasoline consumption from Jan. 1 to April 30 averaged 282.2 million gallons, compared with 273.4 million a day three years ago. Consumption in 1974 and 1975 ran below pre-crisis amounts.

Lundberg said the unabated demand had pushed up reliance on imported oil. He said about 38 per cent of gasoline produced this month was from foreign crude, compared with 31 per cent a year ago.

He said the immediate result had been the most recent round of major oil-company wholesale price increases of from 2 to 3 cents a gallon since the end of March.

The latest to announce hikes were Atlantic Richfield (ARCO) of 2 cents a gallon Friday and Union Oil of a penny a gallon on Thursday. Both companies are headquartered in Los Angeles.

"Despite all efforts by the administration, people are just not staying below 55 miles an hour, and our demand apparently is insatiable," Lundberg said.

"The profit margins of gas stations have been steadily declining for years, and most of them just can't absorb much more," he said, leading to higher pump prices to reflect the wholesale boosts.

He said more price hikes might slow demand.

"This could be de facto rationing in its incipiency," he said.

Lundberg added that price hikes also stemmed from the seasonal shutdown of many refineries in the rush to convert from heating oil to gasoline production.

"This almost always produces a shortage around this time of year," he said.

Shellfish linked to typhoid cases

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A shipment of shellfish from Portugal to San Jose has been linked to four cases of typhoid fever, state Health Department officials said Friday.

The four cases were treated and none was fatal. The department reported, but it is warning consumers to be on the lookout for the shellfish.

The shellfish were received last December by Ventura Imports. The black, univalve limpets about the size of a California mussel were fresh-frozen and packed in two-pound clear plastic bags, the department said.

The department did not know the size of the shipment, but a spokesman said consumers should check their freezers and take the red, orange and white packages to local health departments.

The shipment was sold from a retail outlet in San Jose and from refrigerated trucks in Santa Clara, San Mateo, San Benito, Monterey, Tulare, San Joaquin and Stanislaus counties, the department said.

A retail distributor in San Leandro, Luso Mercado Imports, also sold them.

The bags are marked: "Fresh Frozen Portuguese Lapa-Limpet Distributed by Gonsalves, Pawtucket, R.I. Product of Portugal CPC. Net weight 32 oz., (2 lbs.). Packed by Comtanhia Portuguesa Congelacao S.A.R.L. Lisboa-Portugal."

The department said there are about 100 cases of typhoid with one or two deaths a year in California. Fever would develop one to three weeks after eating an infected shellfish.

Solon urges property tax relief via surplus

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Republican legislator said Friday that the state should use part of an increase in state revenue to fund a $300 million in property tax exemptions and renters' tax credits.

Assemblyman Paul Bannai, R-Gardena, said he would introduce a bill providing the rebates.

Bannai said GOP Assembly leader Paul Priolo backs his proposal, and he said he hopes to pick up Democratic support for it as well.

But David Jensen, Gov. Brown's press spokesman, said Brown has not decided what he wants to do with the money.

Under Bannai's proposal, the homeowners' tax exemption would go from $7,000 to $9,250 a year — making $68 the reduction in an average property tax bill, Bannai said.

He added that his proposal would increase renters' relief from $37 to $49 a year.

Earlier this week Finance Director Roy Bell told the Senate Finance Committee that the state's booming recovery would pour an additional $567 million into state coffers.

That would place the state surplus at $538.9 million at the end of this fiscal year — June 30.

Victims of plane crash identified

MARIPOSA (AP)—Two men killed in the crash of their rented light plane Thursday near Lake McClure tentatively have been identified as Steven Payne, age unknown, of Castle Air Force Base, and Michael Farrell, age and hometown unknown. They were killed when they flew into a dead-end canyon, clipped a canyon wall and crashed.

L.A. budget may hike tax rate 5½c per $100

Associated Press

The Los Angeles City Council Friday approved a balanced 1976-77 budget that may increase property taxes by 5½ cents per $100 of assessed value.

City Administrative Officer C. Erwin Piper estimated the budget at $983 million, and the council approved it by a 10-to-4 vote after four days of debate.

The recommended budget will be submitted to Mayor Tom Bradley next week.

The property-tax hike may be levied to offset $4.9 million in overtime pay for city firemen. A law mandating cities to pay the overtime was passed by Congress, but is being challenged before the Supreme Court.

If the court upholds the law before August, when the city tax rate is due to be set, then a tax override would have to be levied.

Marine captain accused again

SAN DIEGO (AP) - One of four Marines accused in the beating death of Pvt. Lynn McClure was told Friday that he also is being charged with assault involving another recruit.

The new charge was brought against Capt. Cecil V. Taylor, 34, of Orlando, Fla. A spokeswoman at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot said Pvt. Ronald L. Taylor was 17 when he was hit on the head with enough force to "produce grievous bodily harm" during a pugil-stick fight last Oct. 4.

Taylor, unrelated to the officer, lives in Fountain Valley. He testified during a base investigation before courts-martial trials were ordered, but there was no word of the extent of his injury.

Capt. Taylor also was charged with three counts of violating orders in the way the close-combat fights were staged between Oct. 4 and Dec. 6 and with two counts of dereliction of duty.

In a fight Dec. 6, the 20-year-old McClure was reported beaten unconscious. He died March 13 in the Houston, Tex., Veterans Hospital.

No decision has been made on a trial for Taylor.

Taylor's attorney, Capt. A. W. Applebee, said he was shocked to learn of the new charges after his request to withdraw the others had been approved.

Applebee said in an interview that Taylor was being "penalized for attempting to assert his rights."

The other defendants, all sergeants suspended from training duties, were ordered to stand trial. They are Sgt. Henry E. Aguilar, 23, of Hanford, Calif.; S.Sgt Harold L. Bronson, 30, of Freeport, Fla., and S.Sgt. Henry C. Wallralf, 27, of St. Croix, Minn.

Nonjudicial punishment ordered for Capt. John B. Uhlmann, 34, was delayed. A letter of reprimand was sent to Col. Rufus A. Seymour, who commanded the Recruit Training Regiment.

An attorney for McClure's family in Lufkin, Tex., has filed a $3.5-million wrongful death claim against the Marine Corps.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Epidendrums, sometimes called the "poor man's orchid", are epiphytic plants — those that grow independently in crotches of and on branch of trees. These tree perching plants produce their own roots and manufacture food from their own green chlorphyll.

Although they are not a parasite living off the tree sap, the plant roots get a foothold, catches leaves from the tree and the decayed leaves serve as a medium for the root to grow in.

The thick reed-like stems have narrow green leaves from four inches to more long. The flowers are an inch or larger in size and resemble the cattleya orchids, with 10 to 15 flowers in a terminal cluster.

There are over 500 species, the most common colors in red, yellow, lavender, orange, rose, and probably white, although we haven't seen a white variety.

These plants are recommended for green house culture, yet they've been seen growing in full sun about 15 miles inland from the coast where there is a lot of night dampness.

Frosts can damage the branches from time to time, but they shortly recover, then bloom for many months of the year. The plants are easy to grow without much fussing — just a balanced plant food at least five to six times a year. It is also an excellent container plant.

Chrysanthemums are available in containers to be planted out now for the fall season. Be sure to check with the nurseryman and have him help you select some that bloom at various times in the season.

The mums with roots that were separated from the outer area of the old clumps and replants, should have the tops snapped off when they have grown about 10 inches tall. Thereafter, each time two or three sets of leaves have grown out, continue snapping off the tops to within six to eight weeks that the plants would normally begin to set buds.

This operation forces the plants to grow bushy, with many more branches that also will provide blossoms when the plants begin to bloom. Best part of all, the upright branches won't be leafless half way up the stems.

Annuals such as Zinnias, Asters, Hybrid and American Marigolds, Ageratum, Amaranthus, Celosia, Gloriosa Daisy, Foxy Foxglove, Gaillardia, and Lobelia should be planted in the sunny garden areas.

Perennials of Begonias, Impatiens and Balsam should be set out in the shade garden areas. Coleus, although considered a shade plant, should get several hours of direct sunlight which helps intensify the colors in the leaves.

Sow Tithonia (Mexican Sunflower), too. Although a sun loving annual, it grows to around six feet tall, with blue gray hairy leaves. It's a good background plant, with fiery orange dahlia-like blossoms that are good cut flowers too.

Don't forget to plant Dahlia roots soon as possible for cutflowers till the frosts come.

Lawn mower lost

Burglars who pried a side door to enter the garage of Douglas J. Watson, 2633 Linden Ave., took a lawn mower valued at $150, Long Beach police said Friday.

Old tires are perfect center for vegetables

Importantly, thhis system has provided the Pettersens with high density plantings of their favorite vegetable crops in the relatively small amount of space that is available to them in their La Mesa backyard.

It has also provided them with a trouble free garden that has produced large vegetable crops well ahead of normal growth periods.

Most of the Pettersens' backyard was previously sprayed to keep weeds from growing between avocado and citrus trees. While this saved them from many long hours of hand weeding, it also produced a toxic soil that would not grow the vegetables that the Pettersens desired.

To compensate for this, they came up with the idea of obtaining old tires from neighborhood gas stations, and filling the tire centers with a planting mix.

Then to be sure each tire center received just the right amount of water at all times, they placed a drip irrigation system along the tire rows. This system provided plastic water distribution tubes with individual discharges at each tire, to regularly replace moisture lost through plant utilization and evaporation.

Different vegetable crops were planted inside each tire center. With these crops grown under optimum moisture and fertility levels, production has been truly amazing.

"For example," says Charlie, "we've grown golden zucchini from seed in just 45 days. Also, we've used individual tire centers to grow large Hubbard squash in only 67 days compared to the usual 120 days, and last summer Judy packed away 22 quarts of dill pickles grown from one tire only, not to mention sweet corn, lettuce and a dozen other vegetables as well — all with equal success."

The optimum moisture and nutrient level that can be easily maintained in thesee tire centers is one of the big reasons for big, fast yields, according to Pettersen. But best of all is the additional heat that is absorbed by the black rubber tires and transmitted to the soil. In addition to speeding germination and growth, Pettersen believes this additional heat also allows plants to grow in cooler geographical areas which would otherwise be too hostile.

His tire center growing system is designed to return weekend backyard vegetable growing to exactly what it's supposed to be — easy and rewarding.

Home gardening is gaining in popularity as the cost of living continues to rise. More Americans are tending gardens today than ever before. A recent Gallup poll shows that more than half the homes in this country have vegetable and flower gardens, with an estimated 3.5 million new vegetable gardens planted last year alone.

"A home garden plot 10-feet x 20-feet with $20 invested in seed supplies and equipment can produce vegetables worth $290 at today's going prices," according to Leslie Wood, consumer information specialist.

"In addition to the tremendous savings to your food budget, nothing beats the taste of freshly picked vegetables.

"Many people are under the impression that a vegetable garden requires a lot of space. Not so," she continues. "A vegetable garden can be as small as you have room for or as large as you wish, depending on the time you have to take care of it and the amount of money you invest.

"A garden plot 10-feet x 20-feet, which is in direct sunlight, can produce enough to provide a family of four with many weekly dishes of garden- fresh vegetables. Did you know, for instance, that one tomato plant can produce 25 pounds of tomatoes?"

Even apartment dwellers can get into the spirit — all they need is a terrace with sufficient sunlight and tubs for the plants.

To produce a greater harvest, progressive planting is suggested — which simply means making use of the ground all season long. Some vegetables can and should be planted several times during the season to produce multiple crops.

Instead of planting all the seeds in one weekend, so they all mature at the same time, plant them over four or five weekends. This way, you can spread your harvest over a longer period.

The first step in starting a vegetable garden is to give careful consideration to the best vegetables to plant — those that are highly productive, offer the least problems, and do not take up too much room.

Tomatoes are an excellent choice. They provide the highest yield per square inch of garden space.

Radishes are a popular crop because they are fast and easy to grow. In just three or four weeks you can have fresh radishes, and through progressive planting, they can be harvested all season long.

"Bush beans provide good productivity from only a few cents worth of seed," adds Ms. Wood. The trick to growing beans is to plant a row every ten days to two weeks. Then the harvest will be spread out over many weeks, and you won't find yourself with bushels of beans at one time.

Lettuce is also a good crop to consider. The "loosehead" or leaf lettuce plants can withstand the summer heat, however, better than the head variety.

From just four zucchini plants, enough squash can be harvested to feed a family all summer. They start bearing in early summer and don't stop until the frost.

Deaf woman shot by bandit

SAN DIEGO (AP) - A deaf woman with a speech impediment tried to tell a masked gunman that she was without money but was shot in the face, police said Friday.

Lynn Gloria Hildebrand, 28, was accosted in a laundromat by the youth who fled without money late Thursday night. She was treated at a hospital for a cheek wound and released.

Want a finer lawn? Then read this!

"Warren' research facilities, established twenty years ago, have under observation over 1,000 strains and species of grasses. Some of these grasses have been patented and are available to the public in various parts of the United States and Europe.

About ten years ago one of these new grasses...

BenSun (A-34)

KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS

...was introduced into California. Its performance has proven to be outstanding for these reasons:

- Rated first in shade tolerance (up to 65%) yet grows vigorously in full sunlight.
- Rated first in wear tolerance by a university doing turfgrass research. (Of eighteen top bluegrasses tested, for golf course use, BenSun (A-34) was the only grass to receive an excellent rating.)
- Quick to recover when injured and is used extensively on athletic fields and golf courses.
- Does well in most soils, and is highly drought resistant.
- Thrives in hot or cold climates, at high or low altitudes.
- Requires less fertilizer to keep it healthy.
- Can be mowed down to ½ inch when planted in sunlight.
- One pound of seed will plant 2,000 sq. ft. of new lawn area at a cost of only ½¢ per square foot.
- BenSun (A-34) Lawngrass Seed carries this guarantee: "If you are not satisfied with the results obtained from this seed, return the empty box with proof of purchase within 6 months to Warren's Turf Nursery, Inc. You will be supplied with more seed or your money will be refunded, your choice".

Available as Sod, Sod Plugs and Seed!

Dianthus— a splash of garden color

Although Carnations are normally considered biennials requiring two seasons to produce flowers from sowing, their cousins Magic Charms (Dianthus), should be grown as annuals. Planted this spring and summer, they will provide splashes of color until fall.

Magic Charms' cheerful mixture of colors including scarlet, white, pink, speckled and crimson make perfect borders or large mass plantings. Plants stay a petite eight inches wide and six inches tall.

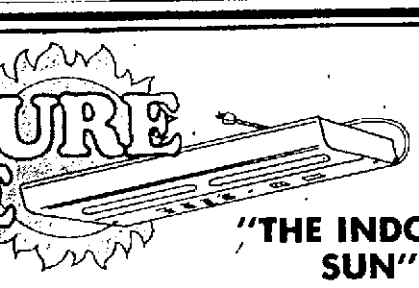

A five-inch flower pot can easily accommodate Magic Charms. This makes them ideal potted plants for small balconies, window boxes, and porches. Truly easy-to-grow, they require only light fertilizing and have very few insect pests.

Like many other colorful annuals, Dianthus do best in full sun. On the drought-tolerant side, they add a beautiful show of color and texture to rock gardens.

The flowers are a full 1 1 2 to 2 inches across and cover the plant with color. When the blooms fade, cut the plants back to about four or five inches above the ground. Another flush of color will return later in the season to brighten up the garden.

You'll be planting a true winner this season with Magic Charms. It is not only honored in Europe with the Fleuro-Select award but has been an All American Selection winner.

And closes for two months

Hughes will battle opens

BY WALLACE TURNER
New York Times Service

LAS VEGAS — More than a dozen lawyers, including the attorney general of Texas, were on hand Friday as the opening round in the battle over Howard Hughes' estate was postponed two months.

It was the first hearing on the first will filed among 18 purported wills of the billionaire industrialist. Four separate attacks have been opened on the validity of this will, which was found on April 27 on a desk in the world headquarters of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) in Salt Lake City.

The upshot Friday was that District Court Judge Keith Hayes, observing that "little of substance can be accomplished here this morning," recessed the hearings until July 30.

The handwritten "Mormon will" was delivered here by church officials as directed by a note on the envelope in which it was found. The document was presented for probate on April 30 by Noah Dietrich, 87-year-old Los Angeles resident who was Hughes's longtime chief assistant but who had been estranged for almost two decades from the reclusive billionaire, who died April 5.

The attacks on the will's validity are called, in legal parlance, "contests." The practice is to name as defendants those who are assumed to have a stake in the validity of the purported will. These defendants then have 30 days from legal notification in which to respond to the contest, and the person filing the contest then has 30 days to answer.

Noting all this, Hayes recessed the hearings.

To some observers there was a sense of unreality about the proceedings. They followed, at the end of the court calendar, a series of uncontested divorces granted at the rate of about one every three minutes, and the reading of orders in other probate matters. Then came the matter of the purported will of the eccentric, moody Hughes — a document that if valid would distribute the $1.5 billion — perhaps more — amassed during the industrialist's lifetime.

Among the attorneys present were those representing Rice Institute, the University of California, the University of Nevada and, representing the University of Texas, the Texas attorney general, John Hill.

These institutions are among the beneficiaries named in the purported will. The Mormon Church was also named as a beneficiary, but the Mormons had no legal representative in court.

The unreal quality of the proceedings was heightened by the knowledge that the will's authenticity has been attacked in uncompromising terms by several handwriting experts who have examined it as well as by Hughes' associates during much of his lifetime. One expert, however, said he thought the handwriting matched samples of Hughes' writing.

Others familiar with Hughes' affairs, including the executives of Summa Corp., his personal holding company, have referred to the document as a forgery.

Perhaps the most significant of the four attacks on the purported will is that of Mrs. Annette Gano Lummis, 85-year-old Houston woman who was the closest surviving relative of Hughes. She is his mother's sister.

Mrs. Lummis says she was "the sole heir under the laws of descent and distribution of Nevada." She denied that Dietrich was executor of Hughes' last testament, and called the document under consideration "a forgery, a fraud and a hoax." She said it was inconsistent, considering their enmity, that Hughes would name Dietrich as executor.

Mrs. Lummis' son, William R. Lummis, a Houston lawyer, has been named by a Delaware court as administrator of Summa Corp., into which Hughes had put virtually all his properties. Summa is a Delaware corporation.

People and ideas

Christian women

MARK CLUTTER
RELIGION EDITOR

Women are more various than men. Richer emotionally, unpredictable, lovely, calmer in desperate emergencies, more spiritual in a down-to-earth way, more fierce, more gentle, etc. About the only the superior trait of men is that they are usually bigger.

So it is impossible for a man to write about the Christian women who really influenced his life. He can't even understand them completely.

But he can remember casual, meaningful contacts.

GIDEON OF THE AIR WAYS

I was lucky on the plane to Omaha. A woman sat beside me. She was petite, pretty in a sedate way, blonde hair in a tight coif, a modest suit.

I have discovered that chance-met companions on public transportation will talk freely if they want to talk at all. A few casual remarks and she started talking. Her name was Jan. She was going home to her three children after two wonderful weeks with her husband on "R & R" in Hawaii.

"Maybe I'm pregnant again," she said. "I kinda hope so. He is such a fine man."

Her husband was a fighter pilot and a captain in the Air Force. From her view, this was about the most noble work a man could do.

He was also a Gideon. If you know your Old Testament, Gideon was a tough, heroic captain in the time of the Judges. A modern Gideon puts Bibles in the dressers of hotels and motels. Her husband in his free time was seeing to it that there were plenty of Bibles in the barracks of Vietnam.

The stewardess came by and I asked Jan if she would like a drink. "Thank you, no. That stuff has harmed so many brother officers and their wives."

She was perfectly sure of their way of life. To be married to a professional warrior, a Gideon, was the most wonderful thing that could happen.

Well, her way was not my way, but I liked her intensely. So clean-cut, so honest, so — do I dare use the word — pure.

We exchanged two or three letters, but chance-met friendships do not last long. I've often wondered about her. Did her knight, her Gideon, who really belonged in another war, take a bad one over Nam? Or did he come home, like so many others, embittered and broken in faith?

One hopes that their purity, naive though it seems, has survived a corrupt era. It sometimes does, you know.

THE LADY OF THE FOREST

My wife had just died unexpectedly and I was distraught. A college classmate, Irene, came to see me.

"At times like this we Christians must love each other," she said. "Come and spend the weekend on our farm."

I hadn't seen her for a long time. I had heard that she had inherited a farm and had married a farmer. She was a tall, handsome, muscular woman with an outdoorsy look. I went.

It was a little, weathered farmhouse with an old-fashioned look inside and out, although no one would call Irene an old-fashioned girl. Her husband, Bill, came in at sunset and dinner was ready. Farmers eat twice as well as their city-dude cousins.

Bill was a slim, sinewy man who was friendly enough but devoted to silence. When he spoke it was usually something of a practical nature, such as "Tomorrow I'll have to get the tractor comburetor fixed."

After supper he stretched and yawned: "Well, tomorrow will be a hard day. I'd better hit the sack."

Irene and I talked for awhile. Mostly she talked. The gist, without preaching, was that sorrow is inevitable, but that it is a beautiful world in which we must live every day and love each other as well as we can. At bedtime she put an arm around my shoulders and kissed me lightly on a cheek.

Next morning I awoke to the aroma of steak and eggs. Bill had been up for awhile caring for the livestock. Breakfast was tremendous. It included corn meal mush with cream and honey, strawberries and strong coffee.

Afterwards she said, "I have work to do this morning. This afternoon I'll show you my woods. Would you like to ride our horse? Or shoot a gun?"

Like many farm homes there was an arsenal. I chose a .22 and plinked for awhile, cleaned the rifle, then saddled the horse. It had been a long time since I had been on a horse. My legs remembered that ride for several days.

In the afternoon we put on swim suits under our jeans and hiked to the river. We swam for a while in the muddy water, then we walked through her forest. "I'll let anyone hunt here if he promises not to shoot my squirrels. They are my friends." The squirrels knew it. They made friendly noises from the oak boughs.

She seemed to know the nature and life history of any tree or plant in her forest.

We had one unusual experience. We came to a tree swarming with Monarch butterflies. They were, she explained, on their annual pilgrimage from Canada to Mexico. They would die there, but their children would know the way home at the proper season next year. "How can anyone say there is no God?" she asked.

That night we went the American Legion Post. Most of the men were sunbrowned and heavy muscled. The music was loud. The evening grew progressively moist. And friendly. All the men and women wanted to say "Hi" to Irene's friend.

Irene didn't care much for booze, but she could dance up a storm. Almost a professional dancer in her youth, she knew how to keep her feet out of the way of clodhoppers, including me. She almost convinced me that I could dance.

The next morning we went to the Methodist Church. It was very much the church many of us remember. Some of our pals of the night before were looking a bit repentant. All the people looked respectable and starchy. We belted out "Onward, Christian Soldiers" and some other hymns and sat bolt upright while the preacher explained about the danger of sin.

Then Sunday dinner, a little more lavish than the others.

What did the weekend mean to me? Well, it meant that there is more to life than private grief. It meant that we must face each day with whatever joy we can muster. It meant that we must face our beautiful, dreadful world with whatever courage we can find. It meant that we must have a sense of comradeship — I felt that at both the American Legion and the church. But, above all, we must love one another.

That isn't easy. The poet Auden may have improved on Jesus when he wrote:

"You must love your crooked neighbor
"With your crooked heart."

THE VIRGIN CHURCH MOUSE

There are certain kinds of Christians one doesn't like — perhaps because they don't like themselves.

Madge was one of them. We were both in our early 20s. She was always hanging around my mother. Her clothes were dowdy, her posture was sloppy, her eyes were clouded by dirty glasses, and her conversation was beyond belief. She knew how to combine piety with nastiness in a most artistic way.

Madge never missed a church function — and her sect seemed to have about 20 a week.

Then she surprised everyone by announcing that she was going to be a missionary to the Navajo. "Poor Indians," I thought, "haven't they suffered enough already?"

We didn't see Madge for three years. When she came home on leave from Arizona we were surprised. She was slim and straight and almost as brown as an Indian. And she was proud.

She had learned first aid. She had learned the art of midwifery. She could ride horses and drive a truck. She was not afraid of mountains and deserts. She loved her Indian friends because they needed her.

Of course she was still Madge, "the Virgin Church Mouse." No one ever really changes his character. But everyone can change the direction of the character he has.

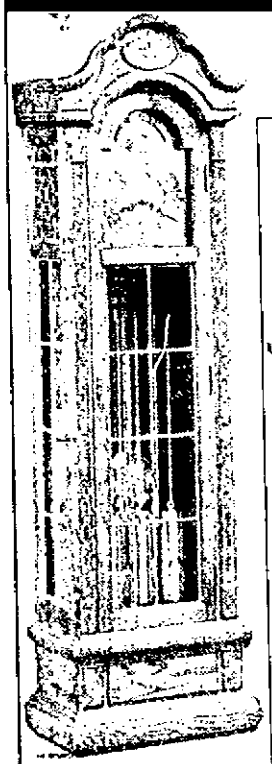

...Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool. Isaiah 1:18.

Our beautiful churches

California Heights United Methodist Church, 3759 Orange Ave., is at once dramatic and traditional in architectural style. It is one of the many churches of the Long Beach area that deserve more than a glance from lovers of beauty.

In my Father's house are many mansions: If it were not so, I would have told you . . . John 14:2.

As thou hast sent me into the world, even so have I also sent them into the world. John 17:18.

By grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God. Ephesians 2:8.

Cure for loneliness

Christian students living as families

By MARK CLUTTER

Should young, single, Christian men and women live unsupervised in the same house?

"It is working out very well," said Dr. Edward E. Ray, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, 759 Linden Ave.

Two of those who are directly involved with the community houses wholeheartedly agreed. They are Sandy Dager, 23, of the Dayspring House, 6481 El Roble, just off the LBSU campus, and the Rev. Dave Ellingson, 28, executive director of Lutheran Campus Ministries. Sandy, a graduate student, hopes to go to seminary and become an ordained minister. Ellingson is working on his doctorate.

Of course, the first question anyone asks about a commune of young people is "What about sex?"

Sandy laughed. "Well, if we had to do it, I guess we would have to go into a park and hide under a bush. We don't have much privacy in the house. We are young people and have the usual stresses, but that is not what this is about. It is a family."

Dave added: "Ours is a lonely world. State University and City College are especially lonely. They are like factories. And many homes are not really homes. We try to give people a sense of belonging and sharing."

There are three house — Dayspring; Sonrise, 7036 Stearns St., and Downtown House, 931 Maine Ave. Downtown includes married couples, the elderly and singles. None of them have large numbers. Both Dayspring and Sonrise have fewer than ten. Dayspring started three years ago.

For young students it is hard to imagine a more economical way of life. The rent is $40 a month, the food bill $5 a week.

"We have lots of cookbooks," Sandy said. "It takes some planning to get people properly fed on that money."

"We believe that the world must reduce consuming. We're not vegetarians but we believe that people must start eating more wisely," Dave said.

Not every young person can move in. The applicant must submit a personal resume and be interviewed. The residents are all Christian although of various denominations.

There are few house rules. Each person must do his stint as cook and as dishwasher. All are expected for "family dinner" each night. There is a morning devotion. Dayspring has a weekly Bible study which is open to all interested students.

"The Lutheran tradition is one of conserving and at the same time being liberal," Dr. Ray said. "We seek to apply Christ to daily life. That is what we are trying to do in these houses. We hope we are setting a pattern that other churches will follow."

"It's amazing how much people can grow in our environment," Dave said. "They learn, some of them for the first time, how to live with others."

Lutheran for busing

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The president of the American Lutheran Church has called upon all his group's congregations to support court-ordered desegregation programs and work toward equal educational opportunity in their communities.

Dr. David W. Preus said "The busing of students has occasioned no more difficulties in those communities where school desegregation is an issue than in the thousands of communities where young people are regularly bused because of distance from school.

However, in a few communities, efforts to provide equal educational opportunity through desegregation and busing "have met with fear, hatred and even violence," he said.

"There are no winners when this happens, he said. "Everyone suffers unnecessarily."

"In communities where this occurs I ask American Luthern Church members to give active support to the required desegregation programs and to those responsible for implementing them," he said.

Methodists set goals

PORTLAND, ORE. (AP) — Delegates to the United Methodist General Conference have been urged to recruit one million new members by 1984, the 200th anniversary of American Methodism.

Bishop James S. Thomas of Des Moines, Iowa, set the goal and also called for donations of $200 million in new funds by the same date. Bishop Thomas' challenges have been approved by all 59 active and 43 retired bishops of the Church.

Viet paper in Missouri

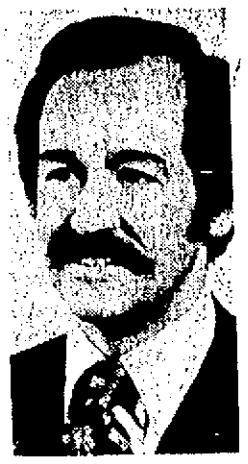

CARTHAGE, MO. (AP) — "Tu-Si Viet-Nam Da Lam, Viec Moi La Tai Ozarks, "read the headline in the newspaper filled with stories and information in Vietnamese.

But the paper was published in the Ozarks as a special section of the Mirror, the weekly newspaper of the Roman Catholic diocese of Springfield-Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Brothers and priests of the Vietnamese Congregation of the Blessed Mother Co-Redemptrix live in Carthage. They fled Saigon when South Vietnam was overrun by the North Vietnamese.

The special section in the group's native language links the 167 brothers and priests to diocesan and other funcions.

And he said to the woman, Thy faith hath saved thee; go in peace. Luke 7:50.

Jewish 'Bill of Rights'

NEW YORK (AP) — Agudath Israel of America, an Orthodox Jewish organization that sponsors diversified programs for Jews, has published a "Bill of Rights" for Jewish hospital patients.

While the Agudath form is not legally binding, the organization said, however, "We are confident that a polite but forceful request for any or all of these rights will be honored."

The "Bill of Rights" includes such things as being served Kosher food, deferred advance payment until the close of the Sabbath or a festival, observance of Jewish rituals where not "medically counterindicated," refusal of outpatient appointments scheduled for the Sabbath or festivals, and the right to consult with spiritual advisers before deciding whether to undergo medical procedures that might pose religious questions.

Ford grant

NEW YORK (AP) — A $50,000 Ford Foundation grant has been made to the communications office of the United Church of Christ to continue its eight-year-old program to combat racial discrimination in broadcasting.

Birth rate worries Jews

NEW YORK (AP) — A low birth rate among Jews and a high intermarriage rate have been cited as factors that could deplete American and Israeli Jewish communities.

William Berman, executive director of the Jewish Population Regeneration Union, said "To maintain its numbers any group must average 2.5 children per family. The Jewish birth rate, however, is estimated at 1.5 per family."

"Coupled with an intermarriage rate of 40 per cent in the U.S., a dismal picture emerges. Sociologists maintain that if the present birth-intermarriage rate continues, American Jewry will be reduced to a paltry remnant within four generations, with the present rate of decline calculated at more than 100,000 per year," Berman wrote in the Jewish Journal.

He said that if the birth rate of Jews in Israel remains similarly low, "Israeli Arabs will populate the Jewish state out of existence."

Churches get more members

NEW YORK (AP) — Membership in religious bodies in the United States has risen after losing ground in recent years, according to the National Council of Churches.

The Council released a Yearbook of American and Canadian Churches that reported 132,287,450 persons are members of religious groups, a gain of 1,042,311, or less than 1 per cent, over 1974.

The yearbook also showed that the percentage of the U.S. population holding formal membership in churches in 1975, 62.3 per cent, was up from the 1974 otal of 61.9 per cent.

Constant Jacquet Jr., editor of the yearbook, said 223 religious bodies in the United States were surveyed. He said a factor in church growth seemed to be "aggressive missionary activity, efforts by religious groups to reach people in many situations."

The highest rates of growth were recorded by the Roman Catholic Church, the Southern Baptist Convention, the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-day Saints (Mormon), the Assemblies of God, and Jehovah's Witnesses.

For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men. Titus 2:11.

POSITIVE THINKING
by Norman Vincent Peale

Where You Want To Go

I once asked a newspaper editor, "How did you get to be the editor of this important paper?"

"I wanted to be," was his simple reply.

"Is that all there is to it?" I asked. "You wanted to be, and so here you are?"

"Well," he explained, "that's only part of it, but it's a large part. If you want to get somewhere, you have to decide definitely on your goal, what you want to be or attain or accomplish. Be sure, of course, that it's a right objective. Then photograph that objective on your mind. Hold it there tenaciously, work hard, and the mental image will become so powerful that it will tend to assure success."

He pulled a worn card from his wallet and handed it to me. "I read this every day of my life," he said. "It has become my dominating thought."

I copied down the words on the card. They were: "A man who is self-reliant, positive, optimistic and undertakes his work with the assurance of success magnetizes his condition; he draws to himself the creative powers of the universe."

It is, indeed, a fact that a person who thinks with a postive, self-reliant and optimistic point of view does magnetize his condition and acquires the power to attain his goals. On the other hand, people who are hazy about their aims find that such nonobjective thinking defeats their own efforts and so they never manage to find the satisfaction of achievement. If you visualize your goal and believe in it, and work hard, your faith in yourself can really work wonders.

A second factor in getting where you want to go is to realize that there is more in you than you realize. There are astonishing things in people just groping for release. The Reader's Digest once published a thrilling story illustrating this fact. It was the story of a man who, during the depression back in the 1930's, found himself in the lobby of a hotel in a strange city on a cold winter morning with only five cents in his pocket. The clerk at the desk had just told him that his baggage had been impounded because of his failure to pay his bill and that he would not be permitted to go back to his room.

This man stood looking out the lobby window which was steamed up by the cold air outside and the warm air inside. Then he became aware that all was not lost; he still had a brain and his brain was not panicky, it was relaxed. He was able to think, and think he did.

The result was an idea: a German chemist had told him years before that if you rub glycerine soap on a window and then wipe it off with a clean cloth, the window will no longer steam up.

So he took his last nickel and with it bought a bar of glycerine soap. He sat on a park bench and cut the soap into twenty-four small pieces. Then he went to the nearest filling station and showed the manager how to keep a windshield from fogging up by rubbing it with his soap and wiping it off with dry cloth. He sold the whole lot for twenty-four times what he had paid for it. He replenished his supply, and, by the end of that day, starting out broke, he had made twenty-seven dollars. Three months later he owned a new automobile and had a thousand dollars in cash in the bank. He named his new product "Miracle Rub".

Now, where was this "Miracle Rub" before it was produced? All the time it had been hidden away back in this man's mind. He had the ability to think and to store up ideas. Also he did not panic, permitting him to relax in a crisis so that his brain could function properly and release its idea power when that power was most needed.

"A man's life is what his thoughts make it," said Marcus Aurelius, one of the world's wisest men. And the most powerful releasing agent for effective thinking is faith — faith in God and faith in yourself. That faith can release powers that lie dormant within you. It can set creative forces in motion. It can permit your personality to function freely and forcefully.

Male, female

NEW YORK (AP) — To 10 new cardinals designated by Pope Paul VI —all men— the head of the U.S. section of the St. Joan International Alliance, Francis McGillicuddy, sent UNICEF greeting cards showing a drawing of a tree-full of red cardinals, and appended this note:

"When God created cardinals, male and female created he them."

Executions

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — After an examination of the question, a commission of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod says that "according to the Holy Scriptures and the Lutheran Confessions, the government has the authority to apply the death penalty," but it "can be abused" and the "government is not required to exercise its right to administer it."

No longer black
Muslim tells Islam's role

By MARK CLUTTER

The Black Muslims are no longer all black. They are simply Americans devoted to the faith of Islam.

"Everyone is welcome in our mosques," said Carl Saafir, assistant to the minister at Muhammad's Temple No. 42, 2104 Orange Ave.

The Muslims are also seeking deeper understanding with Christians. There will be a "Community Spiritual Jubilee" at the Los Angeles Convention Center, 1201 S. Figueroa, Sunday beginning at 11 a.m. The principal speakers will be the Honorable Wallace D. Muhammad, chief minister of the Nation of Islam, and Rev. Jim Jones of the People's Temple Christian Church. Saafir predicted that 30,000 persons will attend.

Saafir said that the mosque here is small, a little over 300 members, but that the Muslims number 100,000 in Los Angeles and Orange counties.

The Muslims in America have been changing, he said. They are in a way more Muslim as they have become more sophisticated in the teachings of Islam. They have better understanding of their fellow religionists in the Eastern world. And they are less racist.

"At the beginning we had the heritage of slavery to overcome. We were never enemies to white people or to Christians. But we had problems to work out," he said.

Morality on all levels is emphasized. "We get truth and knowledge from the Holy Quran," he said, "but we also study the Bible."

The American Muslims don't accept the stern practices of some of those of the East. "We teach that it is wrong to drink alcohol because it harms the body," he said, "but we aren't about to worry about whether a member has bottles in his refrigerator. That's his business. He is a free man."

Women are also free. No harems, no purdah, no subjection. "I don't bosss my wife around. Women are free to work at jobs. We even have women ministers. These are American women."

The doctrine does hold, however, that men and women have very different roles. Motherhood and homemaking are the first duties of women.

Some of the women used to wear rather glamorous long gowns

with hoods. That custom has fallen into decline. But both men and women are expected to dress neatly and in dignity.

The pastor of Temple No. 42 is Bro. Min. Henry Abdullah. Meeting times are Wednesday and Friday, 8 p.m., and Sunday, 2 p.m. Meetings are simple — no music, no liturgy, just prayers and reading from the Quran, followed by discusssion.

"Everyone is welcome. Please come," Saafir said.

Review
Modern view of Decalog

This witty, chatty, philosophical book by the pastor of Lakewood First Presbyterian Church should be of value to confused Christians. (Are there any other kind?)

Most of us tend to think of the Ten Commandments as some words carved in stone a long time ago. Like granite, they are hard, cold, rigid and can bruise one. They sometimes seem more suitable to a savage people walking around in the Sinai Desert.

That is not Pastor Sueltz's view at all. The Ten Commanments are more than harsh "Thou Shalt Nots." They are statements of deathless principles for all men in all times. But they must be thought about in terms of the world in which we live.

He talks about the ancient words in the sense of Now. He is not puritan or dogmatic or harsh. Rather, he believes that the Ten Commandments can help us live better lives spite of all sophistica folly.

Aid sought for Viets

WASHINGTON, D. (AP) — An interdenomi tional delegation of chu leaders has returned fr a two-week visit to V nam, saying churc there are vigorous, a urging U.S. help for building the war-to country.

"Such devastation h been brought to that n tion that it is imperati that the government of t United States respond wi symbolic and substanti help," says United Meth odist Bishop James A Armstrong of Aberdeen S.D., one of the six-mem ber delegation.

"Americans should be helping and American Christians have a respon sibility in Vietnam," says Benard A. Confer, head of Lutheran World Relief, who made the trip. Now that the country is reunited, he adds, "we ought to stand by them and help them to get going."

Pastors, man your posts!

BAD GANDERSHEIM, West Germany (AP) — A pastor should stay where he is needed, says a Lutheran bishop from Communist-ruled East Germany. Bishop Werner Krusche made the comment in regard to reports that an increasing number of clergymen want to leave East Germany. He told a conference of European church leaders here that the established church is dying out in East Germany, but "preaching of the gospel" will go on.

LETTERS

Witnesses

I feel it only proper to make a reply to Mr. Jeff A. Smith concerning his letter about Jehovah's witnesses and Christians in an attempt to enlighten him and those who think like him.

Firstly, I find it a strange set of standards when he remarks that he was shocked at someone calling themselves Christians and yet he was not at all shocked about people (whether Christians or not) being persecuted by others. If the world were populated by Christians, then persecution and all other forms of inhuman treatment would not be in evidence.

Secondly, his statement that the doctrines of Jehovah's witnesses differ totally from Christianity is absurd and shows a complete lack of understanding and knowledge concerning the meaning of being "Christian." In essence it means to be Christ-like or to be followers of Christ in all things. In this respect, Jesus Christ's only earthly purpose was to preach the good news of his father's (Jehovah) Kingdom and to teach those who would listen concerning the things that were to occur. Jehovah's witnesses are the only organization on earth that are following in Jesus' footsteps in this important, commanded work (Mathew 28:19).

Jehovah's witnesses have not prophesied concerning Jesus' return but have only related the scriptures which show when Jesus said he would return. In the 24th Chapter of Mathew, starting in verse 3, Jesus was asked by his disciples what would be the sign of his presence and he answered by describing the composite sign which we all can recognize as starting in 1914. A study of this Chapter in the Bible would help Mr. Smith to also recognize where we are in these last days, and what is required of all Christians if they desire any possibility of living through the great tribulation.

If Jeff is interested in studying the Bible with one of Jehovah's Christian witnesses, I know the Lakewood congregation would be pleased to make the necessary arrangements.

MONDAY ?????????

T.S.T.S., Inc.-76

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: From early episodes of fundamental change, redirection, the rest of the year is a response to challenge, a steady application of growing skills. Relationships multiply, making critical choices inevitable. Today's natives are versatile in philosophy and the arts. Their perspective is based on pattern-sensing ability, cause-and-effect connections strung out over a period of time.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Discount emotional expressions from those trying to influence you. Keep moderate habits. Avoid any exposure to contagion, overdoing physical exercise.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): You notice something that has escaped attention up till now. Discretion saves interruption of group effort. Avoid using heavy mechanical equipment.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): You respond to everything you hear. You also go much too far in remarking on other people's behavior. Focus on thrifty self-control.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Money spent on trivia adds up rapidly. Draw the line early. Your intended helpful criticism is classified as nagging. Let people learn for themselves.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): It's better to be a stay-at-home, do-little type than to rush about seeking recognition. Unexpected happenings require thought, analysis before you react.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Realize that you're doing as well as is reasonable, that your perspective is probably distorted. Forgive yourself and others. Make no drastic moves.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): With everybody's patience coming to an end, you have to exercise diplomacy and accept people as they are. Budgets are upset. Ride out conflict.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Moderation in all areas is essential. Self-discipline is rewarding as you guard against criticism. Leave repairs to experts during work-week hours.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Impatience is the general mood, some of it from annoyance, some from anticipation of a delayed experience. Give each person full recognition.

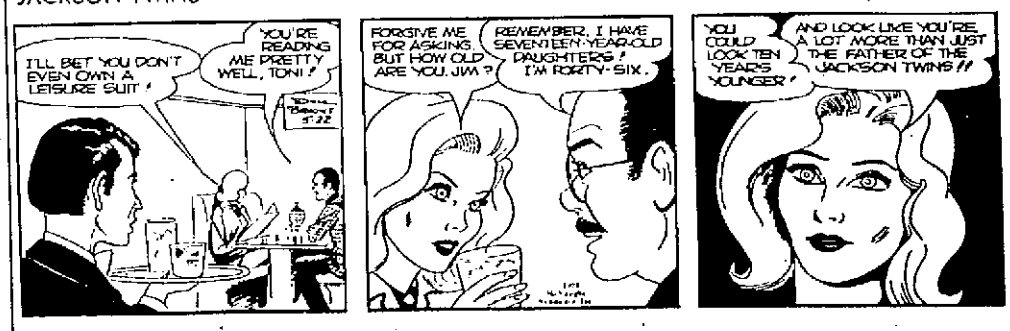

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You please very few people, so you may as well do as you wish. Check where your money is going, and be sure you get what you pay for.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Discuss only present topics, let the past rest. Keep your composure during newcomers' intense scrutiny. Don't be upset by it.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Hold on to your wallet and all that's in it, you're surrounded by both temptation and greedy fingers. Make your community appearance, then settle back.

'We'll be active citizens,' chief vows

Norris sees rapid growth in L.B.

By RICHARD HOWLAND
Staff Writer

Norris Industries will continue its rapid growth of profits in building, industrial and defense products after its move to new headquarters in Long Beach, and will work to strengthen its corporate identity in Southern California, President H.J. Meany told this month's meeting of the Long Beach Bond Club.

Construction of the Norris worldwide headquarters at the southwest corner of Ocean Boulevard and Golden Shore will begin in about six months.

About 50 executives will move from Vernon to occupy the new building a year later.

"I can assure you we intend to be good citizens of Long Beach and will participate in community activities," Meany said at the meeting of the Bond Club at the Queensway Hilton last week.

For the quarter ending March 1, Norris reported the company's highest earnings, which rose from 65 cents a share on revenues of $2,652,000 a year ago to $1.80 a share on revenues of $7,181,000. Net sales increased from $92 million to $102 million.

"It is too early to tell whether earnings for the entire year will maintain this very respectable 7.7 per cent net return on sales. But we do look for a new yearly record," Meany said.

He pointed out that Norris has a very good balance of business, with half of last year's sales in building products, more than a quarter in industrial products and the remainder in defense products.

"Our building products business has felt the effects of the welcome upturn in construction that began during the second half last year," he said. "Our building products are spread widely, with lines in bathroom and kitchen plumbing, hardware, and appliances.

"For about two years we have been placing greater emphasis on the remodeling and replacement markets for our building products to reduce our dependence on new construction activity subject to cyclical swings."

He added that the United States is going to have to build 15 to 20 million new homes in the next 10 years and Norris can do very well in a housing market of that size even if the market should fluctuate from year to year.

The Norris industrial products — automobile wheels, wheel covers and compressed gas cylinders — have benefited from the surge in automobile buying that began late last year, Meany said.

He quoted government predictions of almost 10 million new domestic car sales — not a record, but well above recession levels.

Defense work by Norris — metal ordnance products such as steel cartridge cases — will continue downward, Meany said, but last year the company more than tripled research and development expenditures, and "we intend to bid for work that we can handle profitably." Commercial growth will offset the decline in military volume, he noted.

The only real problem Meany spoke of was a lack of a widely recognized corporate identity, despite the fact that Norris ranks 419th among the most recent list of top 500 industrials compiled by Fortune magazine, which is a higher ranking than the well known Hughes Tool Co.

Fortune also has ranked the company 46th in total return to investors during the past 10 years.

Meany said Norris is recognized as a leading producer of locks used in housing, bathroom and kitchen faucets, porcelain-on-steel bathtubs, automotive wheel covers and ammunition metal parts hardware.

"The trouble is we would like more people to know these things," Meany said. "Sure, we're well known to building contractors, durable goods producers and the armed forces. But somehow we are failing to be newsworthy (in California) even though we are getting good coverage nationally."

Last year Norris ran a series of television commercials to improve the company's identity in Southern California.

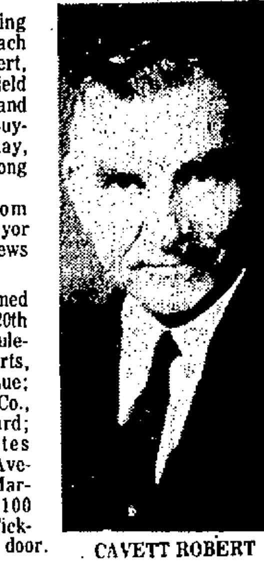

This year the firm expects to send speakers to more financial groups such as the Bond Club and is planning more interviews with financial writers.

Norris has begun sponsoring a financial news report over radio station KFAC that opens the market at 7:05 a.m. For several years the company has sponsored racing cars for increased name recognition.

"That covers one of our so-called problems," Meany said. "There's another step we feel we must take to achieve an even more ideal business balance than we now have. This is to get Norris more into the capital goods type of business."

He concluded that the company's executives are still quite young (the top 12 officers average 53 years) and the future is excellent.

Robert will address Buy-Selltennial Rally

CAVETT ROBERT

Sales and Marketing Executives of Long Beach will hear Cavett Robert, noted speaker in the field of human engineering and motivation, at their Buy-Selltennial Rally Tuesday, 7:30 p.m. at the Long Beach Elks Club.

Emcee will be Tom Wayman, honorary mayor of Long Beach and news director of KMPC.

Tickets may be obtained at Mel Burns Ford, 20th and Long Beach Boulevard; Jim Gray Imports, Inc., 3515 Atlantic Avenue; Rex L. Hodges Realty Co., 2915 Bellflower Boulevard; Davis and Associates Advertising, 320 Pine Avenue; and Sales and Marketing Executives, 100 Oceangate, suite 422. Tickets also will be at the door.

By RALPH HINMAN Jr.
Staff Writer

Although world trade already is of major significance to Douglas Aircraft and other large elements of the Long Beach economy, smaller companies here were urged this week by a government specialist to become involved internationally.

And what is true for Long Beach also applies to California and the United States, pointed out Commerce Department foreign trade specialist Leslie A. Doak.

During a Long Beach Area Chamber of Commerce breakfast meeting at the Queen's Restaurant, Doak called for more involvement in world trade by smaller business firms, here and elsewhere, and set forth an economic paradox.

"Last year," he said, "the United States shipped more than $100 billion in exports to countries throughout the world. Nearly three million jobs are directly related to that trade."

However, paradoxically, "Even though there are excellent opportunities in world trade, and despite assistance available from the Commerce Department and organizations such as the Long Beach Chamber, only eight per cent of all American manufacturers now are in the export trade."

(The chamber here is designated a Commerce Department "associate office" and provides technical assistance to shippers, Ron Watson, executive vice president, pointed out.)

In 1975, "27 million tons of goods worth nearly $5 billion passed through the Port of Long Beach," Doak continued. "This made the port — with its related businesses — the largest single group or category of employers here."

Exporting helps pay the cost of importing materials lacking in a country otherwise "blessed with an abundance of resources," Doak said.

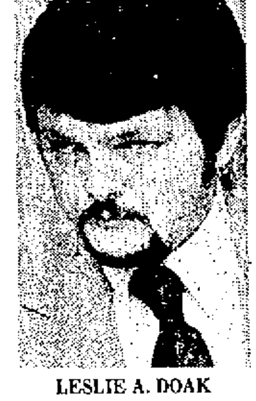

Among major imports required are oil, (45 per cent of the total supply now is imported); chrome, 100 per cent imported; tin, 100 per cent; cobalt, magnesium, nichel and platinum, 95 per cent each; coffee, tea and many spices, import data lacking.

"All of these goods must be bought and paid for by exports" he said. And while the nation as a whole gains by maintaining a "balance of payments," there are significant benefits accruing to individual firms who sell their products abroad.

Listing some some of these benefits, Doak said exporting:

- "Permits larger production runs and facilitates full capacity operations";
- Extends business horizons by expanding old markets while developing new ones;
- "Cushions the shock of business downturns or economic recessions at home";
- "Can lead to innovative marketing techniques and accumulation of new technologies, capital and ideas."

Doak concluded that "Most importantly, exporting can result in substantial new profits and continuous growth for our companies."

Chamber honors 2 concerns

Two firms were honored this week by the Long Beach Area Chamber of Commerce for their international trade activities.

Koppel Inc. of Long Beach, and Korody-Colyer Corp., Wilmington, received the civic group's first annual World Trade award. Selection was made by the chamber's world trade committee, chaired by Mary Bleming.

Koppel, organized in 1957, merchandises grains and vegetable oils, providing terminal service for grains, vegetable oils and petrochemicals while handling and storing imported automobiles.

Korody-Colyer manufactures replacement parts for diesel engines and is involved in international sales and service.

Gabor Korody is president, John Colyer vice president and Cemal Baris directs international marketing.

Todd loss for fiscal year told

Todd Shipyards Corp. has reported a net loss of $1,350,056 for the year ended March 31, equivalent to 91 cents per share.

Total sales for the year were $245,341,440 compared with $204,015,098 for the preceding year, when Todd's net loss was $43,358,635, equivalent to $29.23 per share.

The net loss of $1.4 million for the year just ended was computed after recognizing additional losses of $16.6 million on certain fixed-price construction contracts and after deducting a $4.2 million loss from discontinued operations.

FOR THE three-month ended March 31, after providing for possible added costs of $7.8 million to complete cetain fixed-price contracts, the net loss was $2,884,080, or $1.94 per share, on sales of $60,614,936.

This compares with a net loss of $42,063,723 or $28.36 per share on sales of $20,620,257 during the comparable earlier period.

The company forcast a profit for the first quarter of the current year, and also for the whole year, because of six factors.

THEY ARE (1) the winding down of certain fixed-price programs, (2) the achieving of a Navy award of contracts for the construction of six guided missile frigates (FFG class), (3) an aggressive marketing program to obtain additional repair business, including the strengthening of its agent representation, (4) capitalizing on the current trend of cargo ship conversions, (5) the expected favorable settlement of claims, and (6) the reduction of approximately $9 million in outstanding indebtedness.

Dow off after brief rally

Market ends week down

NEW YORK (AP) — Money-supply and interest-rate worries drove stock prices lower Friday, canceling most of the gains of the previous day's rally.

The Dow Jones industrial average took a 6.52-point loss at 990.75, ending another rather lackluster week with a net decline of 1.85 points.

Stocks falling in price topped gainers by about an 8-5 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Big Board volume tailed off to 18.73 million shares, compared with 22.56 million on Thursday.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed stocks, including trades on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 22.03 million shares as of the 4 p.m. New York close.

The scene for Friday's selloff was set as the market was closing on Thursday. At that time the Federal Reserve reported a sharp, $2 billion increase in the nation's basic money supply, which touched off fears on Wall Street that short-term interest rates would continue their recent climb.

Those fears apparently were not allayed by the news as the market opened Friday that Citibank was keeping its prime rate unchanged at 6¾ per cent.

Wall Street's worries about rising interest rates are based on concern that the economic recovery could be slowed, and that interest-bearing investments might begin to draw investment dollars away from stocks.

The market also appeared to be discouraged by the failure of a weak recovery attempt soon after the noon hour. The Dow had been down about four points in the morning, rallied about two points, and then retreated more sharply toward the close when the recovery failed to catch fire.

Some analysts said Friday's decline was partly due to profit-taking following Thursday's 8.37-point advance. Delta Air Lines saw heavy dealings, and lost a fraction. A 311,000-share block crossed at 45.

Amstar gained nearly a point. The sugar company raised its quarterly dividend and proposed a 2 for 1 stock split.

North American Coal surged more than two points during the session. The company said it knew no reason for the stock's gain.

Rockwell International, the main contractor for the B1 bomber, fell nearly two points. The Senate voted Thursday to postpone until next February its decision on whether to go ahead with production of the controversial plane.

Xerox was actively traded and gave up more than a point following Thursday's 3½-point climb. The rise on Thursday reflected the company's statement it is looking into a dividend increase.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was down 0.74 at 101.76, while the NYSE's composite stock index fell 0.34 at 53.97.

At the American Exchange, the market-value index dropped 0.06 to 104.76. On the over-the-counter market, the NASDAQ composite index lost 0.14 to 89.39.

Destroying myths of big money managers

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK — "Money managers are a jittery lot and feel most comfortable when they are worrying," said the securities firm in a report to customers on why so many "myths" exist in the stock market today.

"They worry when they are in the consensus of investment thinking, and they worry when they are outside of it. They constantly try to extend the forecasting horizon beyond what is realistically visible and analyzable ..."

That analysis seems to suggest that money managers are similar to other normal people, even if their particular job calls for handling millions of dollars in a fat stock portfolio rather than a few dollars in a thin wallet.

But Goldman Sachs, the firm that made this unusual analysis, isn't concerned with the similarities of people so much as in destroying what it says are the prevailing myths that many big money managers currently accept.

Myth One: "Most institutional market participants are fully invested, and hence, there is not sufficient sidelined cash to fuel a market advance."

Goldman Sachs' explanation: As with many myths, there is some truth connected with this belief.

Mutual fund cash reserves have been nearly depleted, at about 6.1 per cent of assets. And cash reserves for most other major market participants probably have fallen to 5-10 per cent from 10-15 per cent six to nine months ago.

"However, the market rose about 15 per cent in 1972 when mutual fund cash as a per cent of total assets averaged about 5.5 per cent and the industry was in a net redemption position during the last 11 months of the year."

Recent history, herefore, doesn't support this widely held "truth."

Myth Two: "Tightening monetary policy and rising short-term interest rates will send the market lower."

Explanation: "We doubt that there are many investors today who do not anticipate rising short-term interest rates in the period ahead. In our view, if the rise in rates is gradual and does not worry 90-day Treasuries much above 6 per cent, the stock market can advance from current levels."

Again, recent history does not support the widely held notion. From mid-1962 to yearend 1965 the market rose along with rising Treasury bill rates. It did so again in 1968 and in 1972.

Myth Three: "The historically wide spread — 5 per cent — between bond yields and stock dividend returns renders stocks unattractive relative to bonds."

Explanation: "We have always been a proponent of the theory that bond yields play an important role in stock valuation. However, historically, the bond-stock yield differential has been a poor forecaster ..."

The key question investors must ask themselves, says Goldman Sachs, is whether the inflation that drove up bond yields will eventually do the same thing for earnings and dividends.

"It has been our contention for some time that we are likely to see an increase in corporate profits' share of national income over the next five years, resulting in profits rising more rapidly than nominal Gross National Product."

If bond rates remain stable, the analysis continues, there is room for profits and stock prices to grow.

Myth Four: "The rate of inflation, as measured by the Consumer Price Index, will escalate significantly in 1977, bringing with it declining stock prices."

Explanation: Again, says Goldman Sachs, there is an element of truth in the myth. Inflation is indeed widely expected to accelerate in 1977. But that, it adds, doesn't mean stock prices will automatically drop.

"The key question again is whether the inflation that pushes bond yields up will also find its way into profit growth," the securities firm argues. And its own answer to the question is that, yes, it will.

Summation: "We are in a primary bull market, though the extreme degree of undervaluation has been removed and the easy money has been made."

Soupy Sales will try 'Almost Anything Jr.'

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — I've always been a fan of Soupy Sales. His old nighttime TV shows always struck me as a nifty blend of Marx Brothers, Brother Dave "Rejoice, Dear Hearts" Gardner, Ernie Kovacs and flying cream pies.

So it was good news to hear that after too many years spent batting about on game shows and appearing on others' variety shows, Soupy will be back in September headlining his own show for ABC.

No matter that it's a Saturday morning kid show called "Jr. Anything Goes," a pee-wee version of a flop nighttime series that featured citizens participating in outlandish sports contests.

WEIRD things always happen when Sales runs a show. In fact, weird things were happening this week when he was theoretically being interviewed about the new show at a chow hall theatrical folks flavor.

Nearby diners appeared to be looking for the man with the butterfly net as Sales spoke of a new movie he plans to film at his apartment building, where garbage is piling up because of a strike by Fun City's apartment workers.

"It's going to be a musical sequel to "Ben," he said, his voice rising with the thrill of the project. "Right now, we're looking for a rat who can sing."

Sales, a North Carolina boy raised in Huntington, W.Va., hit it big on television in Detroit in1953. But greater fame came in later years when celebrities started appearing on his shows — Frank Sinatra, among them — for the sole purpose of getting hit in the puss by a pie.

PIE-THROWING and receiving is a Sales legend. For historians of the art, he was asked about the first time a pie flew on one of his shows.

Soupy said it happened in Cleveland, in 1950, at WEXL-TV, where he did a live show with a wee budget. The studio was in the country. It was there he happened to meet a farmer with a horse.

"He said, 'Whah doan yew use mah horse on your show?'" Soupy recalled. "I says, 'Okay,' And the director says, 'What are you going to do with a horse?'

"I say, 'Getme a loin cloth and a feather and a sign that says 'Son of Cochise,' because in those days 'Broken Arrow' with Jeff Chandler and Michael Ansara was a very big movie.

"So we set the camera up, we put the farmer in a U.S. cavalry uniform, and me and my loin cloth and feather come galloping over the hill on his horse, me hanging on for dear life. I got to where he was standing and I fell off.

"THEN I said, 'White man come take away Indian country, take away buffalo, take away squaw, take away happy hunting ground. What is left for Indian?' And the guy hit me with a pie."

Although most people think of Soupy as a pie-thrower, he says he's the one who usually gets hit, "because throwing 'em makes you a heavy. They usually come at the tag line of a joke.

"Like a guy comes to the door, says, 'Would you give ten dollars to help the Old Ladies' Home, and I say, 'Why, are they out again?' And BLAM!"

For the record, Soupy's lunch during the interview consisted of the swordfish platter and two glasses of wine. But no pie.

54,752 see Yeager's homer cap 2-1 win

By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

The 1976 baseball season hasn't even reached the one-quarter pole, but the Dodgers are convinced they're going to be around when the race reaches the wire.

"We're playing very good fundamental baseball, and if we continue we'll win this thing," Steve Yeager said Friday night after he popped his sixth home run to send the Dodgers to their fourth consecutive victory, 2-1, over the Houston Astros.

A Dodger Stadium Cap Night crowd of 54,752 (53,568 paid) flipped their lids when Yeager unloaded off Houston's James Rodney Richard in the seventh inning, breaking a 1-1 deadlock and enabling the Dodgers to continue a remarkable streak that began one month ago.

The Dodgers have won nine of their last 11 games, 21 of their last 25 and 13 out of 14 at home—and they have jumped 2½ games in front of Cincinnati in the National League West.

"I'd like to have one more streak like this, then take my chances with the other games," said manager Walter Alston, sounding very much like a man with pennant on his mind.

The latest victory was hardly an easy one.

The Dodgers took a 1-0 lead in the second inning on Bill Russell's run-scoring single.

Burt Hooton, coming off a shutout victory over the Pirates, blanked the Astros on one hit for five innings. But in the sixth a two-out walk to Greg Gross and singles by Rob Andrews and Jose Cruz tied the score.

Yeager untied it an inning later with his homer—the fifth time the Dodger catcher has produced the game-winning RBI.

"He's hit a lot of key home runs for us," noted Alston, "and he's improved as a hitter. He's more selective at the plate than he used to be."

A .228 hitter last year, Yeager has climbed to .283 and he's already hit half as many homers as in all of last season.

"I'm probably not a .300 hitter," he said, "but I'm not a .228 hitter either. I just want to get the average up and try to help the club offensively as well as defensively."

Of Hooton, who has won four successive decisions, Yeager said:

"He pitched a magnificent game tonight. Spring training definitely is over for him. He's just like he was last year."

But he needed a clutch defensive play by first baseman Steve Garvey in the seventh to bail him out of a jam.

The Astros had runners at first and second with two out when Richard sent a bounder toward third. Ed Goodson, playing in place of injured Ron Cey, gloved the ball but threw high to first. Garvey leaped high to snare the throw and, while still in the air, managed to tag the 6-8 Richard for the third out.

"That was the play of the game," Yeager said, momentarily forgetting his own contribution.

Lakewood, Jordan playoff winners

End of a rally

El Segundo catcher John Voight awaits David Pina of Lakewood at home plate, and gets final out in third inning Friday. Pina was attempting to score from second. Lakewood struck for six runs in the third and posted 9-2 CIF decision.

Lancers pound out 13 hits, 9-2

By KEN PIVERNETZ
Staff Writer

The one thing John Herbold wouldn't want to see happen at this stage of the season is to have someone place Lakewood High's bats in cold storage.

Continuing to gather hits in bunches, the Lancers pounded out a 9-2 victory Friday at El Segundo to take one more step toward the CIF 1-A baseball championship that has eluded them in the finals the last two years.

Lakewood had 13 hits Friday to run its three-game playoff total to 36 and a .419 team batting average in that span.

Everyone has contributed.

Stan Williams had three hits Friday and is 7-for-10. Willie Diaz had his second two-hit game of the week, and Don Ruzek and Mark Bonner singled twice.

"It's no secret that we have the people who can hit," said Herbold. "Matty Lampson (the school's junior varsity coach) has done an excellent scouting job, and we haven't faced anyone as tough as we saw in the Moore League."

The victory places the Lancers, 20-4-1, in the semifinals Wednesday against Chaffey, a 13-2 winner against Arcadia.

The important thing as far as Herbold is concerned is that Williams will have four days to rest a tired right arm.

Pitching with only two days between starts, Williams allowed five hits, walked three and struck out seven. Although touched for a two-run homer by Kevin Clarke, Williams fared considerably better than counterpart Bob Helsom, who was also making his third playoff start.

Helsom absorbed Lakewood's 13-hit onslaught in the friendly confines of Recreation Park in El Segundo, which measures only 310 feet down the rightfield line, 320 to straightaway center, then tails off to 330 in left.

Clarke, the No. 9 hitter, gave the Eagles a 2-0 lead in the second, depositing a Williams fast ball over the centerfield fence. Don Johnson, who had walked with one out, scored ahead of Clarke.

It was a homer that seemed to fire up the Lancers almost as much as El Segundo.

In its next at-bats, Lakewood scored six runs on seven hits and had 10 men bat in a wild inning that saw El Segundo compound Helsom's problems by committing three errors.

Williams doubled to lead off the inning, then after Alex Dovalis struck out, the next seven batters reached base. Bill Simpson, Ruzek, Diaz, Wayne Larker and Dave Pina had line-drive singles, Pina's blow in a pinch-hit role driving home two runs.

O'Toole sparks Panthers

If pitching is the name of the game, Jordan High has cornered the market in the CIF playoffs.

The Panthers continued to amaze everyone but themselves Friday night, recording their biggest surprise of the playoffs with a 2-0 shutout of No. 1 seeded Eisenhower at Blair Field.

It was Terry O'Toole's turn to sparkle on the mound, throwing a three-hitter at the Citrus Belt League champions from Rialto who entered the game with a 24-4 record.

The five strikeout, no walk effort was the second shutout by O'Toole in post-season competition. Coming on top of Herb Fauland's 1-0 win Tuesday night against El Modena, opposing teams haven't scored yet on Chuck McFerrin's team in 21 innings.

Jordan (19-7) is only one win away from an opportunity to play for the school's first-ever CIF varsity championship in any sport. The Panthers will play Camarillo, which beat El Rancho 6-2, in the semifinals on Wednesday.

O'Toole, who compared his effort to the 1-0 win against Loara, was quick to give credit to Jordan's defense.

"We've become more aggressive and the defense has come on," he said.

The slender 5-10, 140-pound senior had an excellent curve, great control—and no one could ask for more than that, he said.

"I was able to spot my pitches pretty well. I was on my game."

Almost as pleasing as the pitching was the hitting, which had been limited to four hits and one run in each of the first two playoff games.

Friday night the Panthers had seven hits, the big blows being delivered by Ed Irvine and Fauland.

Irvine, picking up where he left off Tuesday night when he tripled home the only run in the sixth inning against El Modena, doubled to deep center in his first at bat Friday.

Boos turn to cheers for Briles

Texan cools Angels, 5-2

By DON MERRY
Staff Writer

ARLINGTON, Tex. — When the trade was announced on Nov. 12, 1975, there were hisses and howls of protest emanating from Dallas-Fort Worth and surrounding environs.

The outcries were directed at Nelson Kelly Briles, a pitcher of 32 who was regarded as a retread at best and one with dubious mileage remaining.

Briles was secured by the Texas Rangers for second baseman Dave Nelson, who was dispatched to the Kansas City Royals.

"So did I," Briles acknowledged Friday night, "just by the nature of the position I was in."

You could define the position as precarious.

In two previous seasons with the Royals, Briles endured only humiliation and heartbreak, suffering a torn knee cartilage in 1974 and an elbow injury the following year, plausible explanations to 5-7 and 6-6 seasons.

This is to announce that the Texas heat is now off Briles and Lucchesi.

Long Beach State is off and running

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

Long Beach State won three of the six final events contested Friday to take a 15-point lead over favored San Jose State in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association Track and Field championships.

The 49ers used title efforts by Jim Knaub, Howard Burgess and Enricke Scott to amass 38 points, and will be bidding to end San Joses's two-year championship reign when the meet resumes today.

Decathlon competition begins at 10 a.m., field events at noon and races at 1:30 p.m.

"With one exception, I'm delighted with the way things went today," 49er coach Ron Allice said after watching nearly every athlete he sent into competition turn in a yeoman effort.

Allice's lone disappointment came in the pole vault where Australian Don Baird, who has cleared 18-2, failed to clear a height, running through the pit twice and then missing on his third attempt at 16-6.

"Someone re-marked the runway and on my first two attempts I was overstriding, trying to compensate for about five yards of distance," Baird said.

The 49er sophomore got his distances corrected for his third attempt, "but by then I was so confused I didn't get a good attempt," Baird said.

Knaub rescued the 49ers to some degree, soaring 17 feet for first place. Knaub and Fresno's Dave Lewis were the only vaulters to clear the opening height.

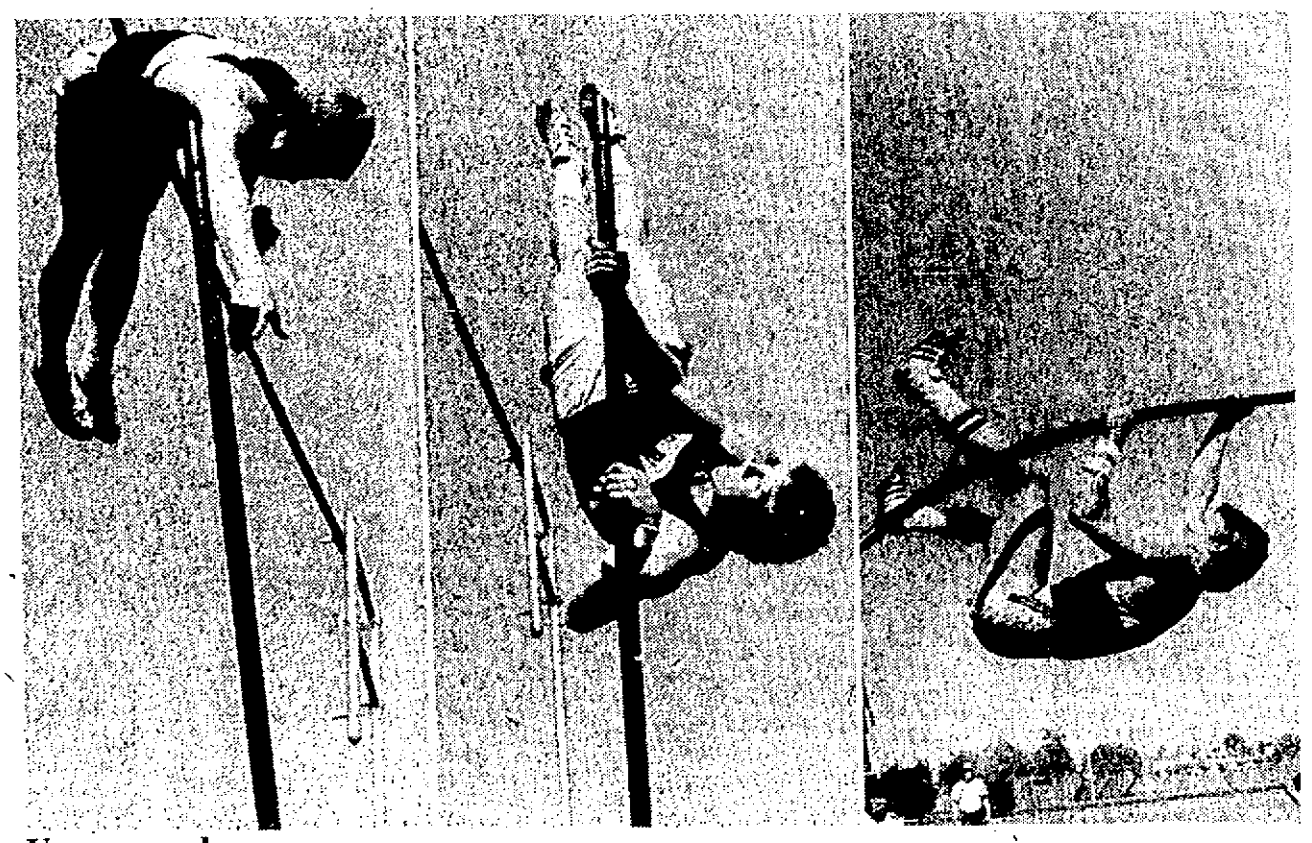

Burgess won the steeplechase in 9:07.2 after being sidelined almost two months with an injured heel.

Friday's other winners were Ward Sorensen of Fresno State, who threw the hammer 179-7 to upset Aldo Congi of San Jose State (168-0); Mike Weeks of San Jose, who won the discus with a record throw of 186-3, and Dan Gruber of San Jose, who ran away from Rich McCandless of Long Beach in the final mile to win the 10,000 meters in 29:55.0.

'It was easier than Pony League'

Sandlot umpires work Cubs-Pirates game

Associated Press

Al Cohen, whose last umpiring job was in a 1974 American Legion game, went all the way behind the plate in a National League game Friday night as Chicago defeated Pittsburgh, 5-4.

"It came to me very easily," said Cohen, who joined three other sandlot umpires in handling the game after the regular N.L. crew honored a picket line set up by striking stadium vendors. Cohen, in his 50s, is the security chief in the suburban North Hills School District.

Although he has umpired hundreds of games, he was idle the past two seasons. "Getting old," he said. Yet the Pirates and Cubs said he and his cohorts did a creditable job.

"I don't think either side can complain," said Cub coach Jim Marshall. "I told my players to understand the situation and be lenient, and as it turned out, those guys did a great job."

What if the Cubs had lost?

"Nothing would have been said," Marshall stated. "The teams went out there even. It was the same for both." The move also had been approved beforehand by N.L. president Chub Feeney.

There were no disputed calls in the game, which was pretty well decided by the Cubs' four-run fourth inning. Jose Cardenal had a two-run double to highlight the surge.

"I was just thinking. It's been quite a year for me," said the grey-haired Guckert, who coached the city's Fifth Avenue High School to a state basketball championship last winter.

"It was easier than Pony League," said Shratz, a former Arizona State baseball player. "These are great players. They make the easy plays and the hard plays, and you don't have to worry about anybody throwing to the wrong base and things like that."

The regular umpiring crew, headed by Lee Weyer, also included Nick Colosi, Ed Montague and Paul Runge.

"If the strike is on, we will be back tomorrow," Cohen said after a post-game meeting with pirate general manager Joe L. Brown.

In the other N.L. games, Philadelphia beat St. Louis, 2-1; New York tripped Montreal, 4-3; San Diego defeated Cincinnati, 4-2, and Atlanta crushed San Francisco, 8-0. In the American League, Baltimore downed Detroit, 8-5; Milwaukee nipped Cleveland, 4-3; New York stopped Boston, 6-5; Chicago blanked Oakland, 6-0, and Kansas City whipped Minnesota, 5-1.

Steve Carlton won his fourth game in five starts as the Phillies won their sixth in a row. The N.L. East leaders have lost only once in 16 games this month.

Randy Jones pitched a five-hitter for his eighth victory and seventh complete game, and Dave Winfield smashed a grand slam homer, leading San Diego over Cincinnati. Jones lowered his earned run average to 2.27 while handing the Reds their third defeat in succession.

Doug DeCinces, Brooks Robinson's replacement at third base, blasted a grand slam home run to power Baltimore. He has 12 hits in his last 29 at-bats.

DODGERS WIN, 2-1—

Hooton pitched exceedingly well when he had to, getting ever-dangerous Bob Watson once with two runners on base, and Cesar Cedeno to end the game.

When asked about the Dodgers' chances in 1976, Hooton just smiled and said, "Sure, we've got a chance, but there's a long, long way to go."

That's true. A year ago today the Dodgers also led the Reds, by 5½ games.

DODGER DOPE: In their second player move in as many days the Dodgers are optioning shortstop Ivan DeJesus to Albuquerque, effective today, and are promoting outfielder Joe Simpson (.331 at Albuquerque) who will report tonight...Catcher-outfielder Danny Walton, called up Friday when John Hale was sent to Albuquerque, was in uniform against the Astros...Dave Lopes was back at second base after missing three more games because of his bad side...Ron Cey missed his first game because of a painful groin pull. Ed Goodson was at third base...Friday night's sellout was the Dodgers' fifth of the year...The Dodgers have signed two of the draft choices, both pitchers: Paul Bain from El Camino College, coached by former Dodger Joe Moeller and Jack Lawson of Phoenix...Pitching tonight's 7 o'clock game will be Don Sutton (4-4) and Gil Rondon (0-1).

DODGERS SECOND

ASTROS SIXTH

DODGERS SEVENTH
Yeager homered to left, his sixth. Russell got an infield single to short. Hooton sacrificed. Lopes struck out. Buckner flied out. One run, two hits, one left.

JORDAN—

The hit drove in Ron Herrin, who had singled to short with one out.

Herrin, who had two hits, also figured in the game's other run in the third when the Panthers chased Eisenhower starter Jerry Sanchez.

Bob Hudson, a junior righthander who had gone nine innings Tuesday, got the final out and checked the Panthers on one hit the last 3⅓ innings.

The three hits off O'Toole came with two outs — by Jeff Oliphant in the third, pinch-hitter Tom Rey in the fifth and Nate Miller in the ninth.

Rey was the only one of the three to reach second, advancing on a wild pitch. But O'Toole got catcher Glenn Horton to strike out to end the Eagles' one mild threat.

Molley threw out two runners Friday night from his catching position. He has gunned down five in three games, and picked two men off first.

Chambers-led Santa Monica CIF track king

By DAVE FERRELL
Staff Writer

It's too bad Santa Monica's Tim Chambers is only a junior. He would have ended his high school career with a bang at the Southern Section CIF 4-A finals Friday night at Cerritos College.

Chambers not only made a shambles of a personal duel with Millikan's Kevin Gibson and Jordan's Clarence Hopper in the 330 low hurdles, but led Santa Monica to the team championship with blazing performances in the 440 and mile relays.

After racing to his fastest time of the season to hold off Gibson in the 330 low hurdles, Chambers came within one-tenth of Newport Harbor's one-year-old, one-lap meet record of 48.0. Chambers then ran a 46.9 anchor leg in the mile relay as Centennial lost the team title by running out of its lane.

Gibson almost caught Chambers after starting 10 yards behind, finishing second in 37.2. Chambers clocked 37.1 and Hopper took fourth in 38.1.

The first four finishers in all events except the 330 hurdles, mile and two-mile qualified for the CIF Masters Meet Friday at Cerritos. Five places qualified in those events.

Poly's Rod Miller posted a personal best of 58-6, finishing third in the shotput behind John McKenzie of Hart, who tossed 67-9.

Clark Cox of Wilson also lowered his career record in the mile by exactly five seconds with a 4:16.6 clocking. Cox placed fifth behind Don Moses' winning 4:10.9 for Crescenta Valley. Moses time was one-tenth off the meet record set by Andy Clifford of Sunny Hills in 1974.

Burned piston Friday; qualifying today?

The clock keeps running, but Janet doesn't

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — With practice time rapidly nearing an end, the needed speed for qualifying continued to elude Janet Guthrie Friday in her bid to become the first woman driver in the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

There are 10 spots to fill today and Sunday in the 33-car starting field May 30, and if Miss Guthrie can't improve on her best practice speed of 171.492 mph, it's highly unlikely she will qualify.

"It'll go faster than 171, the question is how much faster," she said Friday afternoon, sipping a cold drink while her crew made another in a seemingly endless series of adjustments to the Vollstedt-Offenhauser racer.

"There's just too doggone many things to change all at once, unfortunately," the tall, 38-year-old brunette said.

The latest problem, a burned piston, sent the car to her garage Friday.

Whether or not she qualifies, Guthrie already has made history.

She is the first woman to enter the Indy 500, the first woman to drive around the 2½-mile track in other than a publicity stunt, and the first woman to pass the mandatory rookie test which will enable her to make a qualification attempt.

The problem in practice has been the car—not Janet Guthrie.

Teammate Dick Simon, who has qualified another Vollstedt at 182.343, has been able to push her car only to 174.284.

What has been done to Janet's racer?

"How much paper do you have," replied car owner-builder Rolla Vollstedt, who has worked day and night to get her vehicle in shape.

"We burned another piston in our third engine," Vollstedt said. "Then we installed a late style Drake (Offenhauser) engine—this one with questionable connecting rods. We'll be taking a chance it'll stay together—at least long enough for Janet to qualify."

"Our biggest problem has been lack of time on the track," said Vollstedt, who has had one mechanical setback after another since arriving at the Speedway nearly three weeks ago. "The only way I can figure it is that the bad luck has to change awfully quick.

"She must have had 80 laps, but it's not consistent ... just a few at a time," Vollstedt said. "She hasn't had the opportunity to build her confidence and skills. Even non-driving racing professionals don't realize how difficult Indianapolis is to drive at speeds necessary to qualify."

The slowest of the 23 qualified cars belongs to veteran Jim McElreath, at 179.122 mph. Two weeks ago, it seemed unlikely that anything slower than 180 would qualify, but Vollstedt said it's possible that a 174 could squeeze in.

Would he forego a qualification attempt if Janet could go no faster than 171?

"Well, we'll have to wait and see. If the field is filled and the slowest is 169, then I'll gladly take a 171."

What if the field isn't filled?

"Then I'd go to the end of the line and wait to see how the others qualify."

Veteran Lloyd Ruby, who has started more Indy races than anyone except A.J. Foyt, took his first practice ride since being selected to drive an Eagle-Offenhauser for Mike Devin. Ruby, 48, seeking his 17th Indy start, got up to 176.367 mph.

The top speed of the day was a 190.880 by Foyt in a backup car. Al Unser turned in a 188.285. The 1969 winner, Mario Andretti, who passed up last week's qualifications for the Belgian Grand Prix, hit 188.088.

One driver who will not attempt to qualify is Sam Sessions, 40.

Bill Hill, a longtime friend and sprint car official, said Sessions had given away his helmet and uniform and gone home to run a truck stop in Grand Rapids, Mich.

Campregher defends title

L.B. match play begins

Sixty-four players, led by 1975 champion Tony Campregher, begin the two-week countdown today in the 52nd Long Beach City Match Play Golf Championship at El Dorado.

When the final shot is fired Sunday, only eight players will remain. A single round will be played today and two matches Sunday. The quarter and semifinals will be held May 29, the 36-hole finals May 30.

Campregher is not quite on top of his game and may find formidable opposition from as many as a dozen players. He is a working man now and does not play every day.

Mike Bellmar, the SoCal Public Links champion, qualifying medalist Jeff Newell and every-day players such as Chuck Wallace, Randy Pallis, Roger Fagan, Chuck White, Phil Caputo, Rich Johnson and Curt Ambrose also are title threats.

There are fewer seniors in the field this year, but all appear capable of winning a few matches. Among the seniors are Willard Bryan and Ed McBratney, former finalists; Tommy Hickman, John McMonegal and Del Walker. McBratney and McMonegal meet in the first round.

Billy Conigliaro faces charges

NEWBURYPORT, Mass. (AP) — Former Boston Red Sox outfielder Billy Conigliaro has been indicted on two counts of assault and battery with a dangerous weapon.

An Essex County grand jury returned the indictment this week against Conigliaro, 28, of Nahant.

He is alleged to have assaulted John McCarthy and William Appleton Jan. 18 following a fracas outside Tony C's Lounge in Nahant.

Conigliaro began his professional baseball career in the late 1960s. He played for the Red Sox in the early 1970s.

He is a brother of former Red Sox outfielder Tony Conigliaro, whose career was shortened when he was hit by a pitch in 1967.

LBCC maintains title hopes; Cerritos ousted from playoffs

SAN PABLO (Special) — Long Beach City College kept its hopes for a state junior college baseball title alive Friday but defending champion Cerritos College was eliminated in sectional play.

The Vikings, who were shut out, 6-0, by Chabot Thursday, responded with a pair of big innings en route to a 10-3 victory over Contra Costa in the Northern Division playoffs.

LBCC will face Fresno, an 8-0 loser to Chabot, today.

Long Beach opened the scoring in the second inning with four runs on only two hits. Three times during the inning Contra Costa players threw to the plate in force attempts, but were late on each occasion. The final run scored when Todd Hewitt was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded. Pat Estes and Dan Gausepohl singled for the only LBCC hits.

The Vikings were again aided by poor fielding in the fifth when they scored five times to put the game out of reach.

Contra Costa suffered through two errors by the second baseman, another late throw to the plate and two wild pitches. Gausepohl had one of the two hits—a double. Perry Maloney opened the inning with a single.

Gausepohl, Estes, Orlando Bryant and Vern Followell led the Vikings' 10-hit attack with two each.

Mike Lord went the distance for the Vikings, scattering eight hits. He was in serious trouble only in the sixth when he gave up two runs.

CERRITOS' attempt for a fourth consecutive state title came to an abrupt end at Saddleback College Friday when the Falcons were routed by Moorpark, 11-4 in Southern Regional play.

The Falcons, who had defeated NCAA World Series-bound Fullerton State, 2-0, May 15, were outscored 21-8 in their two playoff appearances.

Moorpark scored in six of the eight innings in which it came to the plate, failing only in the first and sixth.

Kevin Jacobson and Greg Stiles did most of the damage for Moorpark. Jacobson drove in four runs with a home run and double while Stiles scored four runs as he singled and walked three times.

Dennis King kept his record perfect (9-0) with the win. King was wild, walking eight, but the Falcons could not take advantage, stranding 11 men.

Cerritos employed five pitchers who walked 12 batters. Starter Dave Patterson hurled 4⅓ innings and yielded six earned runs to suffer only his second loss of the season against 14 wins.

Cerritos had the best record in the state, 33-6.

Marti birds last two, holds lead

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Journeyman Fred Marti, again saving the best for last, birdied his last two holes for a 68 and regained a two-shot lead Friday in the second round of the $200,000 Danny Thomas-Memphis Golf Classic.

Marti, who has collected almost $300,000 in his 13-year pro career but has yet to gain his first triumph, ripped six strokes off par on the last five holes of his first round, blew the two-stroke lead, fell behind at one time and then, with his closing surge, again set his advantage at two strokes.

Blalock weathers storm for LPGA lead

JAMESBURG, N.J. (AP) — Jane Blalock fired a 3-under-par 68 despite adverse weather conditions Friday to take the first-round lead in the $76,000 Ladies' Pro Golf Association Golf Classic at the Forsgate Country Club.

Although swirling winds and a 70-minute rain delay pushed scores skyhigh, Miss Blalock, 30, of Highland Beach, Fla., turned in what she considered "one of my five best rounds this year. My mind was right; my game was right," she said of her five birdie, two-bogey performance.

Miss Burfeindt, 30, of Palm Springs, carded three birdies and two bogeys on the 6,056-yard course. One of the longest drivers on the women's tour, Miss Burfeindt said she wasn't surprised at her play on the wind and rain-swept course, pointing out she's been under par in six of her last seven rounds.

Miss Haynie, 32, of Fort Worth, Tex., bogied the par-3, 194-yard 17th and had to settle for a 70.

MOTORIST TORTURED ON HIGHWAY

Driving a sluggish car that coughs, misses or drags on the highway can be sheer torture. Erratic engine performance is often caused by crankcase contaminents and sticking mechanical parts. In such cases you can help restore lost performance thanks to a special formulation called WYNN'S ENGINE TUNE-UP. This famous oil treatment works in 10 minutes as you drive to help quiet valves and lifters, while it dissolves away harmful deposits. So to help end highway torture, GET WYNN'S ENGINE TUNE-UP today. ANGELS—

Briles improved his record to 4-1 Friday night with a four-hitter as the Rangers treated a Bat Night delegation of 40,854 — largest in the history of the franchise — to a 5-2 victory over the Angels.

"One and one-half months doesn't make a season but I'm gratified to be doing so well, especially after he (Lucchesi) went out on a limb for me," Briles declared.

Asked to recite the reasons for his strong comeback, Briles managed to do it in two words:

"I'm healthy," he said.

"I never really thought I was at the end of the line because nothing structurally ever went wrong with my arm. Both injuries were freakish things over which I had no control. That's what made it so frustrating."

The elbow mishap last year was the best example. Briles was struck on the right elbow while he was throwing in the Royals' bullpen. The incident occurred during batting practice.

"I saw baseball's best friend, Dr. (Robert) Kerlan, and he gave me a couple of injections. I don't know what it was but the elbow responded," Briles said.

The Angels would testify to that.

After Bobby Bonds doubled home Rusty Torres with a run that gave the Angels a 2-1 lead in the third inning, Briles proceeded to thoroughly throttle the visitors and the only other nibble they got was a two-out, ninth inning single by Joe Lahoud.

Prior to Lahoud's hit, Briles retired 15 in succession.

Mike Hargrove's two-run homer off loser Don Kirkwood (1-4) in the third provided the Rangers with their margin of triumph and enabled them to curtail a four-game losing streak.

Hargrove was later skulled on top of his helmet by Angel rookie reliever Paul Hartzell and removed from the game, but Hargrove was reported to be feeling fine after the game.

Briles, who hails from what he calls "the ghost town" of Dorris, Calif. on the Oregon border, also snipped Jerry Remy's hitting streak at 11 games, but Toby Harrah of the Rangers extended his to 13 with a run-scoring single in the fifth inning.

ANGEL ANGLES: Outfielder Bob Jones, who joined the Angels Thursday night, suffered a mild ankle sprain when he tripped at the hotel. He will probably be sidelined until Monday. Jones, 26, felt he should have been on the Ranger team in 1975 following a productive season at Spokane during which he hit .300 with 91 RBI. "I had a good spring with the bat, too," Jones recalled, "but Billy Martin told me I had to be more aggressive at the plate. After a year like that, I didn't know I had to be."

How they scored

ANGELS SECOND

RANGERS SECOND

ANGELS THIRD

With two out, Torres walked. Bonds doubled, scoring Torres, and took third on Smalley's throwing error. Bochte grounded to short. One run, one hit, one error, one left.

RANGERS THIRD

With two out, Randle singled to center. Hargrove homered to right, his third. Harrah grounded to short. Two runs, two hits.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Tight end graduates in home economics

The New Orleans Saints don't just have a brawny tight end in Henry Childs, they've got themselves a rookie with a home economics degree—one of only four males in a graduating class of 238 at Kansas State University Friday.

Childs, 25, was granted the degree in family and child development after spending much of his field study time at Wichita's juvenile detention center. He also took the normal home economics courses in nutrition, textiles and money management.

"I just decided that I wanted to work at something where I could deal with people," said the former business major. "I don't think any of the teenagers I worked with realized I'm a football player, but it could be an asset some time."

Feeney gives Turner fair warning

Colorful Ted Turner, a maverick among major league baseball owners, has been ordered to change his behavior, but the ultimatum by National League president Charles Feeney may have fallen on deaf ears.

"I'll do anything I want to, but he said I better do what he said," revealed the Atlanta owner, who has offered his players $500 bonuses for each victory over 81 this season and additional cash if attendance surpasses 900,000.

Feeney also "suggested strongly" that Turner not play poker with his players. "I asked him why not? It's relaxing and it's only penny-ante stuff anyway," said Turner. "He said, 'You might win money from them.' I said, 'So what? They can afford it'."

Best bypasses Bicentennial Cup

If anything, George Best is loyal. One of the world's greatest soccer players will not compete for Team America in the upcoming American Bicentennial Soccer Cup tournament. He claims the Aztecs need him more.

Best said he couldn't take two weeks off from North American Soccer League play for the six-game series "especially after we lost last Monday, and the way we played. I think I should stay here and get something started with the Aztecs. After all, they are my employers."

Boy using near-severed arm again

This week, David Goldberg pitched his first Little League game in almost a year. He struck out seven and walked eight in three innings. Not bad for a kid whose arm was nearly completely severed in a motorcycle accident last June 29.

Besides pitching, batting and fielding, the San Diego youngster also plays tennis and tackle football. His only problem, he says, is constantly having to explain to other youngsters how he got those strange looking scars on his arm. "Now I tell them I got bitten by a shark."

Two Canadiens missing from Cup

Don Awrey played 72 regular-season National Hockey League games for the Montreal Canadiens, but his name will not be etched on the Stanley Cup. Neither will John Van Boxmeer's because he performed in only 46 matches.

"If you don't play for the Stanley Cup, how do you expect to get your name on it?" asked NHL president Clarence Campbell, explaining how the two are ineligible because they never appeared in any of the Canadiens' 13 playoff games. "Somebody who plays 72 regular season games has a right to be upset, but the people he should be upset with are his management, not the league."

BRIEFLY: Doctors have forbidden World Hockey Association scoring champion Marc Tardif from competing for Canada in the Canada Cup international tournament in September because of the brain contusion he suffered April 11. What's even worse, in Tardif's opinion, is they won't even allow him to play golf...Two men were charged with burglary Friday after someone broke into several motel rooms, including one occupied by pro golfer Eddie Pearce. Pearce, competing in the Danny Thomas-Memphis Classic, reported losing $100 and a money clip which were recovered...The California Relays in Modesto, Martin Luther King Games in Atlanta and the International Track Association meet in El Paso highlight the track and field scene today. Weightmen John Powell, Al Feuerbach and George Woods along with sprinter Reggie Jones, intermediate hurdler Jim Bolding and Long Beach State pole vaulter Don Baird are among those competing in Modesto. High school sensation Houston McTear has the likes of Harvey Glance, Steve Williams and Rey Robinson to beat in Atlanta...Richie Kates of Trenton, N.J., faces Argentina's Victor Galindez in Johananpesburg, South Africa, today for Galindez' World Boxing Association light heavyweight title...The fate of the Kansas City Scouts and California Golden Seals will be high on the agenda at the NHL board of governors meeting Tuesday in Chicago. The Scouts have been operating on league funds while the Seals are up for sale again. The Kansas City Kings of the National Basketball Association Friday withdrew an offer to buy the Scouts...Atlanta Braves manager Dave Bristol and coach Vern Benson have been fined by the National League for bumping umpire Harry Wendelstedt in Houston Monday. Wendelstedt ruled Atlanta first baseman Darrell Evans pulled his foot from the bag on a throw with two out in the ninth inning, allowing Houston's Cesar Cedeno to score the winning run..."Racing is like a damned disease: You can't stay away. You learn to love the crowds, the people, the way of life," said pioneer stock car driver Buck Barker, making a comeback at age 57.

Oregon St. wins

CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Gail Meier got three hits in four times at bat and batted in three runs Friday as Oregon State beat Oregon 10-0 in a Northern Division Pacific-8 Conference baseball game.

LANCERS—Schmidt upsets Wilkins

Williams, who had also survived a shaky first inning when El Segundo had two runners on and only one out, turned over a new leaf with a 6-2 lead to work with.

The strong-armed right-hander gave up back-to-back hits with two outs in the sixth but was unconcerned, especially after he doubled home two more runs in a three-run fifth.

Williams got El Segundo's 6-4 first baseman, Keith Cleary, to ground into a game-ending double play. Cleary, who had 10 homers and 40 RBI entering the game, walked, struck out and singled in his other trips.

El Segundo finished its season 20-12.

McCarron posts another triumph

Chris McCarron, the leading rider at the meeting, guided Mamie Taylor, a 6-year-old mare to victory in the six-furlong dash timed in 1:11 3/5. The mutuel payoff was $3.80, $2.80 and $2.60. Heather Ridge paid $11.40 and $6.20 and Dancing Riffle was $3.80 for show.

Crosby to Cards; Powell activated

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians Friday activated veteran first baseman Boog Powell and assigned the contract of utility infielder Ed Crosby to the Tulsa Oilers of the American Association.

Crosby, a Wilson High graduate, becomes the property of the St. Louis Cardinals, the team affiliated with the Oilers. Crosby, 26, began his major league career with the Cardinals in 1972, was traded to Cincinnati in 1973 and came to Cleveland in 1974 along with Luis Alvarado in exchange for Jack Heidemann.

COLOGNE, West Germany (AP) — Wolfgang Schmidt of East Germany tossed the discus 225-1 for a European record, upsetting world record holder Mac Wilkins of the Long Beach Pacific Coast Club, and Guy Drut of France whipped American Charles Foster in the 110-meter high hurdles in a pre-Olympic track and field meet Friday night.

Schmidt shattered the European record of 224-5 set four years ago by Ricky Bruch of Sweden, beating Wilkins in their first duel of the season. Wilkins set the world mark of 232-6 May 1.

Drut, France's top gold medal hopeful for the Montreal Olympics, skimmed over the hurdles in an electronically timed 13.49 seconds to edge the fast-closing Foster, who was timed in 13.55. Willie Davenport, the U.S. gold medalist at the 1968 Olympics, was third in 13.87 seconds.

Dan Ripley, also of the PCC, won the pole vault with a leap of 17-2¾.

Steve Riddick, a U.S. sprint longshot for Montreal, swept both the 100 in 10.32 and the 200 in 20.82, winning by wide margins on an artificial track slowed by moisture from a pre-meet rain storm.

Razorbacks hold tryout camp today

The California Razorbacks, who open Western Professional League play July 3, will hold tryouts today at 1 p.m. at Los Alamitos High.

All prospective minor league football players are requested to be attired in shorts and football shoes. Official practice for the 11-game seasons begins June 1.

LBCC 'darkhorse' in So-Cal track finals

Long Beach City College track coach Don Mulligan rates his team a "darkhorse" for the Southern California track title today at 5 p.m. at Mt. San Antonio College.

"Bakersfield should win it, but Harbor, Fullerton and Grossmont will be tough," said Mulligan.

LBCC sends nine men—its most since 1967—to the finals. Best bet for points are pole vaulter Craig Wilson (16-7¾), quartermiler Gerald Peete (48.2) and the mile relay team of Larry Flewellen, Leon Hawkins, Michael Griffith and Peete (3:16.3).

Other LBCC finalists include Barry Welsch and Ed Vallez (1,500 meters and steeplechase), 400-meter hurdler Larry Norwood, discus thrower Dave Fuller, javelin thrower Shaun Ward and triple jumper Gerald Halcomb.

Fullerton has the largest contingency (15 men), followed by Bakersfield with 14.

49ers lead track

"We've already set a record for protests, or near-protests," meet program director Bill Tisdale remarked as the steamy session struggled toward a conclusion.

The diplomatic squabbles included:

• A protest San Jose filed, and then withdrew, when it realized that Long Beach would gain a point if the complaint was upheld. The Spartans protested that Martin Stevens of San Diego was using illegal gloves in the hammer throw, but withdrew it when it was noted that LBSU's Fritz Coffman would be moved from fourth to third in the standings, giving Long Beach another point.

• There was also an extended discussion on whether or not Baird had taken three "official" jumps at 16-6, the 49ers contending that the first try was a "practice" attempt. Officials ruled against Long Beach.

That was just about the only thing that went wrong for Long Beach Friday.

Allice entered two hurdlers, Paul White and Craig Durck, in the intermediates so that semifinal heats would be required, a maneuver that meant that Dedy Cooper, the brilliant San Jose hurdler, would have to run an extra race.

Cooper won his 400 IH heat handily, but the 49ers got a bonus when White and Durck also qualified for the finals, Durck advancing when Fresno State's Chuck Lowe, who beat Durck by five seconds, was disqualified for trailing his leg over a hurdle.

The 49ers also got heady performances from sprinters Jeffrey Williams, Greg County and freshman Rodney Grace, all of whom qualified in both the 100 and 200 meters.

There were additional points for Long Beach from McCandless and Matt Sommer, too, after they finished behind Gruber in the 10,000.

Steeplechase— Burgess (LB) 9:07.2, Foley (FS) 9:16.7, Aguayo (LB) 9:16.2, Raymond (FS) 9:59.4. No fifth or sixth.

Decathlon (5 events)— Hippensteel (FS) 3,506 pts., Byron (FS) 3,409, Bayless (LB) 3,355, Gaeta (FS) 3,122, Browne (LB) 3,084.

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — The Muhammad Ali-Richard Dunn world heavyweight title fight was turning into one of boxing's major financial busts Friday, with the estimated loss to its German promoters of close to $500,000.

A report on ticket sales from the Bavarian State Travel Service, which is handling sales in Germany for the fight, was even more pessimistic than figures used by the American co-promoter, Robert Arum of Top Rank, Inc., to make the loss projection.

Arum said that, on the basis of 6,000-7,000 seats sold for the 12,000-seat Olympiahalle, the German fight backers—Promot—could clear about $600,000.

"Their nut (breakeven point) is somewhere over a million," Arum said. "This means that they're a $400,000 to $500,000 loser."

But the state travel service said only 4,500 to 5,000 seats had been sold.

The most notorious flop in boxing history was Jack Dempsey's 1923 fight in Shelby, Montana, against Tommy Gibbons, which led to the failure of several banks.

"The Americans like Arum don't take big losses in this one because they make safe money on selling the television rights and don't put much money up front," a source close to the promotion said. "The Germans, who perhaps should have known better, will have to bear it all."

Reports that Promot was also having trouble paying the rent for the arena were denied by Olympiapark, GmbH, which owns the Olympiahalle, scene of the 1972 Olympic basketball final.

Ali was dragged into the mess Friday when he was asked to announce on the U.S. Armed Forces Network that American military personnel would be given a 50 per cent discount on any tickets, whose prices range from $12.50 for standing room to $400 at ringside.

Arum said that the price scale was too ambitious, "but when people think they can make a lot of money, it's hard to tell them how to lower their sights."

Promot is a mysterious corporation originally capitalized at $8,000 earlier this year. It arranged the agreement to bring Ali to Munich with a $150,000 cash deposit in March, then followed this with a $275,000 letter of credit.

Promot was to have paid Ali $225,000 more, the equivalent of the German tax he was estimated to have to pay on his income. When the money was not produced Thursday, cancellation of the fight was threatened. But the tax estimate was scaled down to $165,000 and Promot signed agreements that made certain Ali would get the money.

Arum claimed Promot owed him $125,000 for television production costs that the Germans contracted to pay, but said Friday he had settled for $60,000.

Lack of interest cancels Ascot

What would happen if someone promoted a race and no one showed up?

The half-mile flat track motorcycle program at Ascot Park Friday evening was canceled because of lack of interest. Only 19 riders reported for duty.

Shorter favored in U.S. Olympic marathon trials

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Frank Shorter, who won a gold medal in the marathon at Munich four years ago, acknowledges he's the favorite for today's 26-mile, 385-yard event in the U.S. Olympic Trials.

It's a familiar role for the young Colorado attorney.

"I've been favored for a long time, so I've gotten used to it," Shorter said. "When you start worrying about losing you should get out.

"The object is to finish in the top three as easily as you can."

"It's not like most track races, where you have to run as hard as you can to qualify," Shorter said. "You have to run here and you must have something left for the Olympics, so you don't drain yourself."

In the 1972 Olympic Track and Field Trials, also in Eugene, Shorter and Kenny Moore of the Oregon Track Club crossed the finish line together followed by Jack Bachelor, Shorter's teammate with the Florida Track Club.

"The field is much better this year," said Shorter. "Four years ago, 2:20 would be the third-place time. Now there are 30 to 40 with better times than that."

Today's marathon is only the second Shorter has run in the last two years.

"The marathon isn't the kind of race you train for by running," he said. "I thought it would be better if I stayed away for awhile. I didn't have to prove to myself I could run it because I knew I could.

Caucasus, Royal Derby II share Hollypark favoritism

If Cardiff Stock Farm's Caucasus and Fogelson and Whittingham's Royal Derby II were to race in separate interests in today's $46,050 South Bay Handicap at Hollywood Park, 40,000 fans probably would have a difficult time choosing which one to make the favorite.

However, with the two grass stars performing as an entry, and with Edington thrown in for good measure, local turf enthusiasts will have to decide whether to take the three-horse coupling at odds-on.

Caucasus, one of England's top runners last year, Royal Derby II, an import from Australia, and Argentine-bred Edington will race as an entry because Cardiff Stock Farm owns both Caucasus and Edington, while Charlie Whittingham trains Caucasus and Royal Derby II, and is co-owner of the latter.

The 11-furlong South Bay is a conditioned race for older runners which have not won a race worth $15,000 to the winner sice Dec. 25. In post position order, the field attracted Copper Mel (Darrel McHargue-113 pounds), Pampas Host (Francisco Mena-112), Edington (Robert Gonzalez-109), Popular Victory (Bobby Howard-113), Blue Times (Frank Olivares-113), Chief Pronto (Laffit Pincay-116), Royal Derby II (Bill Shoemaker-115), Silver Saber (Don Pierce-110), Caucasus (Fernando Toro-124), Red Orange (Marco Castaneda-110) and Ameri Flyer (Sandy Hawley-117).

If all 11 start, the winner will pocket $28,050 and a possible invitation to the $200,000 Turf Handicap on May 31.

Caucasus was bred in Kentucky but was taken to England for his early racing lessons. The son of European horse of the year Nijinsky II and 1958 champion 2-year-old filly Quill won four of five outings overseas including the classic Irish St. Leger. Caucasus still is looking for his first American score, having finished fourth and second in a pair of classified events.

Royal Derby II, a full brother to the former grass runner Daryl's Joy, is two-for-two at the meeting against slightly lesser foes. The 7-year-old horse is seeking his first American stakes score. A victory by any horse other than Caucasus or Royal Derby II would be a mild surprise.

Just A Kick, a victor in the recent Costa Mesa Handicap, against the top distaffers on the grounds, found classified fillies just as easy Friday as the Roger Clapp-trained filly sped to a wire-to-wire, 1½-length triumph in the $25,000 Morningside Purse.

Shoemaker finds some fickle fans

Veteran jockey greeted by boos

It was just two months ago that Southland racegoers gave Bill Shoemaker, the world's winningest jockey, a rousing ovation after he scored the 7,000th victory of his career at Santa Anita.

But the old race track axiom of "what have you done for me lately" came into play when Shoe was showered with boos after his sixth-place finish on Sibirri in the fifth race Sunday.

Sibirri wasn't even the favorite, but Shoemaker had been aboard four heavily backed choices Friday and Saturday and all four had been beaten. Charger's Star (3-5), Vol Au Vent (1-2), Strong (7-5), and Crystal Water (4-5) had failed for Shoe.

While the players were upset with him, trainers are more than happy to have the 44-year-old veteran ride for them. "There was absolutely nothing he could do with my horse. It was just one of those crazy instances where a hole never develops. I'll sure use him if I can get him," is the way trainer Ralph West talked about Shoemaker and his trip aboard Charger's Star, who was trapped behind horses throughout her turf-course effort.

GREENER PASTURERS—Action is the name of the game to the powerful Dan Lasater stable. The nation's leading money-winning outfit has a tremendous overhead. To keep the books in black ink, Lasater steeds must see plenty of action.

When trainer David Vance shipped West to Hollywood Park several years back, it was the lure of the rich Hollypark program that caused the invasion. But Vance discovered his stock didn't match the class needed to compete locally, there wasn't enough action and the stable returned to the East Coast in mid-season.

Following a "must" season at Oaklawn Park, the main Lasater forces shipped this year to Chicago, planning to compete at Sportsman's Park, Hawthorne and then the long Arlington-Washington meet. The stable, 50 strong, was expected to strengthen competition on the Windy City circuit.

But Lasater won't campaign at Arlington. "We've changed our mind," said general manager Dick Fisher. "A lot of races that fit our stock didn't fill at Sportsman's and they aren't filling here at Hawthorne.

"We'll ship to Keystone near Philadelphia and then we can head for any one of several tracks which are no more than 100 miles away."

The pressures of success—maintaining three farms, a massive breeding program and more than 150 horses in training—forces the Lasater gang to seek greener pasturers.

DEPARTURE BACKLASH—Could the departure of the Lasater string have been behind the reported appearance of a Chicago race track aide at Golden Gate Fields this week?

An assistant to Guy Clank, the racing sec at Arlington Park, is said to have been touring the grounds of the strike-bound Golden Gate track, passing out stall applications. "No names, just the number of shippers," was the reported cry of the day.

Favor Gent in Los Al marathon

Bids for fifth consecutive win

American Gent bids for his fifth successive victory tonight in the $8,000-added War Chic Stakes as Los Alamitos Race Course brings down the curtain on its abbreviated opening weekend.

The first full week of racing during the 82-night summer season begins Monday night, with the Los Alamitos Derby trials and the Leo Stakes highlighting next week's racing at the Orange County track.

The War Chic has attracted six top distance performers—Little Go Fleet, Go Deer Go, Big Badger, Wheatland and Olde Smoothie—in addition to probable favorite American Gent. Post time is 8 p.m.

AMERICAN GENT enjoyed a sensational Bay Meadows meeting in which he won his last four races in succession, including a head triumph in the Hillsdale Handicap, the 870-yard championship of that Northern California meeting. The Hoist Bar 5-year-old, claimed for $3,500 before beginning his distance campaign, turned in a 44.90 clocking while winning one event at Bay Meadows and figures to be the heavy favorite in the War Chic.

American Gent, who finished far back in the War Chic as the favorite last year, has earned $20,000 in five months after winning $23,000 in 1975. He will carry high weight of 126 pounds, the same load he toted to victory in the Hillsdale Handicap, and will spot his five rivals from four to eight pounds. Kenny Hart will be in the irons.

Wheatland is the reigning state record-holder after turning in a 44.70-second triumph last spring.

IN FRIDAY night's features at Los Alamitos kicked off its 26th summer season, Ed Dee narrowly nipped Triple Beat and favored Mr. Capri Deck while Maskeo Lad, the nation's champion 3-year-old colt last season, stepped off a $17.60 upset victory in the $13,800 Inaugural.

Ed Dee finished a head in front of Triple Beat at the wire and paid $14.60, $5.80 and $2.80 for his 17.95-second sprint. Triple Beat held on for second and Mr. Capri Deck third.

A crowd of 13,500 saw Maskeo Lad outdistance She's Precious and favored Wanta Go as trainer D. Wayne Lukas marked the fourth successive year he's handled the defending national quarter horse champion with a successful opening venture in the Inaugural.

LYNDON LAMPOONED

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — "Barry Lyndon," described as a "cinematic wallpaper catalogue," was named worst movie of the year Tuesday in the Harvard Lampoon's annual tongue-in-cheek pans.

The college humor magazine bestowed its annual Natalie Wood Award for worst actress on Diana Ross for her work in "Mahagony."

The film headed the magazine's list of 10 worst movies.

The others included "The Hindenburg," "Mahogany," and "Once Is Not Enough," of which the Lampoon said, "We beg to differ."

Rounding out the worst 10 were "Tommy," "At Long Last Love," "The Other Side of the Mountain," "Day of the Locust," "Story of O" and "Shampoo."

Burgess Meredith was named worst supporting actor for his role in "Day of the Locust." Madeline Kahn took worst supporting actress for "The Adventure of Sherlock Holmes' Smarter Brother" and "At Long Last Love."

By HARRY TESSEL
Staff Writer

The film is now showing in Long Beach, Lakewood, Torrance, La Mirada and Orange County.

"The only thing I could think to do was stick out my hand. Then he kissed my hand, put his arm around my shoulder, and the two of us walked slowly along this mountain road.

"He was talking very soft and low. But I don't remember a word he said until we stopped and he turned me around to face him.

" 'Little lady,' he said, 'you're going to be fantastic.' Then he kissed me on the cheek and we walked back to the filming."

Miss Lloyd, who was born in San Jose and studied acting at UCLA, was in television for seven years. A consultant for the film, then in its planning stages, spotted one of her shows.

She was tracked down, and when director Arthur Penn called, she remembers:

"I dropped the phone when it hit me who was calling, but it was a good thing because I was speechless. But the time I picked it up, I was able to say yes and get the address and time."

She was tested and signed for the role of a wealthy rancher's sexy daughter. Brando plays a "regulator" hired by the rancher to stop a band of horse rustlers led by Nicholson, Miss Lloyd's love interest.

PRODUCER Irwin Allen has signed famed screenwriter Carl Foreman to write "The Day the World Ended," a $15 million all-star spectacle based on the best-seller.

CELEBRATED French film-maker Claude Lelouch will produce, write and direct "Si C'Etatit a Refair" ("If You Had to Do It All Over Again") starring Catherine Deneuve, for United Artists. It's the story of a woman whose life has been scarred by imprisonment.

FILMING begins Monday on "The Heretic: Exorcist II" at Warner Bros.' Burbank studio. Locations will be New York, Washington, D.C., Rome and Africa. Stars are Linda Blair, Richard Burton, Louise Fletcher, Max Von Sydow and James Earl Jones.

TWENTIETH Century-Fox has signed Sir Alec Guinness for "Star Wars," a space fantasy, and Jan-Michael Vincent has been inked for "Damnation Alley," about a handful of nuclear-war survivors.

Sinatra and press: a love-hate story

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The curious relationship between Frank Sinatra and the press is underscored once more with a new "unauthorized biography" by New York columnist Earl Wilson.

Sinatra continues to revile us and say all manner of evil against us. Yet we go on writing about him. Why?

Wilson, who never lost his wide-eyed Ohio attitude in the big city, offers no real answer in "Sinatra" (Macmillan, $9.95). He himself fell victim to the Sinatra scorn, yet now he has authored a 355-page book that Wilson says is "eminently fair."

His reward from the subject of his biography? A $3-million lawsuit charging that the book, although complimentary, is "false, fictionalized, boring and uninteresting."

Sinatra himself is reportedly midway through an autobiography apparently aimed at correcting the false legends.

Wilson reflects the perplexity of those who have tried to chronicle the activities of Sinatra over the years. For 25 years Wilson felt he had a close rapport with Sinatra, then suddenly found himself barred from a Florida opening.

"After trying to be an honorable newspaperman with a reputation for getting along with big personalities, to get this slap in the face made me crumble spiritually," the columnist writes. "The word 'barred' is a degrading one in my business, and it had never been used against me before."

Wilson recovered from the blow and went for five years without talking to or writing about Frank Sinatra. Then he mellowed and printed nice things about the singer's 1975 European tour. Wilson was invited to the Sinatra-John Denver concerts in Nevada, and peace was declared. But then Wilson had the effrontry to write a biography.

Is it "false and fictionalized"? It would take a busload of Philadelphia lawyers to decide for sure. But Wilson is a good reporter and he doesn't appear to go beyond the facts as he knows them or as they were reported at the time.

Is it "boring and uninteresting"? Only to those who are bored or uninterested in the Sinatra saga, of whom there may be a few. But there are many, many more who can't get their fill of Sinatra lore and, if the singer keeps contributing to the publicity campaign, the book may well become a best-seller.

It's all there: the rise and fall of the bobby-sox idol; the comeback with "From Here to Eternity"; the marriages and divorces with Nancy, Ava and Mia, all of whom remain friendly; the meticulous artistry of his musical career, the "One-take Charlie" sluff-off as an actor; the petty feuds and the selfless acts of beneficence.

Wilson tells the events with little analysis. He does offer an explanation for the split with Ava Gardner, as leaked by her psychiatrists:

"Frank was guilty of trying to be a caveman, according to one expert who had interviewed Ava's Psyche. His strutting and peacocking had eroded whatever small self-confidence she had left. Ava had been testing her strength with Francis Albert Sinatra just to make sure she had some. He hadn't responded the way she felt he should, so Ava felt weaker instead of stronger."

Wilson observes that Sinatra does not like the peaceful but prefers to be "a warrior, an unhappy warrior." He adds:

"The conflicts make him a bigger box-office attraction than all the happy singers. Sinatra knows exactly what he is doing. By protesting that his privacy is being invaded, he gets free advertising for his eccentricities — and his bookings ...

"In that sense he has made dupes of the press for 30 to 40 years. The press gives him free space to blast the press. It has found no way to refuse him space for his outbursts because he is colorful and controversial, and a story about him may be the most interesting thing in the paper."

Best Viet actor asks U.S. role

SAN DIEGO (AP) — "I am a good actor with no place to act," says Doan Chau Mau.

THe 59-year-old war refugee, named best actor in South Vietnam in 1971, fled Saigon a day before it fell last year. He has tried since then to find work in this country.

"Twice I talked to people in Hollywood, girls at desks who told me that I needed an agent," Doan said in an interview.

"Once I talked to somebody on Sunset Boulevard, but the agents don't accept people at all unless they have credits in American movies."

The negatives of his 18 films made over a 17-year career are behind in his Communist-ruled homeland, along with Doan's home in Saigon and mountain home in the Dalat resort.

With only a handbag, he accompanied his wife, a son and a grandson to the U.S. Embassy in Saigon. "It was lucky somebody recognized us and waved us in," said Doan.

An evacuation ship took them to the Phillipines and then to Wake Island, where they spent six weeks before being moved to Ft. Chaffee, Ark. A son working in the San Diego area as an insurance salesman bought his parents a home in suburban Spring Valley with his $2,000 savings and a bank loan.

But the $320 monthly payments have proved too high, and the house is being sold.

Doan and his wife, Do Thi Dien, may visit a 29-year-old daughter, Doan Thanh Van, who works in the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel gift shop. Or another daughter, Doan Thanh Tuyen, 22-year-old violinist and singer who appears in Los Angeles-area nightclubs.

The producer of "Stone Tears," the Vietnamese movie for which Doan was voted his country's best actor, has the negative of that film but told Doan he lacks money to develop a positive print to show agents. Meanwhile, Doan lives unhappily on public welfare.

The role of an American Indian is one he could play, said Doan.

Dennis Doan, his bright and Americanized grandson who is already a fifth-grader, also wants to be an actor.

"Someday I will act, but first my grandfather will act once again," said Dennis.

Tire company to drill for gas

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. plans to drill for natural gas in the middle of its production complex here, and says that if the first effort succeeds, it has additional sites in mind.

Thomas F. Minter, Goodyear executive vice president, said the first well was expected to produce enough gas each month to cut the company's commercial requirements by the equivalent of the average monthly gas needs of 150 homes.

EARL'S PEARLS

Today's Best Laugh: Life has a way of balancing things. Nowadays what you pay for a few drinks is enough to sober you up.

Wish I'd Said That: After watching some high fashion models, Bill Copeland figures that for models it seems to be the survival of the flattest.

Remembered Quote: "Don't confuse education with honesty. I know a man who speaks a dozen languages — and he's a liar in all of them." — Cong. Tennyson Guyer.

Scotch drinkers dated?

Knight News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. — If you're a Scotch drinker who's nearing 40 and you're sensitive about your age, maybe you should change your taste in alcohol.

Every time you belly up to the bar to order a Scotch on the rocks, you may be dating yourself, judging from liquor industry research, which shows that 74 per cent of confirmed Scotch drinkers are older than 35.

Bourbon and American blended whiskies also are favored by the older-than-35 set; and that doesn't bode well for their sales in the next five years, a liquor-marketing expert told some 200 liquor and wine wholesalers meeting here.

"The children of the post-World War II baby boom are maturing — like a fine wine, you might say — and their preferences are going to be the overriding factor in liquor sales in the forseeable future," Robert G. Shoniker, president of R. G. Shoniker and Associates, a Canadian marketing firm, told liquor wholesalers.

Historically, the liquor industry advertising has been aimed at the more mature and sophisticated, but during the next five years the 25- to 35-year-old age group — now more than 30 million strong — will become the industry's major marketing target, Shoniker said.

Despite all the attention paid to the "youth revolution" and the drug culture, market research indicates that the young adults who were the teenagers of the '50s are still turning to alcohol for release and relaxation, Shoniker said.

The baby boom generation will drink just as much alcohol as their parents, but under different labels, he said.

Vodka, gin and Canadian whisky, are heavily favored by men and women younger than 35, while relatively few drinkers in that age group are likely to buy Scotch or bourbon, the marketing man said.

Rum and tequila also are extremely popular with young adults, Schoniker said, but he predicted that the popularity of tequila would decline during the next five years.

"Sales of tequila have jumped by 31 per cent this year, and it's especially popular on college campuses," he said. "But we don't think that will last long. The tequila boom will probably peak out by 1980 because of what we call 'lazy consumers' — drinkers who don't want to go through all the fuss that's required to make margaritas and other tequila drinks."

The "spiked milk shake" fad, set off by the recent appearance of several brands of liquor-and-milk drinks in package stores, will come to an end even sooner, he told liquor wholesalers.

"For one thing, money is important to young adults; and it's not going to take them long to realize that it's cheaper to buy their own milk and liquor, and mix their own 'shakes,' than to buy these drinks by the bottle." Shoniker said.

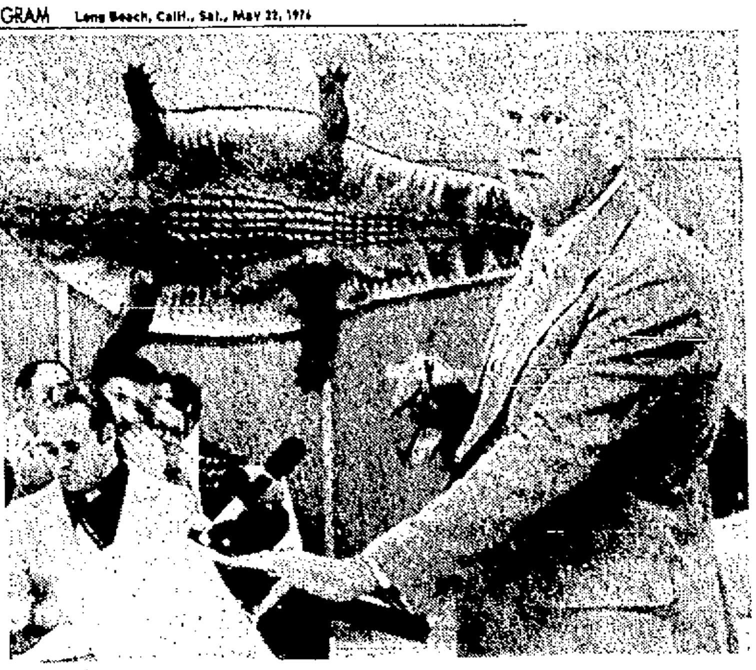

Old favorites like bourbon and blended whiskies will suffer a much more gradual decline in sales — at the rate of perhaps 2 to 3 per cent a year — he predicted.

Brandies and cordials, on the other hand, are increasing in popularity.

As young adults improve their financial status, they're more likely to indulge in such expensive, after-dinner liqueurs; and sales of those products are expected to increase at the rate of 3 to 5 per cent annually, partially on the basis of their "snob appeal," the marketing expert said.

Thieves get $200

Alice C. Rutan, of 4911 Daisy Ave., told Long Beach police that burglars who entered her home through a bathroom window took $200 in cash.

Alligator backlash brings scrapping of trapping ban

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Fearing a backlash against an alligator invasion of Florida suburbs, the State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission scrapped a decade-old ban Friday and will allow commercial trapping of the reptiles.

In a unanimous vote, commissioners adopted a new alligator-management policy allowing commercial harvesting of the animals "in areas where there are serious conflicts between alligators and people."

"We've got a major problem with a real explosion of alligators in many urban areas of the state," said Dr. Earl O. Frye, director of the commission. "They're eating dogs and cats, and there has been a growing number of attacks on people.

"If we don't take positive action quickly, the public is going to be so turned off we won't be able to get convictions for killing them."

Frye said the new policy won't begin until the commission completes an alligator-research project and adopts specific rules and regulations.

The new policy also depends on approval by federal officials of switching the classification of alligators in Florida from endangered species to threatened species.

Currently, Louisiana is the only state with an alligator-trapping season.

Florida game officials estimated that the state's alligator population has mushroomed from an endangered level 10 years ago to more than 500,000 today, resulting in an overpopulation in urban areas.

Six alligator attacks on humans have been reported in Florida in the last two years, including one death, and Frye said there are now more than 10,000 complaints a year against alligators in canals and lakes.

The new policy came despite the objection of the Florida Audubon Society, which said a resumption of trapping would result in the reappearance of an illicit hide market supplied by poachers.

"The policy says the harvesting would be limited to those with experience in trapping and skinning alligators," said Audubon lobbyist Charles Lee. "The only people around with experience are the poachers."

One witness at the commission hearing, Ernestine Denkins of Leesburg, said she had first-hand experience with the increasingly aggressive nature of alligators.

"A five-footer came right up into our yard and got our dog," she said. "Of course he was a small dog, but something has to be done. We're afraid to even go swimming in the lake anymore."

ATLANTA (AP) — A California man, a New Mexico woman and an Arizona boy have contracted bubonic plague this year, and the man and woman died, the national Center for Disease Control reported Friday.

CDC said all three had secondary pneumonia, a rare complication that "creates the potential for secondary spreads to people who have been in contact." But the plague did not spread in any of the cases.

The CDC said in its weekly morbidity report that only 5 of 86 plague cases reported to the CDC since 1950 have had evidence of secondary pneumonia.

The plague is spread by yersinia pestis, an organism that infests fleas, and is carried to humans through flea bites, CDC said.

A 45-year-old Bakersfield, Calif., man contracted plague symptoms on April 13 and died April 20. An investigation revealed there had been a die-off of ground squirrels around his home not long before that. The squirrels were tentatively identified as the source of infested fleas.

A 63-year-old woman from a New Mexico pueblo had skinned a pack rat and a rabbit five days before plague symptoms developed April 26. She died May 11. The pack rat was the source of infestation, CDC said.

The 15-year-old Arizona boy found a dead cottontail rabbit, dismembered it and fed the carcass to his dog, CDC said. The boy developed plague but recovered after being treated with antibiotics.
